

BRYAN AND STEVENSON WILL MEET TUESDAY.

Chairman Jones, Governor Stone and Other Leaders Also Will Attend the Conference.

Mr. Towne Will Seek Advice To-day on the Populist Vice Presidential Subject—Bryan's Warning Against the "Spirit of Empire."

Lincoln, Neb., July 7.—Whether Charles A. Towne will continue in the vice presidential race as the nominee of the Populist party, or whether he will withdraw, will be decided within the next fifty hours.

Mr. Towne, George Phel Williams, Joseph Daniels of North Carolina and William Abbott reached Lincoln about midnight. Mr. Bryan met them at the train, but remained with them only while they were being driven to their hotel. Mr. Towne declined to be interviewed, pleading weariness, and retired immediately.

Tuesday Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic nominee, will be here, and so will Chairman Jones, Willis J. Abbott, J. G. Johnson, chairman of the Executive Committee, and ex-Governor Stone of Missouri. It is expected that Mr. Towne and Mr. Williams will remain over to consult with them. Mr. Towne will withdraw if Mr. Bryan says so. The only question is the one upon which Mr. Bryan desires the advice of his friends—i. e., will Towne be of more value as a Populist candidate, upon whose election failure can be secured in the Northwest?

Auditor Cornell of Nebraska, a leading factor, said to-night that Towne must not withdraw; that if he does it will make Nebraska a doubtful state, for the reason that it will drive Populists to midroad candidates. He says the only thing that can be done is for the Populists to name Bryan and Towne and have the Democrats ignore them.

The Nebraska State Convention will be held next Wednesday. Tuesday night a monster ratification is planned, at which Mr. Bryan and Mr. Stevenson will be present.

This telegram, sent to-day from Montpelier, Vt., was received by Mr. Bryan: "The nominations and platform have given great satisfaction. My heartiest congratulations. ELIOT DANFORTH."

A telegram from Pittsburg gives the information that the Democrats of Allegheny

STEVENSON ON THE PLATFORM AND THE CAMPAIGN.

St. Paul, Minn., July 7.—I am more than pleased, my dear friend, to see you as a candidate, and I feel deeply gratified. I realize that you will not be insensible to gratitude.

Adlai E. Stevenson expressed himself thus to-day when asked if he would speak about his nomination at Kansas City. "I approve of the entire platform, and I believe the outlook for the party to be bright," he continued. "I will not make any idle boasts and declare that our success is certain. I realize that we will have a fight, but I believe that the party will win, and I will do my best to help gain a victory."

"I would rather at this time refrain from discussing the platform in particular, as I have had but little time to consider it. I have merely looked it over while on the train. But I believe that imperiousness in the campaign and the issue that the fight will be made on.

"As to my plans for the campaign, I cannot at this time say anything, as I have not had the time to give the matter the thought it requires. Of course, I knew several days ago that my name would be considered, as the Illinois delegation was expected to suggest the change, making my nomination a foregone conclusion. I did not consider myself a real candidate, for I replied that I was in the hands of my friends.

"I expect Senator J. K. Jones, who has a cottage right near here, to arrive in a few days and then I will consult with him and now something more definite regarding plans than I do now. I will, of course, take an active part in the campaign, but until Chairman Jones arrives I will not know just what I am to do.

"I intended staying at the lake all summer, but my nomination has changed all this. I shall remain here for a day or two. Yes; it is quite likely that I shall go to Lincoln to confer with Mr. Bryan.

"How glad I feel to be nominated from the second time," asked an enthusiastic Democratic admirer as he shook hands with Mr. Stevenson.

The question caused a smile to wrinkle the face of the white-haired Illinoisan, but he quickly replied that he felt as deeply gratified now as he did when he was named the running mate of Grover Cleveland.

"I approve of the entire platform, and I believe the outlook for the party to be bright," he continued.

County have unanimously endorsed the nominations and platform.

Mr. Bryan was re-elected this afternoon by the delegation of 69 Nebraska Kans. He had neither had nor waite on and shook hands with all on the lower step of his porch. President Tomson of the Traveling Men's Club assured him of the hearty support of the commercial travelers of Nebraska. He said, among other things, in reply:

"I congratulate the State, as well as myself, on the delegation of sixteen that went to Kansas City to represent us in the National Democratic Convention.

