A Little Advice! For the last two or three weeks we have let our "Aid" run without change, knowing that it was doing good work. We have thought that a little advice about the keeping and whipping of our OREAM might be appreciated. It should be kept in ICE COLD WATER until wanted for use, and then there will be no trouble about its whipping in good shape. We have pure milk and can supply in any quantity at short notice. Ice cream manufacturers and large users of cream are especially requested to call for prices, and give our cream a trial. Cream will be delivered at any point in the city or suburbs if enough is ordered at one time to make it an object, or will be shipped by express to any point in the state. The choicest makes of Creamery Butter always on hand. We sell for cash Four Pound Prints for $1.00. Our line of GROCERIES, FRUITS, Etc., are first-class goods. Our telephone call has been changed to 732-4 Respectfully, E. H. CLARK, 732-4

MANY PROMINENT MEN. At the funeral of Professor Eaton, yesterday. The funeral of the late Prof. Daniel Cady Eaton took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from his late residence, 70 Sachem street. Rev. William A. Beardsley, pastor of St. Thomas' church, officiated. The services were simple and unostentatious. The bearers were Prof. William H. Brewer, Prof. Arthur M. Wheeler of Yale, Prof. William G. Farlow of Harvard, Dr. Charles S. Ward of Bridgeport, Ralph W. Cutler of Hartford, Rev. Storrs D. Seymour of Litchfield, George Rockwell and Robert Brown, secretary of the university observatory. The funeral was largely attended by members of the Yale faculty and other distinguished gentlemen from out of town, besides many of the prominent residents. There were many floral offerings from relatives and friends. The interment was in the family lot in the Grove street cemetery.

BUCHANAN'S REMAINS. Viewed by Seven Thousand People Yesterday—A Fight for Places in Line. New York, July 2.—The funeral of Dr. Robert W. Buchanan, who was yesterday executed at Sing Sing, was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon. It took place from the undertaking shop of Anthony Hanna of 127 Varick street, and the services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. J. E. Halsey of the Spring street Methodist Episcopal church. Dr. Halsey has officiated at many funerals similar to this. As soon as the services were concluded the body was taken to Evergreen cemetery, where the interment took place. That cemetery was chosen in preference to Greenwood at Mrs. Buchanan's request. Mrs. Buchanan was 2, whom Dr. Buchanan was convicted of having killed by poison, is buried in the latter cemetery, and Mrs. Buchanan does not like the association. Three carriages followed the body to the grave. One was occupied by Mrs. Buchanan and Lawyer Gibbons. The occupants of the other two carriages were not known, but it is assumed that they were friends of Mrs. Buchanan. Lawyer Gibbons and a few of his friends will pay the expenses of the funeral. Just because the body of an executed murderer lay there the undertaker's shop was crowded by hundreds of persons ever since the body was brought down at 6 o'clock last night until it was taken away this afternoon. From the time of its arrival until 2:30 o'clock this morning hundreds of morbidly curious men and women and small children continued to pour through the door, and with heads bared gazed curiously at the face of the dead man as they filed around his coffin. Early this morning Undertaker Hanna made an effort to close his shop, but his bell was kept ringing so incessantly that two hours later he again opened it. Several persons were standing by the door awaiting admission, and they had no more departed after a review of the body by the daylight than others came and succeeded then. Throughout the morning the crowd continued to pass in, and at 10:30 o'clock it was estimated that fully 1,500 persons had viewed the features of the dead murderer. At times the throngs were so great that the police had to be summoned in order to keep them in line. In passing the coffin everyone observed the usual token of respect for the dead. The men all removed their hats and not a word was spoken in the room where the body lay. Throughout the late morning hours, during the noon hour and up to the very hour of the funeral the morbid continued to flock into the undertaker's shop to view the remains of the body. Between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock when business in the factories in the vicinity was suspended, the employees fairly came in droves. During the entire hour there was not a single break in the line, and frequently the crowd became so great that the doors had to be closed that the room might not become too jammed. School children also came in crowds, and there were more than one instance where children who could not have been over four years old were led in to view the corpse. Many mothers brought their babies in their arms. It was estimated that by 1 o'clock fully seven thousand persons must have viewed the body since its arrival. Some of the more impatient ones made desperate attempts to satisfy their curiosity before their turn arrived. Not a few attempted to climb in through the windows, while others clambered over fences and tried to make their way in through the rear of the house. Most of these attempts were frustrated. As the hour for the funeral approached, and men, women and children bore down upon the little shop, the scene lost the comparative quiet of the early morning. It became almost a shoving match. Men were pushing and shoving their way through the line despite all the efforts of those in charge to hold them back. Women were talking and chattering and children were snickering and making remarks which they undoubtedly considered amusing. Undertaker Hanna finally took up his position by the door. Whenever the crowd became too great he shouted out: "Take your time! Take your time! Everybody will have a chance to see the body."

