ALL THE EVIDENCE IS IN DR. LEE'S CASE WILL BE GIVEN TO THE JURY NEXT TUESDAY.

Only the Arguments and Judge's Charge Remain to be Made—Counsel for Each Side May Occupy Four Hours—Much Expert Evidence Introduced Yesterday. All the testimony in the case of Dr. J. Edward Lee, charged with the murder of Maggie Schloss, was finished yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and on next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock the arguments will be offered.

On motion of Attorney Chase Judge Wheeler assigned four hours to each side in which to complete their arguments. In all probability neither the prosecution nor the defense will occupy all this time, and so it is thought the case will be handed to the jury late Tuesday afternoon, and a decision reached before night.

The most important witness of the day was Dr. Francis Bacon of this city, who took the stand as an expert in behalf of the state to especially refute the opinions of Dr. Arthur J. Wolfe of Hartford, the well known microscopist. Dr. Bacon stated that in his opinion the wound in the organ of Maggie Schloss was certainly inflicted before death, thus directly denying the allegations of Dr. Wolfe that the organ presented a post mortem incision. The witness further stated after a hypothetical question by Attorney Blydenburgh that if Maggie Schloss had had a putrid mass in the organ the result of a deceased foetus, she could not possibly have traveled about the city from early evening until midnight suffering from the condition of things which surely must have existed under the supposed circumstances.

Dr. Austin B. Cheney in his testimony for the prosecution practically corroborated all that Dr. Bacon said. He contradicted the opinion of Dr. Wolfe to the effect that the organ of Maggie Schloss presented indications that it had borne a full term child. Neither Dr. Bacon nor Dr. Cheney were shaken by the cross-examination of Attorney Chase. There was a stir in the room when Dr. White was called to the stand.

Ex-Judge Blydenburgh—Dr. Wolfe testified yesterday that the uterus of Maggie Schloss by certain indications must be that which had passed a full term child. Dr. White—It presented no such indications. The indications inside of the womb were those of recent pregnancy, and the conditions noticed could not exist without recent pregnancy.

To a hypothetical question by Attorney Blydenburgh relative to the condition of the girl before the alleged abortion Dr. White stated that it would be highly improbable for her to do any kind of labor if suffering from blood poisoning; also that the high pulse noted by Dr. Lee was the result of complications attending abortion. Considerable interest was aroused when Dr. White was ordered to produce the organs in question. This was done to show that it was impossible to confound them with the Schloss organ. Dr. White stated that each organ had positive and distinct marks by which they could easily be distinguished one from the other. Both organs had been taken from subjects of criminal abortions. Dr. White admitted that each had been cut and upon further examination also stated that the Schloss organ had been cut for the purpose of ascertaining to what extent the blood vessels had been constricted.

Dr. Wheeler was put upon the stand but his testimony developed no new features. Dr. Wolfe was again called by the defense. He corrected several statements made by the state's experts and the trial ended.

Superior Court—Civil Side—Judge Pennington. The short calendar session of this court yesterday was unusually brief, and but little business was transacted. Harry Smith of West Haven was given permission to change his surname to Linsley, which is the name of his grandparents, with whom he has lived for many years.

Sadie Robinson, colored, of this city, was granted a divorce from Charles Robinson on the ground of adultery. She was also awarded the custody of one minor child. The couple were married January 12, 1893. Minnie J. Foulke of this city was also granted a divorce from Joseph J. Foulke on the ground of adultery. The suit of Zephemia Hull of Hartford against Edward Hull of Waterbury was also partly heard, and continued for more evidence.

A judgment of foreclosure was granted to Aaron A. Collins against John H. Bradley. Both the parties live in Meriden, where the property is also located. Time for redemption was fixed at the first Monday in September. The amount of the foreclosure is $6,424.

City Court—Criminal Side—Judge Cable. John J. Corrigan, breach of the peace, $3 fine, $24 costs; Frank Sheehan, drunk, continued until April 27, injury to private property, discharged; John Lawlor, breach of the peace, continued until May 27; Sigmund Margolis, breach of the peace, nolle pro payment of $5.24 costs.

Court Notes. In the probate court yesterday Attorney David T. McNamara was appointed trustee on the insolvent estate of Mary Gallagher, who formerly ran the restaurant in Warner hall. Henry Hillman and A. H. Hurlburt were also appointed appraisers.

Papers have been served on the county commissioners in the suit brought by Edward and Eliza Kowing against New Haven and Fairfield counties to recover $500 damages for the taking of their land for the approaches to the new Washington bridge in Milford. In the common pleas court, civil side, yesterday two judgments were decreed. One was in the suit of Attorney J. F. Wynne vs. Joseph Steinke to recover for legal services, and the plaintiff was awarded $20.50. In the other a judgment of foreclosure for $23.19 was granted. Dewitt C. Sawyer vs. John J. Ruth. The parties live in this city and the property is located in Southington. An all work overcoat $5.00 at Oak Hall, 61 Church street.

Contrain. So as the sky shows cold and overcast When morning light arouses human thought; The mind in sombre viewing of its past, Sits o'er deep sorrows brooding, quite distraught.

RONDEAU. The rondeau calls for lighter word; When heart and mind, by music stirred, Make melodies both smooth and gay That bear the spirit on its way. As though no grief were to be heard: Will thought and feeling thus obey— Like children dancing in the May To glint of sunshine, song of bird?— In lighter word.

Or, must the spirit seek to gird itself with pleasures long deferred, John in the laurel and the play, Though clouds flit o'er the sparkling day? Who has the secret ne'er has erred In lighter word!

FLIGHT. A bird sits on the gently awaying bough; Wings spread bear him through sunlight air afar; And following, my thought, uplifted by a silent vow, Takes even swifter course, no vision dim to mar. —Ella Antoinette Hotchkiss.
