

CRESHIRE.

Jan. 30.—Mr. D. D. Bishop was brought before Justice Stebbins last Saturday in the court room on the charge of one of the officers of the Humane society for abusing and not properly taking care and feeding his stock of cows and also the sanitary condition of his stables. After hearing the testimony of the witnesses the justice decided there was not sufficient evidence offered to prove a conviction and the defendant was discharged.

The book entitled "Historic Homes of Cheshire," prepared for publication by E. R. Brown and J. R. Paddock, is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution to subscribers sometime in March next. It will contain sixty-four illustrations, including portraits of Governor S. A. Foot, Admiral A. H. Foote and others, with some historic matters relative to each. The subscription price is placed at the low sum of $2, and already quite a number have sent in their subscriptions. This book will be of special interest to those who reside there whose ancestors resided here, or to those whose childhood and youth were spent in Cheshire, to whom, by association, this book will bring pleasant and tender memories. Only a limited number of copies will be published, and persons desiring a copy will do well to early confer with either of the persons above named who are residents here.

The pastor of the Congregational church being unable to preach last Sabbath on account of a severe cold the Rev. Mr. Phelps of Prospect occupied the pulpit in the morning. He took for his text the following: "And shall not this woman whom Satan hath bound should these eighteen years be loosed from her infirmity on the Sabbath day?" It was a discourse of unusual interest, giving evidence of much research and thought upon the subject. He proved conclusively that the evils which afflict individuals and society were not sent from God, but the result of Satan's finding power and influence in the world.

WALLINGFORD.

Several of the speedy class were out on the lake yesterday and some fast trotting was the result. Hodson's pacer from Meriden, which some of the local horsemen think is a "ringer," was on deck and had several lively spurts with Adger's "Dr. L." and Ingraham's "Starmount," and succeeded in coming in ahead of "Dr. L." in one bout, the result being brought about by the Meriden driver's lousy use of his lungs, which finally made "Dr. L." go into the air and the pacer came in ahead. On one heat "Dr. L." struck some obstruction and fell, sliding a rod or more on the ice, but was got back on his feet again without injury except the breaking of the check line. Simon McNeil's horse stepped into a hole cut through the ice to get water outside of the course and caused a momentary excitement, but no damage. The ozone was most too frosty for spectators to linger long at a time about the track. More sport is expected today.

AFFECTIONATELY REMEMBERED.
Thomas Douglas was a Schoolmaster in New London Fifty Years Ago.

New London, Jan. 30.—Thomas Douglas, who died on Sunday at No. 15 Brainard street, at the home of a relative, was a man of a historical character in his day, and much respected in New London forty-eight or fifty years ago, when he was a teacher in the Union school, where now is located the People's church. Among his pupils were Augustus Brandegee, Robert Colt, Sebastian and Frank D. Lawrence, N. S. Perkins, and others of the New London youth of that day, who have attained distinction and prosperity.

When Mr. Douglas left New London it was to emigrate to the Sandwich Islands, about 1846, and after being in business for a few years he removed to California, locating in San Francisco, where he continued to follow the occupation of a school teacher. It was one of the first of the schools established out there, and a picture of the old house in which he taught is shown in the Annals of California.

He became interested in land there and spent considerable time in Southern California. Increasing years brought back remembrance of his old home in Connecticut, and a few years ago having some claim to settle in New Jersey he came to this city, since that time has been a resident of this city.

He was born in this city and his people were interested in the French indemnity claims. The school that he taught in this city was established and owned by the wealthy people of the town. There are many of his pupils still living, to whom the news of his death brought back remembrance of the youthful days in the seaside city.

MR. MCKENZIE'S REPORT.
Report of T. H. McKenzie, C. E.: To the honorable board of warden and burgesses of the borough of Southington, Conn.

Gentlemen: I have the honor to submit herewith a brief report on the sewerage of Southington, including estimates on the cost of constructing the proposed system.

On account of having made previous surveys of the streets for the purpose of designing a water supply and laying out the sewerage system, and by this means acquired a knowledge of the topography of the town, I did not consider it necessary to make extensive surveys for the purpose of these estimates. The surveys, as already made, are sufficient for the purposes of making an accurate estimate of the work, and in the event of construction complete detail plans can be prepared.

My plans with reference to the adoption of the "separate system" of sewers conveying only the sewage proper, and a limited amount of roof and sub-soil waters to the outfall, leaving the bulk of the street and roof waters to be carried by other channels to the nearest water course.

My reasons for recommending the separate system are, that it will probably be necessary to purify the sewage before emptying into a running stream, and on account of the expense of purification and the large expenditure involved in conveying the sewage to a location sufficiently remote from the village for the purpose of treatment, it would not be wise to build the sewers of sufficient capacity to convey storm waters, which can be turned into the nearest watercourses without injuring anyone.

My first investigations were in the line of determining whether sufficient areas of land suitable for purification by filtration could be reached by gravity.