His shouts were frequently interrupted by remarks from the visitors, such as "Why don't you charge a quarter admission and retire on the proceeds?" "This will cost you a new carpet, sure!" "You were never so popular before," and other exclamations of a similar character. Steadily the jam increased until the line which passed around the coffin was two and sometimes three deep. Special policemen were on hand for the funeral, as it was expected that the number of spectators would be enormous. The coffin which contained the body rested on two stools in the front room of the shop. It was a plain black coffin lined with white satin. On the lid was a silver plate bearing the inscription: ROBERT W. BUCHANAN, Died July 1, 1895, Aged 31 years. No flowers were in the room this morning. The face of the executed man looked quite natural. Aside from a slight scar on the right temple caused by the electricity, and the presence of a little more than its usual pallor, there was not a change noticeable in the features. The body was clothed in a black frock coat and vest, the low cut of which disclosed a white shirt bosom and a small black tie. FIGHT WITH BURGLARS. Post Office Thieves and a Night Watchman Exchange Shots. New Milford, July 2.—Three burglars effected an entrance to the post office here early this morning, but they were frightened off by the night watchman, and secured nothing. One of the burglars stood on guard at the corner of Bank and Main streets, and when the watchman appeared he was ordered to throw up his hands. The watchman replied by throwing his club at the robber. The burglar fired. The watchman stepped behind a tree and returned the fire. The other two thieves came to the assistance of their companion, and a general fusillade was the result. When the watchman's revolver was empty he ran to the home of Policeman Addis, near by, and aroused him. When they returned to the post office the robbers had fled. A sledge, two chisels and a brace remained behind. A broken side window showed how the burglars had entered.

NO POLITICS ALLOWED. Strictest Discipline in Boston's Fire Department. Boston, July 2.—Colonel Henry S. Russell, Boston's new fire commissioner, issued a general order to-day which outlines the policy of the new head of the fire department and shows conclusively that he intends to have the strictest discipline maintained while he is commissioner. The following are extracts: There is to be no action or talk for the purpose of changing the rules and laws relating to the department, for a contract exists between the city and the members of the department, and when any one is dissatisfied he can be relieved from all obligation by resigning, but must not try to have the laws and rules changed as long as he wears the uniform. Every member must rest on his own merit as a fireman, as well as on his character as a man, and on them alone depend his association and his promotion. No politics will be allowed in company houses, and no member of the department can belong to a political club. This department is one of firemen, and not one of or for politicians; and its members must choose between the two.

German M. E. Church. On Thursday, July 11, the Sunday school of the German M. E. church of George street will hold their annual picnic at Lake Saltonstad. They Returned in Safety. Lynn, Mass., July 2.—Henry Thompson, George Kennedy and William Welsh, the three men who on Saturday started in a dory for a sail from Swampscott to Nantasket, and for whose safety some anxiety had been felt, returned home to-day. They have been at Nantasket since their departure. Blackman's Trial Postponed. Stamford, July 2.—The trial of A. J. Blackman, the milkman who was responsible for the recent epidemic of typhoid fever here, was set down for this morning, but it was continued for another week. Dr. Crudden, the New York bacteriologist, who examined the milk, refuses to come to Stamford, so his deposition will be taken. But if it is unfavorable to the defense it will not be introduced, as rules of practice prevent the state from offering it.

Miscellaneous. THE AELIAN Is Essentially An Instrument For the Home. The variety of music the Aelian performs—its repertoire is unlimited; together with its simplicity of operation—it can be played by anyone after a few days' practice, makes it interesting and entertaining for every member of the family. The Aelian serves in a double capacity; it entertains and it instructs. It broadens and cultivates the tastes of its hearers by familiarizing them with the musical classics, ancient and modern. The Aelian will play the simplest song and play it well; but it is in playing a Beethoven Symphony or a Bach Fugue that the wonderful qualities of the instrument are revealed. The Aelian will be played for all who will do us the favor to call. The M. Steinert & Sons Co., 777 CHAPEL STREET.

Miscellaneous. THE AELIAN Is Essentially An Instrument For the Home. The variety of music the Aelian performs—its repertoire is unlimited; together with its simplicity of operation—it can be played by anyone after a few days' practice, makes it interesting and entertaining for every member of the family. The Aelian serves in a double capacity; it entertains and it instructs. It broadens and cultivates the tastes of its hearers by familiarizing them with the musical classics, ancient and modern. The Aelian will play the simplest song and play it well; but it is in playing a Beethoven Symphony or a Bach Fugue that the wonderful qualities of the instrument are revealed. The Aelian will be played for all who will do us the favor to call. The M. Steinert & Sons Co., 777 CHAPEL STREET.
