REPUBLICAN SPECIAL.

Washington, June 5.—The Browns may thank First Baseman Carey for today's game.

In the sixth inning, with one man on base, Hedrick hit to Moran and Burkett was flagged at second. Robinson made a good throw right into Carey's hands and the umpire called Hedrick out, but the ball dropped from Carey's paws just then and a double play was lost.

After that Priel was fielded out and then four hits were made and three runs scored.

The pitching honors belonged to Jack Townsend, who is a great puzzle to the Browns on most occasions. With a record of only one hit and one run in five innings he would have been made of him and no two in an inning.

Powell pitched a fine game, too, but if the Senators had not gone careless on one or two occasions, they might have scored another run or two. Dumb playing came out of them for a defeat. Captain Padden and Jody Wallace fairly ate up things in the field. Wallace did not have nearly so many chances, but they were more difficult.

PADDEN ACCEPTS TWELVE CHANCES.

Padden had twelve opportunities and he did not let anything get by him. The only semblance of a misplay on the side of the Browns occurred on a short fly to left, which both Burkett and Wallace tried for, but neither one reached it. Padden hauled Burkett over the coals for not coming in sooner. Manager McAleer is under the ban of the Senators, but he might just as well have sat on the bench, for he occupied a seat in a box that was within a foot of his field captain's ear.

The Browns did a lot of lively coaching from the bench and Umpire Sheridan was forced to warn them to desist or he would remove them from the game. The only line and he grew very sarcastic toward the umpire, all the while addressing his remarks to his fellow-players in the field.

Hedrick almost performed the act of stealing home from third, while Townsend was sending up his arm to throw to the plate. The batter hit when Hedrick was within ten feet of home, but a foul tip flew off the bat and Hedrick went back to third in disgust.

SENATORS STARTED WELL.

The Senators started to make things warm for Powell from the start. After the first two innings, Powell put a bolt past Padden for a base and Ryan put him to second on a sacrifice. Then Delahanty tipped off a single to right and Selbach came home. Priel threw to the plate, but Powell straggled in and caught Delahanty half way between first and second. Coughlin started, but Carey's weak shot to Anderson's right hand sent him to first on only two men got as far as third.

Robinson slapped a hard drive at right for three sacks in the fifth, and Selbach came home on a grounder to Padden, but Richard hopped him down at the plate. Two more hits were made, but the Senators were not Powell held them safe after that.

The Browns slipped off but three hits in Carey gave the game away. On this trip up Burkett batted to hunt to Coughlin, and Hedrick forced him to hunt to Coughlin. Selbach held the nicely to Carey, and he dropped it. Priel ground to right, and Coughlin bled the nicely to Carey, and he dropped it. T. M. BORCUP AND DOCTOR E. H. KESSLER. Who are presiding at the police revolver shoot, the final contest in which will be shot to-day. Doctor Kessler is local representative of the United States Revolver Association.

CAPTAIN CRECY NOW LEADS POLICE SHOTS.

Passes Dryden in the Second Day's Expert Shoot and Has Total of 160.

By scoring 81 points out of a possible 100 in the police revolver practice yesterday, Captain Crecy of the Seventh District took the lead of the thirteen experts competing in the final shoot and now holds first place by a margin of 3 points, with a total of 159. Dryden of the Ninth, who led in Thursday's shoot, is now in second place.

Dryden scored but 74 points yesterday as opposed to 82 on Thursday. The result enabled Captain Crecy to draw to the front and the two now hold a lead over the rest of their competitors by quite a wide margin. Dryden's total for two days is 157. Sears of the Central District, with a total of 147, is in third place. His mark yesterday was 71.

Harry Freese of the detective force, improved his work over the opening day of the shoot and made 72, the third high score of the day. This gave him but 124 for the two days, however, his poor work of the opening day has been corrected.

Several of the men in the last division seem hopelessly out of it, as they could not possibly catch up with the leaders, even by making a perfect score to-day. The final match, to decide the championship of the revolver, will be shot this afternoon. The winner will be the man leading at the close will be awarded the Commissioner's medal.

Captains Crecy and Dryden are still doing a good thing in the honor of Harry Freese, who is the best shot in the city. He is a member of the United States Revolver Association, and was with Spain.

THE BROWNIES, famous little people who have amused a million children, will reappear in to-morrow's Sunday Republic Comic Section. Every week hereafter.
