CHAMBERLAIN MAY RESIGN;
TARIFF SCHEME OVERTHROWN;
HOUSE STIRRED BY DEBATE.

Even If Colonial Secretary Is Persuaded to Remain in British Cabinet, His Scheme for a Preferential Duty Is Hopelessly Snowed Under by Almost Universal Condemnation From All Shades of Political Belief—Discussion Arises Over the Proposed Abolition of the Tax on Grains.

CHANCELLOR RITCHIE BOLDLY DENOUNCES COLLEAGUE'S PLAN

CHAMBERLAIN'S SUGGESTION IN FAVOR OF PREFERENTIAL TARIFFS FOR ENGLAND AND THE COLONIES HAS BEEN SO SEVERELY LANQUETED, EVEN BY MANY OF HIS COLLEAGUES, THAT HE MAY RESIGN FROM THE CABINET. IN ANY EVENT, IT APPEARS CERTAIN THAT HIS PROPOSAL IS DOOMED TO UTTER DEFEAT.

London, June 9.—The rumored resignation of Colonial Secretary Chamberlain is the most startling development of the proposal of the Chamberlain of the Exchequer, Mr. Ritchie, to abolish the corn tax, the debate on which kept the House of Commons today packed and agitated until midnight.

Even if Premier Balfour persuades Mr. Chamberlain to remain in the Cabinet, the Colonial Secretary's preferential tariff programme is hopelessly snowed under and his influence as a political power in Great Britain is at least temporarily eclipsed.

All the members of the Government who contributed to today's debate vigorously declared themselves as free traders and frankly opposed Mr. Chamberlain's proposal.

Except for Mr. Chaplin, not a voice on either side of the house was raised in effective support of Mr. Chamberlain's campaign.

Former members of Cabinets and private members, irrespective of party, protested against any tinkering with Great Britain's fiscal policy.

The Unionists voted with the Liberals in declaring themselves out-and-out free traders.

Premier Absent.
All that was lacking in the complete rout of the protectionist Cabinet Minister was Mr. Balfour's official pronouncement, as Premier, and, on behalf of the Government, that the Cabinet as a whole refused to adopt Mr. Chamberlain's views.

Both the Colonial Minister and the Premier were absent from the debate, because, according to reports, Mr. Balfour was spending the evening endeavoring to secure the resignation of Mr. Chamberlain from the Cabinet, notwithstanding his differences with his colleagues.

The debate was interrupted at midnight, when, under a sensation, Chamberlain of the Exchequer Ritchie said he hoped Mr. Balfour would be able to give the House on Wednesday a definite statement on behalf of the entire Cabinet, though he could not promise.

Balfour, Too, May Quit.
There are many members who believe tonight that Premier Balfour will also resign, and that a dissolution of the House is involved, for these rumors lack confirmation, the best opinion being that a solution of the crisis will be arrived at by Mr. Chamberlain's resignation or by an open declaration that he is willing to drop the proposal in his preferential tariff program.

Mr. Balfour's resignation was scarcely made to-day before it became a secondary consideration, as it was assumed, "In the middle of the night," such an unfounded rumour could be so described, raised about Mr. Chamberlain.

Chamberlain Pale.
The Ministers are in troubled faces. Mr. Balfour looking especially dejected. Mr. Chamberlain, deserting his usual place, paler even than usual, stretched himself nonchalantly at the end of the Treasury bench.

Throughout the afternoon he never exchanged a word with his colleagues. After Mr. Ritchie had renounced the Colonial Secretary's ideas, Mr. Chamberlain stalked out of the chamber without even a nod to the member who rose from the Treasury benches. Some who supported Mr. Chamberlain, refused to "eat the words" with which they had previously supported the government when the corn tax was originally brought in; others lauded Chamberlain for his refusal to pander to the spirit of protection; all demanded that Mr. Balfour enlighten them regarding the Government's view as a whole.

The Coffee Question—
Why the Coffee Critics Stick to Schotten's 1904 Coffee.

How to Save from 5 to 15 Cents on a Pound and Get the Same Good Flavor.

When you get attached to a coffee of certain flavor and strength you always want your coffee the same.

It's usually hard to have it the same. It isn't always the fault of the coffee—sometimes the cook or coffee-pot is to blame. But many times the fault lies with the coffee. Most coffee dealers don't give enough attention to keeping the flavors uniform. Sometimes after a certain brand has been introduced the quality changes.

Not so with Schotten's 1904 coffee—the same yesterday, today, and always. That's why coffee critics stick to Schotten's 1904.

When properly prepared it is the equal in strength and flavor of any coffee packed in cans for which you pay 30 to 40 cents.

It comes in one-pound cartons and sells for 25 cents. Ask your grocer for it. It's guaranteed.

Another club woman, Mrs. Haule, of Edgerton, Wis., tells how she was cured of irregularities and uterine trouble, terrible pains and headache by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"A while ago my health began to fail because of female troubles. The doctor did not help me. I remembered that my mother had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on many occasions for irregularities and uterine troubles, and I felt sure that it could not harm me at any rate to give it a trial.

"I was certainly glad to find that within a week I felt much better, the terrible pains in my back and side were beginning to cease, and at the time of menstruation I did not have nearly as serious a time as heretofore, so I continued its use for two months, and at the end of that time I was like a new woman. I really have never felt better in my life, have not had a sick headache since, and weigh 20 pounds more than I ever did, so I unhesitatingly recommend Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. MAY HAULE, Edgerton, Wis., President Household Economics Club.—$5000 worth of original of above letter printed on each bottle.

Women should remember there is one tried and true remedy for all female ills, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Refuse to buy any other medicine, you need the best.

"HEAVEN ALONE KNOWS WHAT IS COMING NEXT."
SAYS ROSEBERY REGARDING TARIFF PROPOSALS.

London, June 9.—Speaking at the Essex agricultural show today, Lord Rosebery remarked that there was a "likely coming next" in the House of Commons.

"Heaven alone knows what is coming next," added the former Premier. "Startling developments may be expected at any moment."

The proposed protection would stimulate Canada, Australia and India, and the advantages would be with them. The rural depopulation, the greatest evidence of the agricultural depression in this country, would increase and the prices of food would be raised. How long would the people stand that?

"Before the country reverts to the state of things which preceded free trade the people should thoroughly consider how narrowly they escaped national famine and revolution in 1846. These were only averted by the adoption of free trade, and might return if the country departed therefrom."

Not to Have Filtered Air.
House Kills Appropriation for City Hall Improvement.

The bill authorizing the installation of an air filtering plant in the City Hall was killed in the House last night. The general opinion was that the cost, $150,000, was too much, and that the matter was not a necessity.

An ordinance was introduced by McAdiffe authorizing the city to furnish free water to all the public baths, erected by the Civic Improvement League.

Mr. Withoff introduced a bill allowing the erection of temporary buildings in the neighborhood of the Plaza grounds. The structures must not be over 300 feet high, and must be torn down within thirty days after the end of the fair.

An evening train was missed and on this account Davis was compelled to spend a second night at the Four Courts. He is anxious to go back and face the charges which have been brought against him, he claims, maliciously. His father, Robert Davis, has come to Hot Springs to arrange for his defense.
