To Testify Relative to Existence of Prejudice When Motion for Change of Venue Is Heard.

Judge Douglas to-day will hear testimony of witnesses called by the defense to show that Harry A. Faulkner, charged with perot get a fair and impartial trial in St. Louis because of prejudice.

Editors of several newspapers will be among the witnesses. A number of reputable citizens, it is understood, will also be called. It is believed the defense will take up the greater part of to-day in presenting its evidence in support of the application for a change of venue. Circuit Attorney Polk on Monday probably will have a number of witnesses to testify that Faulknes can get a fair trial in St. Louis.

The application for a change of venue was filed yesterday afternoon, after the three men to complete the panel of twenty-lour men to complete the panel of twenty-lour veniremen had been selected.

Judge Douglas announced that he was ready to hear the evidence of the defense in support of the application. Attorney Thomas J. Rowe announced that he had not summoned his witnesses because he first wished to have the court decide whether they would be heard.
Mr. Rowe stated that he would have witnesses summoned at once. He declared that several newspaper editors would be called in order to establish the suthenticity of published articles and editorial commenta.
Attorney Rowe then began introducing in

The fire, which was supposed to have been started by boys living near Clayton avenue and the Manchester road, rendered several families homeless, besides causing damages amounting to $8,000 to property and furniture.

The fire originated in several sheds belonging to the Tamin Ice and Coal Company. A stiff wind was blowing and the firmes quickly communicated to the houses from No. 516 to No. 526 Mainchester avenue, and a general alarm was turned in.

The occupants of the houses at Nos. 50 and 522 were unable to save any of their effects. Mrs. Bessle McCabe lost $400 worth of furniture. Others whose homes were destroyed were Mrs. Mary Farshall. Prompt work by the Salvage Corps saved the stock of Louis Glockner, a furniture dealer, at No. 524-526 Manchester avenue. The property is owned by the Tamin Ice and Coal Company, Mrs. Catherine Engelte, No. 1212 Morrison avenue, and Mrs. Munchow. The fire originated in several sheds beevidence certain newspapers containing editorial comments and cartoons, which he said tended to show a prejudice against beodling in St. Leuis.

Even Judge Douglas was forced to smile and the attorneys laughed at the cartoons that were shown. Mr. Rowe had a bundle containing fifty newspapers, dating back to list May, which he said he wished to introduce in evidence. As they could not be presented in bulk he asked for time in which to sort them out and be able to present only the most important. It was then 4:30 o'clock and Judge Douglas adjourned court until this morning at 10 o'clock.

The twenty-four men who have been chosen for the nanel from which the twelve jurors will be selected, unless the motion for a change of venue is sustained, were excused until 10 o'clock Monday morning.

THREATEN CHURCH ORGANIST

Wife of Music Director Says She Slapped Priest's Face-The Reverend Father Duchon Denies Story.

The engagement of Julius von Uhurkowicz as organist of Holy Trinity Church, a Roman Catholie (Slavonic) Church in South St. Louis, is likely to prove a bone of contention in that parish, the results of which it is difficult to foretell. Charges of immoral conduct against the organist have been numerous in the parish for some time. They culminated Monday last, when Charles Hollos, a member of the parish, preferred charges against Uhurkowicz at the Second Precinct Police Station for assaulting his wife.

Hollos had previously reported the facts in the case to the parish priest, the Reverend Father Duchon, who had advised him to proceed cautiously in the matter. Father Duchon was assounded shortly afterwards when another member of the congregation came to him and reported that his wife also had serious complaints to make against the organist for immoral acts attempted in the school building adjoining the church. So much incensed had the members of the congregation become at this time that threats against the organist's life were rife in the community. Father Duchon then went to Uhurkowlez's house to advise him that it would be better for him to leave that it would be better for him to leave that it would be town.

Uhurkowicz's wife pushed the priest away from the door. She says she slapped him in the face. The priest denies that she did more than put her hand on his shoulder and closed the door in his face.
