THE SEED AND FRUIT.

'Tis not its blood that bursts the vine
When in the press it's trampled on,
But heading, sacramental wine,
The Holy Grail—the cup divine—
Christ's life free-given for our own.

'Tis not with angry stroke, but kind,
The sculptor hews the marble stone,
His blows, their scars, if we will mind,
But loose the angel there confined—
An angel from a shapeless stone!

'Twas not in wrath the Psalmist old
His inspired hand ever for the strings,
And vexed his harp with beating bold;
A purer, holier music rolled
Even from its sharpest quiverings.

And thus in all the world's great round,
When we its meaning full divine—
From forest fountains the sweetest sound;
By sharpest strokes the soul unbound;
From forest fountains the sweetest wine.

So to the faith now tossed with fear
All seemingills shall prove to be,
Each one the seed for harvest near:
"Though Christ was dead, he is not here;"
Ere we the resurrection see.

It is related by an estimable and very pious lady, whose exertions in every work of charity and benevolence have endeared her to our community, that on her way to Sabbath school one bright sunshiny morning, she saw several boys, one of whom was a newsboy, seated in a doorway playing cards—one of them being a Sunday school scholar of the lady. She stopped and insisted that they should accompany her to church. After some persuasion the three oldest consented, but the youngest, a lad of some six years, persistently refused. "Why don't you come, my boy?" said the lady. "It's very wrong in you to refuse." "But I don't want to go." "Why, what is the reason?" The impatience of the little fellow waxed desperate, and in an indignant voice he exclaimed, his hand full of cards, "Would you go to the Sunday school with a hand full of trumps like that?"

A California editor, warned by recent events, turns over a new social leaf in these words: "All men's wives who have hitherto enjoyed our acquaintance, are hereby notified that this ceases to-day, never to be renewed. Somebody perishes ingloriously every day for being on speaking terms with married women, and we do not care to have our turn come around. Deeply grateful for the past forbearance of aggrieved husbands, we make our bow and retire. Hereafter our nods and smiles will be lavished on girls and widows exclusively; no other need apply. Whoever shall attempt to introduce us to his wife or any other man's wife, will be regarded as a conspirator against our precious life, and subject to abuse in the columns of this journal."

Somebody is curious to know if "Bill Nye," whom the heathen Chinese swindled in a game of poker at Table Mountain, is any relation to Grey Eagle of Nevada. The querist don't know Jim Nye, or he would never have asked that question. Why, he played a little game of draw with the Government at Washington, made a saw mill bluff, and got away with a forty thousand dollar pot. The beauty of the play was that he made it after the draw on no pair, and shot his mouth off for the saw mill. No heathen Chinese can beat Jim Nye, nor any of his relatives.—[San Joaquin Republican.]

A New York paper gives this account of a "female Bluebeard": Louis Mitchell, the present husband of Caroline Mitchell, who lives in Jersey City, says she was first married in 1835, to a man named Darnish in the Dutchy of Posen, then to a doctor called Kahn, then to a butcher called Rack, whose arm she cut off with a meat chopper, and to save herself from being put in prison fled to New York. She then married a man called Brief, and finally settled down for her last marriage with Louis Mitchell, with whom she has lived for the past twenty-two years.

The Leavenworth (Kansas) Times, treading of the Alabama claims, says: "For the sake of men to whom few years are left to enjoy the fruits of past industry, we join in the request now being so generally made that their claims be assumed by the National Treasury."

English papers deny that Government has ordered sixty batteries of Gatling guns to be made in the United States. Twelve guns only have been ordered, and they will be constructed in England.

HINTS TO FARMERS.

The "Fat Contributor," of the Cincinnati Times, contributes the following hints, which may be of use to our agricultural readers:

Now that Winter is approaching, it would, perhaps, be as well to discontinue haying, and turn your attention to getting in your fall saw-logs. No farmer can consider his Fall work complete until he has his cellar well supplied with saw-logs. Seated around a blazing hearth of a Winter's night, there is no fruit more delicious.

A correspondent asks us what we think of late plowing. Plowing should not be continued later than 10 or 11 o'clock at night. It gets the horses in the habit of staying out late, and unduly exposes the plow. We have known plows to acquire spring halt and inflammatory rheumatism from late plowing. Don't do it.

To another correspondent who wants to suggest a good drain on a farm, we would say a heavy mortgage at ten per cent. will drain it about as rapidly as anything we know of.

A pick-ax should never be used in picking apples. It has a tendency to break down the vines and damage the live.

In sowing your apple-jack a horse-rake will be found preferable to a step-ladder. Step-ladders are liable to freeze up, and are hardly palatable unless boiled with sugar.

The coming cold weather should suggest to the humane farmer the necessity for a new cow-shed. The following is a receipt for making a good cow-shed: Pour a pailful of boiling hot water on her back, and if that don't make a good cow-shed—her hair—we are no prophet, to anybody.

One may insert a thousand excellent things in a newspaper and never hear a word of them from its readers. But let a line or two not suited to their tastes creep in by accident or otherwise, and one hears of it from every quarter.

The Baltimore American has an article on "The Pulpit and the Press," in which it too truly says: "If a father has a weak and sickly son he is apt to imagine that he can make a minister of him."

The Philadelphia Inquirer says: "The appointment of General Mortimer D. Leggett to the position of Commissioner of Patents is one that has been received by the country with unqualified praise."

New York State exacts an average of $3,000,000 a year premium tolls on merchandise in transit through the State via the Erie canal.

In Calais, Maine, the different churches refuse to allow their bells to be rung in case of fire.

WHEELER MINING COMPANY.
Location of works: Pine Grove, Esmeralda county, Nevada. Notice—There are delinquent upon the following described stock, an account of assessment No. 5, levied on the 15th day of December, 1870, the several amounts set opposite the names of the respective shareholders, as follows:
