ARIZONA.

We have received several copies of the Arizona Citizen, published by John Wasson, formerly Clerk of the Nevada Assembly, now located at Tucson. It is a sprightly sheet, full of local intelligence. Wasson is an old newspaper man, and knows what a newspaper really is. We extract the following from the columns of the Citizen:

The owners of the Harris mine, the Mountain mine and quartz mill, at Apache Pass, have just closed a sale of all their mining property, consisting of 3,000 feet in the Harris mine, 2,400 in the Mountain mine, with the water privileges attached to each, and the mill, for one hundred and forty thousand dollars. The purchasers, James B. Cooper & Co. of San Francisco.

We learned some time since, from good authority, that the Western Union Co. are determined to have telegraphic communication between San Francisco, Guaymas and the city of Mexico, whether by way of Lower California, or by Yuma, Tucson or Sonora. If they get reasonable assistance along the line they will come this way. The Sonora people and authorities, as well as the Central Government of Mexico, will no doubt give the enterprise every aid possible. But latterly we see a Guaymas item to the effect that parties there are anxious and waiting to take the contract to extend the line building between there and the Capital of Mexico, on toward Tucson. That line is completed from the city of Mexico to that of Durango, or within 500 miles of Guaymas.

Weather still dry and cold; also, cloudy. Our prognostication of rain last Saturday resulted in a bit of a sprinkle the same evening. On Monday morning, the first ice of the season was noted. It was not enough to skake on, however.

Oranges of unusually large size and good flavor, are to be had at L. & W.'s at fifteen cents apiece. They are from Hermosillo.

Hunting for deer and ducks has been the rage on the part of prominent Tucsoners, during the week. Game in abundance just outside of town—a good many "wet ducks" seem to come in.

Barley is quoted at 4c., corn at 3c., wheat same and quiet; butter $1 25, and eggs $1.

Quicker time than ever is now made between here and San Diego. On Thursday morning (the 15th) we saw a letter written at San Diego on the 12th. A rather sharp connection that, but it was done.

We have heard unpleasant rumors recently of the contemplated abandonment by the Government of the posts at Tucson, Crittenden and Grant. That, of course, would leave all of Arizona south of the Gila without protection, and could not but result in the breaking up of the overland mail route and the virtual abandonment of the country. Such a course would be so suicidal to the best interests of the Territory and the Government that we cannot believe it is true. With the meagre assistance received from the Government, we have succeeded in building up a town of nearly 4,000 inhabitants at Tucson. Already quite an immigration is coming from Sonora, and a large portion of the people of the State we believe earnestly desire annexation to the United States. But should our Government, without a moment's warning, abandon and leave to the tender mercies of the savages a large portion of the Territory, they would naturally conclude nothing was to be gained by such an alliance.

A NEW THING.—Coquettes have a new flirtation sign. It is made by placing the little finger of the right hand up to the mouth and shrugging the shoulders. Its skillful use is to bring men to their knees in short order.

A young man at La Crosse, Wis., looked through the key-hole of a girl's bedroom, and ever since the doctors have been trying to get a knitting-needle out of the place where his north eye used to be.

Eve did not know as much as her daughters of the present day. Had they been in her place, instead of being deceived, they would deceive the devil.

How the Germans Outwit the French.

One of the interesting features of the present war has been the economy with which the Germans have utilized the service of their 200,000 and upward of French prisoners. Instead of penning them up in stockades, where they would be decimated by disease, and be rendered not only filthy and dangerous, but costly, the Germans at first offered them free employment for full wages—above their board—upon various public works, which the French were glad to accept, in lieu of the fatiguing and loathsome imprisonment at the stockade. In this manner, while the victors at Woerth, Gravelott, and Sedan were destroying the public works of France, the prisoners taken in those battles were building public improvements in Germany. Finding that the French prisoners were so easily identified, by the French accent and other characteristics as to preclude all danger of their escape, the German officers in charge finally distributed a large portion of these prisoners among the German farmers and mechanics, to work for wages at the occupations to which they were most accustomed in France. Moreover, the 200,000 and upwards of German artisans and workmen expelled from France are now teaching and spreading in Germany the arts which they acquired while in France. They are performing much the same mission in Germany as the Huguenot artisans of France expelled during the various persecutions, performed in Switzerland, Holland, Belgium, England, and, in some degree, in America. France, acting from sentiment, has done all that folly could do to make the war fall disastrously on her people. Germany, acting from calculation, has done very much more, perhaps than was ever before done, to utilize the service even of her enemies, and make them tributary to her well-being.

New York.—As a pleasant incident of the Fair, we record the following neat tribute, written by a Christian gentleman, connected with the city press, and distributed among the visitors at the Fair. It is thus entitled: "The Hebrew Fair in the Tents of Israel."

The brilliancy, beauty and refined loveliness of everything connected with the Fair now being held by the daughters of Israel in the 14th Street Armory of the 22nd Regiment, eclipses every former of charitable enterprise, in this or any other country. How glad it makes the hearts of all who delight themselves in remembering the by-gone beautiful tents of Jacob, and the rapturous music of the songs of Israel, to behold once more the gladness, loving uprising of God's never-to-be-forgotten inheritance, whose gathering together is being ushered in by everlasting mercies and tenderness, and whose future hopes are brighter than the radiance of the Sun's beam since God, even their own God, shall never rest till He make Jerusalem the joy of the whole earth. Blessed be they who bless them, and happy be they whose high-born privilege is to assist the fair daughters of Israel in their mission of love and mercy. And let all the earth say—Amen.—[Jewish Messenger.]

CROSS-CUTTING.—An article in the Engineering and Mining Journal, comparing English and American mining, states that English miners do a large amount of cross-cutting—that is, driving from the main lode for the purpose of intersecting parallel ledges—whereas but little of this is done by Americans. There is no doubt that this has been the case with our prospectors, and that many a fortune has been lost, or rather missed, by not running drifts from lodes which had apparently "petered" out or showed an unsatisfactory appearance at the point at which they were abandoned. The writer in the Journal mentions the case of a Mr. Hoyt in Grass Valley, California, who retrieved his fortune by running a cross-cut from the bottom of his works and striking a parallel vein of extraordinary richness.

This cross-cutting is well understood here now and Mr. Frost is exploring the bowels of Lander Hill pretty thoroughly by this means. But small companies and prospectors do not do enough of it. An incline is generally sunk on the croppings of a vein, and if this does not prove satisfactory, the whole thing is abandoned, when a good vein might be struck by cross cutting.—[Reese River Reveille.]

TAKE WARNING!

THE V. & T. R. CO. ARE ANXIOUS TO take due precaution against accidents and loss of life resulting from the running of trains and guardians against the dangers attending the too common practice of children playing about their cars and locomotives. Those having in charge the business of the Company find it impossible to PERSEVERE boys, who frequent the termini and stopping places of the road from climbing upon the cars and engines; and they will feel themselves obliged to resort to more decided measures if these annoyances are continued. Recent accidents, which are wholly ascribable to the carelessness of persons in jumping on and off the cars when in motion, should be warning enough in themselves. H. M. YERINGTON, Superintendent.