"No party ever adopted a platform better than the one adopted at Kansas City. It is plain and explicit on every subject. I have been informed by several that it is just like an old-fashioned Methodist camp meeting. Four years ago there were those who went out from the convention to work against the ticket, and this year the hall had to be enlarged to admit those who came back. All this indicates good for the party."

"The meeting at Kansas City was filled with enthusiasm that means good for the party, and you all reflected credit on the people whom you represented, which lies at the basis of our success. The fight this year will be carried out in the spirit of that song you so often repeated, 'My Country, 'Tis of Thee.' If we lose, our children will be proud to have us as their fathers and our fathers as their heroes."

These telegrams are among the hundreds received by Mr. Bryan. "FRANK CAMPBELL," "Abraham, Mo., July 6.—W. J. Bryan: A thousand congratulations to Bryan and Adlai E. Stevenson."

"MRS. R. P. ISLAND," "Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—W. J. Bryan: You have been nominated a long time, but I rejoice to know that the roll has been called and the record made. I hope for the most glorious result."

"KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 6.—W. J. Bryan: Congratulations. We will do our best to carry New York for the ticket."

"HOW GLAD I FEEL TO BE NOMINATED FROM THE SECOND TIME," asked an enthusiastic Democratic admirer as he shook hands with Mr. Stevenson.

The question caused a smile to wrinkle the face of the white-haired Illinoisan, but he quickly replied that he felt as deeply gratified now as he did when he was named the running mate of Grover Cleveland.

"I approve of the entire platform, and I believe the outlook for the party to be bright," he continued.

"I would rather at this time refrain from discussing the platform in particular, as I have had but little time to consider it. I have merely looked it over while on the train. But I believe that imperiousness in the campaign and the issue that the fight will be made on.

"As to my plans for the campaign, I cannot at this time say anything, as I have not had the time to give the matter the thought it requires. Of course, I knew several days ago that my name would be considered, as the Illinois delegation was expected to suggest the change, making my nomination a foregone conclusion. I did not consider myself a real candidate, for I replied that I was in the hands of my friends.

"I expect Senator J. K. Jones, who has a cottage right near here, to arrive in a few days and then I will consult with him and now something more definite regarding plans than I do now. I will, of course, take an active part in the campaign, but until Chairman Jones arrives I will not know just what I am to do.

"I intended staying at the lake all summer, but my nomination has changed all this. I shall remain here for a day or two. Yes; it is quite likely that I shall go to Lincoln to confer with Mr. Bryan.

"How glad I feel to be nominated from the second time," asked an enthusiastic Democratic admirer as he shook hands with Mr. Stevenson.

The question caused a smile to wrinkle the face of the white-haired Illinoisan, but he quickly replied that he felt as deeply gratified now as he did when he was named the running mate of Grover Cleveland.

"I approve of the entire platform, and I believe the outlook for the party to be bright," he continued.

MAI ADMINISTRATOR IN THE PHILIPPINES. Charge Made by Former Private Secretary of General Merritt, Just From the Orient.

Says the War Is Far From Ended—Effect of Martial Law in Manila, Where It Still Is In Force.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Port Dodge, Ia., July 7.—Ernest E. Wheeler of Algona, former private secretary to General Merritt, and former secretary of the Manila Chamber of Commerce, is home from the Philippines, where he has been since the landing of the first troops. He declares the American people have been grossly misinformed in affairs in the Philippines. Our rule in those islands has been a maladministration, he asserts, and is so recognized by all independent observers in Manila.

"The misapprehension of the people of the United States regarding the Philippine Islands," says Mr. Wheeler, "is only equalled by the ignorance of the Filipino of what constitutes good Americanism. After two years of attempted rule, the two people still misunderstand each other and the little brown men, who received the armies of the United States with childish glee in 1898, now despise with an awful hatred the Americans and everything pertaining to them."

"President McKinley's proclamation to the people of the islands, promising everything and fulfilling nothing, was, by a people long accustomed to broken promises, most bitterly received, and served to widen the breach that became a battlefield in February, 1899."

"Upon my return to America I have been everywhere greeted with the exclamation, 'I suppose the war is now over.' Nothing can be further from the truth. Before leaving Manila I took pains to interview many of the leading merchants and business men of the city."

"It was the general opinion that it was more unsafe in the interior of Luzon at the present time than ever before. Roving bands, composed of from twenty to a hundred men, ranging to pick off small detachments of Americans or plunder some caravan."

