

HAPPENINGS IN ILLINOIS CITIES AND TOWNS CHARGES HIS WIFE WITH FORGERY

Mrs. Katie Stoegner Arrested on Complaint of Her Husband.

William Stoegner of No. 75 Trembley avenue, East St. Louis, yesterday morning swore out a warrant against his wife, Katie, 22 years old, charging her with forgery.

She was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Rogers and taken to the police station.

The alleged forgery was committed on a receipt in payment of an installment on Stoegner's house, which he is buying from T. J. Steger of East St. Louis.

Stoegner alleges that he recently gave his wife $12 to be paid to Steger, and that instead she spent the money and forged the name of Steger's bookkeeper, Miss Bertha Ellis, in the receipt book Mrs. Stoegner said that she was not surprised at her arrest, but refused to say anything further about the case.

JUDGE FARMER WAS DISGUSTED

Said Large Number of Divorce Cases Was Disgrace to Christian County.

Upon opening the Circuit Court term in Taylorville the other day Judge William M. Farmer found no less than forty divorce suits on the docket, and expressed himself as disgusted.

"The Circuit Court docket is a disgrace to Christian County," the Judge exclaimed. "Not a divorce shall be granted among all these applicants unless clear testimony in support of the complaint is given."

A exactly similar condition will confront the presiding Justice in Madison County when the fall term of court opens. Out of seventy-eight proceedings filed so far, twenty-five are bills for divorce. Four of these cases alone were entered yesterday.

A noticeable point in this connection is that many of the applicants tell of a married life of only a few days. Sarah McVane complains that her husband, John, deserted her ten hours after the wedding. Mattie E. Crayne of Collinsville asks separation from S. W. Crayne, alleging infidelity, and states that they parted the same day they were married in Boulder, Colo. And the trader of Nipmook alleges that her husband, John Braden, left her two weeks after their wedding, and Henry Volk says he and his wife, Mary, separated a few months after they were married in St. Louis last January.

WORK ON ELECTRIC LINE STARTS.

New Road Will Connect Springfield, Ill., With St. Louis. Active work on the electric line which is to connect St. Louis with the Illinois capital starts tomorrow at Edwardsville.

The interurban system known as the McKinley syndicate and incorporated under the title of the St. Louis and Springfield Electric Railway Company and the Illinois Central Traction Company connect Springfield, Chicago, Urbana, Decatur, Bloomington and Carlinville, and are now reaching out for St. Louis.

To Be Overlooked & Laid of Dallas, Tex., has been awarded the contract for the first work on the new line from Stanton to Edwardsville, a distance of nineteen miles. The equipment arrived at Edwardsville Saturday, and work will be started on the hill across Mooney Valley at the Northern edge of Edwardsville. A steel bridge on concrete abutments will span the stream. Tracks in Edwardsville are now being laid along Second and Park streets and Hillsboro avenue, to get to slope before the steel bridge work reaches those highways next week.

The decision of the company to run from Edwardsville via Stanton, instead of Bunker Hill, marked the conclusion of a pretty fight between the towns for the line. The grade was about the same, but the distance equal by each route, but in the neighborhood of Bunker Hill the farm-ers wanted $200 an acre for their ground, so the road went the other way. From Edwardsville south to Granite City the route is now being surveyed.

J. KENNARD & SONS FOURTH STREET AND WASHINGTON AVE.

THEBES BRIDGE OVER MISSISSIPPI TO BE COMPLETED IN JANUARY.

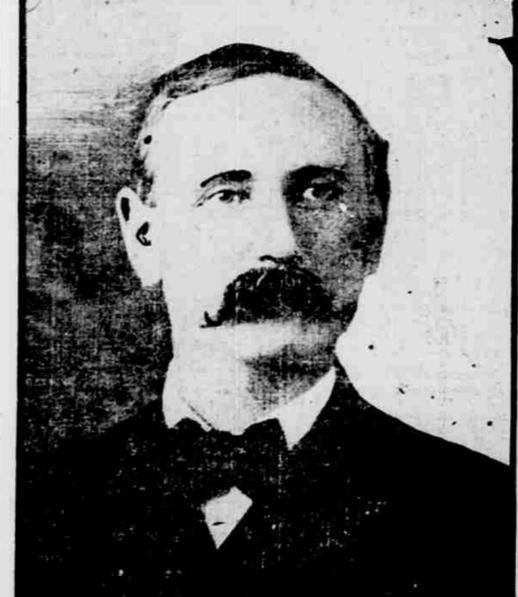

THEBES BRIDGE, FROM THE EASTERN BANK, SHOWING THE PROGRESS OF THE WORK AND THE CONCRETE APPROACHES.

Work on the Thebes bridge has progressed to a point where the contractors confidently predict that the $2,000,000 structure which connects Illinois with Missouri will be finished early in January. The bridge will extend from Thebes, Ill., 10 miles south of St. Louis on the Mississippi River, and a terminus of the Illinois division of the Iron Mountain, to Illinois on the opposite and western bank of the Mississippi River. The spans of the bridge, which sprang up since the beginning of the bridge, three years ago, define its name from a combination of the abbreviations of the names of Illinois and Missouri. When completed the bridge will handle practically all of the south-western traffic between the East and North, whereby the traffic congestion so frequent in St. Louis will become a thing of the past, inasmuch as the through freight will not pass through St. Louis, but be routed over the Illinois division of the Iron Mountain to a connection on the east side of the river. As it is a poor rule that does not work both ways, it is planned and believed that practically all of the traffic destined for the Southwest and originating from the North and East will be sent over this bridge, which is double-tracked and connects with almost water-level lines on both sides of the river. In this way it is believed that ultimately only business destined to St. Louis or originating west of it at a near point to St. Louis will be sent over the East and Missouri bridges, and in all probability much of it will be sent and received over the Alton bridges, which ten of the terminal lines have purchased.

Mr. Britton has made an enviable record in the construction of the Thebes bridge. His duties with the Cotton Belt occupying most of his time, he developed a plan and reports on the progress of the work which is unique and an admirable one of its kind. Outline drawings are made of the bridge and the contractors are required to show by color what work has been done each month. As an example, the middle pier contains streaks of brown, red and blue, the blue showing what was done in June, the red in August and the blue in July. In this way the progress made is shown better than in any of the reports. In addition, as the camera never deceives, Mr. Britton has photographs of the work sent to him frequently, by which he can check up the reports of the contractors in case that some of the space allotted to colors should be too large.

PIKE LEADER A NATIVE OF ST. LOUIS

THOMAS F. HANLEY, President of the Irish Industrial Exhibition Association and Hale's Fire Fighters. One of the most conspicuous figures among the Pike demonstrators is Thomas F. Hanley, president of the Irish Exhibition Company. Since the organization of the Concessionaires' Club, there has been no more active spirit in the promotion of the welfare of that body than he, and to his efforts much of the success attending the amusement features of the Fair is to be attributed. "Ireland's Own Band," brought at great expense from Dublin by Mr. Hanley, captured the first prize in the parade of last Thursday, and his handsome jaunting cars took number for beauty of appearance. Mr. Hanley is a native of St. Louis. He was born in 1853 at Patrick's Parish, and his baptismal record is on the books of that church. It was in Chicago, however,
