LOCAL NEWS.

Brief Mention.

Buy a new house—R. E. Baldwin.

High water to-day at 10:02 a. m.

The patronesses were Mrs. Carmalt and Mrs. DeForest Day.

D. M. Welch & Son will close their stores Washington's birthday at noon.

To-day being a legal holiday the banks will be closed and most of the stores in the center of the city will close at noon.

The annual charity ball of the K. O. J. society was held in Harmonic hall last evening and proved a most enjoyable and successful affair.

In executive session the committee on sewers last night voted to recommend the granting of all petitions considered by them except that of W. J. Montgomery for a sewer in Sherman avenue from Goffe street to Munson street, who was given leave to withdraw.

Clan McLeod will give a trolley party March 6 over the West Haven road. There will be five cars to accommodate the party, and they will go over the length of the line, stopping at the Sea View house for supper, after which they will return to the lodge rooms in the "Courier" building, where dancing will be indulged in. The party will consist of about 150 members of the clan and their friends.

In executive session the committee on ordinances last night voted to hold another meeting to-night, when they will further consider all the proposed ordinances relating to electric cars, their speed, equipment, etc., and to give leave to withdraw to Anthony Carroll's petition concerning appointments of officers holding offices not provided for by the charter. All the other matters went over until the next meeting.

Mr. George X. McLanahan, Yale '96, gave a dance last night at the Lawn club in honor of his sister, Miss McLanahan of Washington, D. C., and of Miss Norwood of New York. These young ladies are visiting in the city, the guests of Mrs. Henry H. Benedict. Miss McLanahan, it will be remembered, was a passenger on La Gascoigne on her long voyage across the Atlantic. Before supper, which was served by Stewart, general dancing was indulged in. After supper there was a german, led by Mr. Anson Phelps Stokes and Miss McLanahan. Among the invited guests were the Misses Clark, Miss Dwight, Miss Ingersoll, Miss Martin, Miss Bishop, Miss Welch, Miss Whitney, Misses Sardley, Misses Porter, Miss Carmalt, Miss Sanford, Miss Fellows and the Messrs. Benedict, Ford, Foote, Fisher, Peck, Bond, Trudeau, E. Sumner, Eagle, Pardee, Vail, Lackland, Sage, and many others.

In a Critical Condition.

Annie Carimulm, the young girl employed as a servant by ex-Alderman John M. Crampton, who was terribly burned at Mr. Crampton's residence, 539 Orange street, by her clothes taking fire while ironing and was taken to the hospital, was last evening in a very critical condition with the chances much against her recovery. It was stated last evening that it was very doubtful if she would live the night out. Her sister was with her.

Mrs. Crampton was nervously prostrated yesterday and fears were entertained that she would have a serious attack of illness owing to the shock and excitement caused by the sad affair and the efforts to save the life of the unfortunate girl. Mrs. Crampton's health has been quite delicate for some time past.

REPORT OF THE WORK DONE BY THE ORGANIZED CHARITIES.

Agent Preston Presents His Report and He Says That During the Past Year the Association Ran Behind in Its Finances—Report of Directors. The annual meeting of the Organized Charities was held yesterday afternoon at the building on Orange street, at which time the officers and directors were elected for the ensuing year. The following board of directors were chosen:

BOARD OF DIRECTORS—1895.

Max Adler, Harry W. Asher, Starr H. Barnum, Charles L. Baldwin, R. E. Baldwin, Roger S. Baldwin, Thomas G. Bennett, Fred B. Bunnell, Professor W. B. Blackman, Mrs. C. T. Candee, Mrs. S. H. Chapman, Mrs. Timothy Cowles, C. E. Curtis, Dr. W. G. Daggett, W. E. Downes, Mrs. G. A. Dickerman, Hon. L. P. Deming, Mrs. F. B. Dexter, Dr. L. S. DeForest, Professor H. W. Farnam, Mrs. Charles Fabrique, Colonel S. J. Fox, Professor Arthur Fairbanks, A. C. Hendrick, A. B. Hill, Thomas Hooker, Rev. D. M. James, Dr. E. H. Jenkins, W. L. Kingsley, W. B. Law, Rev. Dr. Levi, Rev. E. S. Lines, Mrs. E. P. Low, Dr. Lusk, Rev. W. W. McClane, D. D. Rev. Stewart Means, Burton Mansfield, Dr. Max Malhouse, Rev. J. H. Mason, Rev. H. R. Miles, H. G. Newton, W. M. Parsons, S. O. Preston, Professor S. L. Penfield, Rev. W. L. Phillips, Hon. R. S. Pickett, C. W. Pickett, E. H. Rogers, A. E. Howland, Rev. E. C. Sage, E. Saunders, George D. Seymour, Charles A. Sheldon, Superintendent Treadwell Smith, H. B. Sargent, John C. Schwab, W. A. Spaulding, Frank H. Sperry, M. Spier, Professor White, Wayland, Pierce N. Welch, H. C. White, Ell Whitney, Jr., representing the New Haven Aid society, the United Workers, the New Haven Orphan asylum, the Young Women's Christian association, the Lella Day Nursery, the Home for the Friendless, the Hebrew Benevolent society, the German society, the New Haven hospital, the dispensary, and the town, the police department, the city courts, the churches, and the community at large.

CHARITY BEGINS AT HOME.

While this condition exists the establishment of institutions which seem to draw and retain vagrants ceases to be a private concern, and the general public should not only consider whether charity should not, for the present at least, begin at home.

WORK OF THE ORGANIZATION.

Agent Sherwood O. Preston in his report said:

During the year ending February 1, 1895, there were provided for men, women and children 13,573 lodgings and 11,862 meals; total of both, 25,435; cost of same, $1,896.06. Of this amount there was expended in charity to sick or disabled persons or children $141.28. The balance of expenditure, $1,654.78 (about 92 per cent.), was worked out in the labor departments.

Seven hundred and thirty-two cords of wood, 35,140 boxes, were cut and sold, and an average of 58 family washings done weekly.

The pay rolls of the employment department show that the sum of $4,290.97 has been paid to employes, most of whom have thus been prevented from requiring charity. In addition to this outside jobs were supplied in about 300 instances, and many proved to be permanent situations.

RAN BEHIND.

Owing to the unprecedented hard times, causing an enormous increase in the number of transients who had to be cared for, it was found to be impossible to conduct labor departments with the degree of economy heretofore attained, and the association thereby sustained a loss of $1,200.88. It is believed that this represents a wiser expenditure of funds, however, than the same amount would if disbursed in direct relief.

The receipts of the Penny Provident fund for the year are $25.17, and the balance to the credit of the fund is $49.21.

CAUSE OF DISTRESS.

The causes of distress of those aided during the year (residents 1,163 and non-residents 7,410) are given as follows:

Lack of work, 5,765; Intemperance, 694; sickness or disability, 224; old age, 82; mismanagement or extravagance, 70; idleness, 29; death of husband or father, 21; desertion by husband, 60; imprisonment of husband, 8; death of parents, 4; desertion or neglect of relatives, 87; crime or misdemeanor, 126; running away from home, 39; insanity or deficient mentally, 21; no cause apparent, 164; total, 7,410.

During the year 55 residents and 10 non-residents were exposed as frauds; 439 residents and 266 non-residents were exposed as requiring no help or refusing work.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS' REPORT.

The board of directors say in their report for the year: Exceptional conditions have marked the experience of the association during the past year.

The business depression of the previous winter continuing until late in the spring, brought large numbers of people to our attention, so that while the situation at the close of the year was about normal, we yet have to report an increase of 1,550 cases for the term.

Of this increase, nearly all were transients (1,531), and to give the exact figures, there should be added 1,031 "repeaters"—namely, men coming oftener than three times in the same month. Total of non-residents increase over previous year, 2,544.

It has ever been our policy to discourage the prolonged residence in this city of the roving class. We furnish them a fair opportunity to seek employment, and if unsuccessful, encourage them to look for work elsewhere. We know their instincts and habits, and are of the opinion that our community is harmed by their continued stay in the city. To beg money for lodging by night, and spend the day in drinking, thieving and more begging, is not, we think, likely to improve the morals, or the security of the public.

The present winter's experience, in this respect, varies from the last. Not half the number of transient men are coming to our notice. This would seem, at first glance, to indicate an improved condition of affairs, but directly in the face of this, stand the reports from police officers, and citizens generally, that there was never a time in the history of the city when there were so many houses to house and street beggars as now.

INSOLENT BEGGARS.

And they were never so insolent in their demands; in fact, several people have been assaulted when aims were refused. This seems to indicate that the number in town is not less, and in our judgment, the explanation lies in the fact that three institutions have been established here within a little over a year, whose avowed and advertised purpose is, to provide a "Home" for this class.

When all applicants were referred to one office, it will be remembered that this evil was reduced to a minimum, so much so, that our city was considered to be exceptionally favored in the absence of beggars.

Now, several institutions, operating independently, and three of them playing no limit on the duration of stay, make it possible for vagabonds, by moving from one "Home" to another, to practically become a permanent incubus on the town.

As to their furnishing, to some extent, an equivalent in labor, "it may be seriously questioned whether it is wise to encourage non-residents in this way, as there are large numbers of residents, who hire tenements, deal with our merchants, and presumably have a real interest in local affairs, who are unable to secure work for the support of their families, and therefore become burdens of private, or public charity.

CHARITY BEGINS AT HOME.

While this condition exists the establishment of institutions which seem to draw and retain vagrants ceases to be a private concern, and the general public should not only consider whether charity should not, for the present at least, begin at home.

IN RELIGIOUS WORK.

The religious care of the dependent class we do not assume. The denominational differences are so great that we feel the wisest course for us to pursue is, as far as possible, to secure material aid, inculcate morality and stimulate thrift. We refer the spiritual care of the subject to the pastor, priest or rabbi, as the preference may be indicated or disclosed. Where there is no religious mission is had to some of the various missions.

THE FINANCES.

The report of Treasurer Fred S. Bunnell shows receipts of $17,824.66, including contributions, $3,838.61; special contributions for typewriter $75, and for wood sheds $470; Chrysanthemum club, $14.25; $2,000, temporary loans $1,000, by the sale of wood $6,710.25; by laundry work $1,628.00, by meals paid by work $537.31.

Expenditures include: Relief in emergency cases, coal and sundries, $1,048.75, salaries $2,388, payment of loans $2,400, and interest $275, car fares for investigations $91.50, wood purchased $5,313.02, sawing and splitting paid for, repairs and delivery, $4,428.38, cost of laundry $1,781.70. There is a balance of 51 cents in the treasurer's favor.

The indebtedness is $6,360.10—temporary loans of $660.10 and a mortgage loan of $5,500.

TRI-PHONE No. 312.

One hundred and sixty three years ago, Friday, Washington first breathed the atmosphere of this terrestrial globe. He began by hacking a tree and wound up by hacking the "Tories." That first blow at the tree cut a wide gash in history, because it ended in a triumphant blow at tyranny.

Had we never heard of the Hessians, we'd probably, never heard of the Hatchet. Tyranny always, sooner or later, strikes the bottom of truth and when it does, truth turns it down.

The freedom of America gives wide range to the possibilities of celebrating Washington's Birthday. We don't sell the high hats but we sell the Canes and Colors for Yale, and the Star Spangled Banner in all forms for every body.