I find that the most desirable location for the construction of filter-beds is on a tract of land owned by Samuel Bowers, and located along the north bank of the Quinnipiac river, from 500 to 1,500 feet westerly from the bridge on the Waterbury turnpike, and about one-quarter mile westerly from Stillman's corners. This tract contains about twenty-eight acres, of which nineteen acres lies from two to four feet below the proper level for filter-beds. The remaining nine acres average seven feet above the bottom grade of the main sewer. As the soil on this tract seems to be well adapted for filtration, and the location so remote from dwellings as to be unobjectionable, I have concluded to recommend this site for your adoption. The low ground would be filled and levelled off about one foot below the bottom grade of the sewer, and divided by ditches into filterbeds of about an acre each.

It is not probable that more than five acres of filter-beds will be required for your present needs. The remainder of the land can be graded as required. The plans as I have prepared them provide for the grade of the main sewer beginning at the filter-beds at an elevation of eleven feet above the water in the river and rising uniformly one foot per thousand feet for the entire length to Center street, Southington. The Summer street sewer will be laid on the same grade.

The route is over private property from the filter-beds to the corner of Mulberry and South Main streets, thence along South Main street to the corner of Main street, Plantsville; thence along Main street to Bristol street, and over Bristol street to Center street, Southington. The grade at this point is six feet below the top of the rails at railroad crossing near the bolt shop.

The grade as proposed is the least allowable fall for a twenty-inch sewer, and should give a velocity of 118 feet per minute, which is sufficient to make the sewer self-cleaning. A depth of fifteen feet will be necessary on some portions of South Main street, but as the material is a dry gravel this depth will not be objectionable.

The section of Main street, Plantsville, in front of the residence of F. H. Platt, and the sections of Summer street from Main street north to the property of John Flannigan, also the short section from Knowles street to the residence of Mrs. Finch are the governing points in the matter of laying a grade for the main sewer, along these sections the bottom grade of the sewer is two degrees three minutes below the surface. This will necessitate the use of iron pipe and raising the streets as much as is admissible.

Through these low sections the basements of houses could not be drained. As the lowlands fronting on the streets above mentioned are not yet built on, any future buildings could be set at such a height as would allow of drainage into the sewer.

If the main sewer were laid at the ordinary depth of ten feet through the low sections, very heavy cutting would be required along South Main street, and also necessitate pumping the sewage at the outfall.

Regarding the method of purification recommended, I will say: The purification of sewage by filtration through natural sand filters is no longer an experiment as it has been practised extensively in Europe for the last twenty years, and during the last ten years thirty-five systems have been constructed and put in operation in this country, and with a few exceptions have given entire satisfaction. In the few places where it has not worked satisfactorily the soil was an impervious clay and entirely unsuited for the purpose.

As regards the cost of purification, numerous experiments have determined beyond a doubt that some form of land treatment, either by irrigation or filtration is more effectual and economical than any of the chemical or mechanical processes which have been practised.

The lateral sewers as provided for in the estimates cover all of the streets which are sufficiently built up to demand sewers.

For the purpose of flushing the sewers I would recommend the use of hose from the fire hydrants or a water cart, as the capacity of the main pipes of the water company are not sufficient to supply the present demands and maintain the normal pressure in the pipes. The flushing from hydrants by means of a hose could be accomplished during the night, or on holidays, when the factories were not running.

It is probable that out of the total estimated cost of $50,135 that about $40,000 would be assessed and collected from owners of property abutting on the streets which were sewered, leaving the balance of $10,135 as the indebtedness of the borough. The amount would be gradually reduced as the laterals were extended. The assessments on these lateral sewers would probably exceed the cost.

Estimates which are appended I believe to be ample to cover the entire cost of construction.

For the operation of the system when completed the services of one man would be required at a price not to exceed $2 per day.

Respectfully submitted,
T. H. MCKENZIE, C. E.

VALLEY FIRE COMMISSIONERS.
Final Meeting of the Board—Banqueted at Caserio's Cafe.

The final meeting of the board of fire commissioners of 1894 was held last evening and was a veritable love feast. All the members of the board were present and the occasion was much enjoyed. Previous to the meeting at the invitation of Jacinto Caserio, one of the retiring commissioners, a banquet was served at his excellently equipped cafe on Church street.

Those present at the banquet were Commissioners Stannard, Caserio, McDonald, White, Walker, Chief Andrew J. Kennedy, Superintendent of Fire Alarm William C. Smith, Fire Marshal William H. Hubbard and Clerk Benjamin M. Prescott. The table fairly glistened with the delicacies of the season, served in that excellent style for which the cafe is famous. The banquet was delightfully informal, and although there were not as toasts those present did full justice to the excellent viands. After the banquet the commissioners adjourned to the city hall where, at 8 o'clock, the last meeting of the board was held. At this meeting Commissioner Stannard presided at the request of the members of the board, as he was one of the retiring members of the board. At this meeting complimentary votes were unanimously adopted in reference to the seal, etc., displayed by Commissioners Stannard and Caserio, and also to President McDonald for the able and efficient manner in which he had presided over the meetings of the board during the past year.

The annual reports of Chief Kennedy, President McDonald and Superintendent Smith were read and unanimously accepted, after which the meeting adjourned.
