BLAMES LUXURY FOR HIS BURDEN OF DEBT.

Rich Man's Son Says His Life of Ease Unfitted Him for the Care of Wealth.

Mr. Tifford's father's will will require an annual income of $6,000. Judge Warren W. Foster of the Court of General Sessions and the United States Trust Company are the executors under the will. An application was made to Justice MacLean in the Supreme Court for an injunction to restrain the executors from paying Mr. Tifford more than $4,000 a year and apply $2,000 to the payment of the judgment creditor.

Mr. Tifford in his petition sets forth that with interest and costs, and as Mr. Tifford had positively refused to pay anything on the claim, there was nothing else to do than attach the income.

Mr. Tifford's wife, Mrs. Rita Selby, a member of the "Trip to Chinatown Company."

His Habits are Extravagant.

Resists Efforts to Cut Down His $6,000 Income to $4,000, on the Ground That He Needs the Money.

New York, Oct. 19.—George E. Tifford, son of the late Charles E. Tifford, who was senior member of the firm of Park & Tifford, grocers, in answer to a petition for an order to compel him to pay a judgment for $26,000 to George E. Ford, out of his income, gave the following reasons for not being able to pay his debts:

"My father left an estate of about $1,000,000. I have been brought up in idleness with the object of inheriting a large estate. I have therefore never acquired any business habits so as to fit me to acquire property or enable me to take care of it."

"I was never in business except when I was a boy, many years ago. I lived for years on a large and liberal allowance made to me by my father. I am married, and my wife, who is a native of France, is supported by me. She was brought up, educated and reared in luxury. We have a child seven years old."

QUEER OVERSIGHT MADE BY CONGRESS.

Serious Defect in Presidential Succession Law Is Pointed Out.

AN INTERIM UNPROVIDED FOR.

An Acting President Must Step Down on "Election" of Successor, and Before Inauguration.

Washington, Oct. 19.—The death of one President and one Vice President in office since the enactment of the presidential succession law, in 1885, has set thoughtful men to considering how far that law would be effective in case an emergency should arise calling it into operation.

In one respect, the statute as it now reads unquestionably needs amendment or further definition. The statute names the members of the Cabinet in order of their seniority, declaring that each shall, under certain conditions, "act as President until the disability of the President or Vice President is removed, or President shall be elected."

If the inability of either President or Vice President were temporary, there would be no problem; but the death of both would raise the interesting question, who is to act as President in the interval between the election of a new President and his installation into office?

If, for example, both President and Vice President were to die or become permanently disabled, and the Secretary of State were to assume the functions of the presidency till the electoral vote was counted in the presence of the two houses of Congress on the second Wednesday in February, there would still be an interval of, perhaps, three weeks before inauguration, during which the new officers would not be elected, but not actually President or Vice President; yet the statute cuts short the administration of the Secretary of State on the day the new President is elected.

An Easy Remedy. The President could not act in the interval, for he would not have qualified, and, without additional legislation and, perhaps, a Constitutional amendment, it would not be possible to set the inauguration day back to the second Wednesday in February. If once set, because the line of the President's term to four years is specifically expressed in that instrument.

The same amendment to the statute as it stands, changing the phrase, "A President shall be elected," so as to read, "A President shall be elected and qualified," would settle the matter satisfactorily.

The case would be made even more difficult and troublesome if, after the election but before the inauguration, both President-elect and Vice President-elect were to die. The presidential powers of the Secretary of State would have ended with the election on the second Wednesday in February, and when the 4th of March came there would be nobody to inaugurate, and the Secretary of State of the late administration would then assume the powers of President for another four years—a condition particularly embarrassing if the partisan preference of the people had recently changed and the men latest elected President and Vice President were members of the opposite party from the Cabinet then in being.

As It Formerly Was. Before the succession law was passed the statute providing for the accession of the President of the Senate or the Speaker of the House contained also a provision that the Secretary of State forthwith proclaim and advertise the vacancies in the presidency and vice presidency and give notice of a new election. This was with a view to installing a duly elected President as soon as possible after the national calamity. With the enactment of the new law all these provisions were repealed, and the matter left in its present naked and unsatisfactory state. A movement will undoubtedly be made in the coming session to correct the defect.

Judge William M. Springer, who took a prominent part in the House when the present succession law was passed, says that the omission of any reference to the qualification of the new President was an oversight.

OLD BIBLE IS HIGHLY PRIZED.

Was Copyrighted by Emperor Ferdinand of Germany in 1544.

REPUBLICAN SPECIAL. Salina, Kas., Oct. 19.—One of the oldest Bibles in existence, perhaps the very oldest, is owned by E. M. Geis, a Salina traveling man.

It was printed at Cologne, Germany, in 1544, and has been a heirloom in the Geis family for many generations. It is printed in German and was copyrighted by Emperor Ferdinand on February 13, 1544. The binding is of black leather and is well preserved. The book is 10 1/2 inches long and 7 1/2 inches wide, and contains 714 sheets. The pages are not numbered, but the leaves are numbered with Roman numerals. It is illustrated with wood engravings.

The Bible was brought to America from Aschaffenburg, Germany, by John Geis, in 1811, and was kept for many years at Geistown and Johnstown, Pa. When John Geis died he bequeathed it to his son, William R. Geis, who brought it to Kansas thirty years ago and resided there for many years. It is now in the possession of E. M. Geis, who has preserved and handed down to the eldest male member of each succeeding generation of the Geis family.

A Bible was exhibited at the Chicago World's Fair, owned by a man of Monroe, La., which was thought to be the oldest Bible in existence, but the Geis Bible antedates it by thirty-five years. It is so highly valued by the Geis family that it is kept in a steel safe made especially for it. A request was made to allow the book to be exhibited at the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of Johnstown, Pa., but Mr. Geis refused to allow it to go out of his keeping.

FOREST FIRE MENACED TOWN. Great Damage Resulted From Carelessness of Boys.

Monterey, Cal., Oct. 19.—Forest fires have been raging in the hills back of Monterey and Pacific Grove, doing vast damage and threatening much more.

Gangs of men were kept at work backfiring and fighting the fire in every way. The fire destroyed a large area of timber land, and the loss will be very great.

A fire on the Pacific Improvement Company's extensive timber reservation, caused by the dropping and rolling of burning pine cones. It burned over a large territory, even reaching the main gate at the top of Carmel Hill. It was controlled by fire crossing the drive, however, and did little injury to the appearance of this famous roadway.

About two miles back of Pacific Grove it jumped to a number of children by an unknown colored man on Price Hill several days ago has been carefully examined by Police Surgeon French. He finds that none of the pieces that were submitted to him contained