"It is now almost two years since Manila was first occupied by the Americans, and the city is still under martial law. To the people of America this means nothing, for they know not what martial law is. It means absolute loss of personal rights, a condition such as would allow citizens to be taken from their homes and put in prison without having any charge preferred against them at the pleasure of some military official."

"Before I left Manila, Mr. Wheeler, the purchasing agent of the railroad, came to me and said that a conductor on the road by the name of Messick had been arrested two weeks before, and that no one had been allowed to see him or find out upon what charges he had been confined."

"I went to the law office of John Hyndoff and placed the case in his hands. It took even two months to get the case. The man was eventually tried and set free. This is but one instance out of hundreds of the same kind which are being committed upon the fair name of the United States."

WHAT IS OUR PURPOSE IN CHINA? Julian Hawthorne on "Expansion With a Vengeance"—Is It Worth While, Even From a Money View Point?

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE. (In the New York Sunday Journal.)

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. New York, July 7.—It would be interesting to know the reasons for the form of government we desire to participate in this scramble for Chinese territory with England and the rest of Europe.

It has been obvious for more than a year, even to the uninitiated, that England and the rest of them were warring against their own interests. They were warring against the interests of the United States, and the interests of the United States were being sacrificed to the interests of England and the rest of Europe.

It is hardly probable that the present form of the Republic government will long continue. It is a government of the people, and the people are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it.

It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it.

It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it.

It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it.

It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it.

It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it.

It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it.

It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it.

It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it.

It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it.

It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it.

It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it.

It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it.

It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it.

It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it.

It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it.

It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it. It is a government of the few, and the few are not in favor of it.

SIX LIVES LOST IN ERIE SQUALL.

Cleveland Ship Owner's Yacht, With Family Aboard, Went Down.

ONE PASSENGER WAS SAVED.

At the Approach of the Storm the Women Became Panic Stricken and Resisted Attempts to Rescue Them.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Cleveland, O., July 7.—The schooner yacht Miller was lost in a terrific storm six miles off this port this afternoon with six persons, all members of the family of James Corrigan, a wealthy vessel owner of this city.

MRS. JAMES C. CORRIGAN, wife of the owner of the yacht. MISS CHARLES REILLY, aged 22 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Corrigan. MISS JANE CORRIGAN, aged 20 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Corrigan. MISS IDA MAY CORRIGAN, aged 15 years. MISS ETTA CORRIGAN, aged 13 years. RABBIT HILL, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Corrigan.

"Cleveland, O., July 7.—The schooner yacht Miller was lost in a terrific storm six miles off this port this afternoon with six persons, all members of the family of James Corrigan, a wealthy vessel owner of this city."

"The yacht left Port Huron yesterday with the family of Mrs. Corrigan aboard and six crew members. Mr. Corrigan was ill and left by the train."

"At 2 o'clock the storm came up, and in five minutes the yacht sank. All the women excepting Mrs. John Corrigan and Miss Etta Corrigan were in the cabin when the gale came up. They became panic-stricken, and refused to leave the place. The mate implored them to come to the deck, but they refused. Mrs. John Corrigan was a cow-suckle when the gale came and was saved."

"It was about 2:15 that the small tug 'Herald' came to the rescue. The mate of the yacht said that the yacht was in the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are afflicted with kidney trouble. If the child urinates or is often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage. It is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step to take is towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble. Both need the same great remedy, Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail from also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Early this morning the great grain district of the West was swept by a heavy rain, and the grain was water-logged, and all grain beaten to the ground.

TIDAL WAVE. Much Damage by Lake Michigan's Fall and Rise.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Chicago, Ill., July 7.—Without warning and to the surprise of the people of Chicago, the waters of Lake Michigan rose and fell and shifted today. From points along the lake reports are made of damage done by the wave, or whatever it was, that caused the waters to rise and advance with such startling rapidity.

Boats were left high and dry by the outward rush of the water, and the incoming wave was high enough to wash water over the roofs of houses. In the Chicago River the water rose and fell with wonderful rapidity, and there were several accidents to crafts.

Friday the greatest tidal wave place in the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall it seemed as though the water had all been carried out into the lake, and it was not until the water had fallen, according to measurement exactly forty-seven inches."

"The fall of the water was first noticed by a boy in a small boat. He felt the boat sinking in the mud, and when he reached the shore he reported the matter to the harbor at Kewanna. At the time of the sudden fall