WILLIAM MCCARTHY DYING

WELL KNOWN NEW HAVEN MAN TAKES LAUDANUM IN NEW YORK.

He Was Found by a Policeman at What Appeared to be an Epileptic Fit—Is Now at Flower Hospital—For Years Kept a Place at Wallace and Walnut Streets in This City.

New York, July 5.—William McCarthy, a bartender, who lives at 56 Walnut street, New Haven, lies in the Flower hospital in a serious condition as a result of swallowing laudanum. He was found this afternoon by a policeman at Sixth avenue and Forty-third street. He was apparently suffering from an epileptic fit and the officer summoned an ambulance, in which McCarthy was removed to the hospital. There the surgeons decided he was suffering from a drug and his stomach was at once thoroughly washed out and other means taken to counteract the action of the drug, which was believed to be laudanum. When McCarthy's clothing was searched a whiskey flask half full of laudanum was found. In one of the pockets was a revolver.

The police authorities were notified and a policeman was sent to arrest and guard the patient, who was charged with attempted suicide and with violation of a corporation ordinance in carrying a concealed weapon.

McCarthy was unable to say much about himself. He is mentally deranged.

William McCarthy is one of the best known saloon keepers in this city. For years he has kept an establishment at the corner of Wallace and Walnut streets. He has never been known to be inclined to dissipation. All who know him who were seen by a "Courier" representative said he led an exemplary life. He is about forty years of age and has a wife and several children. He left home on Wednesday morning.

TRIED TO KILL HIS WIFE.

Released From Prison on Wednesday a Man Attempted Murder Yesterday.

New York, July 5.—Samuel Herkowitz, twenty-eight years old, who was released Wednesday from the Auburn prison, where he had served a term of two years for assaulting Officer Graham of Brooklyn, went to the home of his wife at 74 Johnson avenue, Williamsburg, this morning and asked her to live with him. She refused, whereupon Herkowitz pulled a table knife from his pocket. It was sharpened to a fine point. He sprang upon her and stabbed her in the breast, neck and head. Then going to a looking-glass, he drew the blade across his throat.

Mrs. Herkowitz fell to the floor unconscious and her husband, with the blood streaming from his throat, attempted to run away, but was captured. Both were taken to St. Charles hospital, where they are said to be in a dying condition.

RACING AT BRIDGEPORT.

Good Time Was Made Even Though the Track Was Heavy.

Bridgeport, July 5.—The national circuit race meet of the Bridgeport Wheel club at Pleasure Beach to-day was attended by 1,500. The rain left the track heavy and a stiff breeze from the sound prevented fast time. F. J. Titus laved by himself last year to 2:50 3-5, paced by J. T. Barry of Syracuse, F. H. Allen, of Springfield, and H. H. Maddox, of Ashbury Park. Many class B men entered in the races and Maddox, Titus, Ray MacDonald, E. S. Johnson and Otto Zeigler did some fast work considering conditions. The prettiest race of the day was the one-mile class B men.

Two-thirds mile open, class A.—Fred C. Hoyt of Bridgeport, 1; W. A. Ottman, New York, 2; Thomas Aston, Bridgeport, third. Time 1:57 2-3.

One-third mile, class B.—Zeigler, 1; E. Kiser of Dayton, 2; H. H. Maddox, 3. Time 46 4-5.

One mile handicap, class A.—David E. Baxter of New York, 1; F. S. Hoyt, 2; W. A. Rutz, 3. Time 2:25 1-5.

Two-thirds mile open, class B.—Ray MacDonald, 1; Kiser, 2; Zeigler, 3. Time 1:49.

One mile, L.A.W. state championship.—F. C. Hoyt, 1; J. J. Adams, of Hartford, 2. Time 2:25 4-5.

One mile handicap, class B.—Maddox, 1; Kiser, 2; Barry, 3. Time 2:25 1-5.

One mile championship of Bridgeport, class A.—F. C. Hoyt, 1; Herman Leopold, 2. Time 2:32 4-5.

One mile open, class B.—Maddox, 1; Zeigler, 2; Titus, 3.

HE IS INDIGNANT.

Postmaster General Wilson Sends a Tart Letter to New York.

Washington, July 5.—Postmaster General Wilson to-day addressed an indignant letter to the United States district attorney at New York in regard to the escape of the post office burglars, Kiloran, Allen and Russell. He says he cannot avoid the conclusion that some body is criminally responsible for the escape.

He states that knowing the desperate character of these criminals and their long and successful careers as thieves and burglars, as also the plentiful means which they were reported to have at command for corruption purposes, he had been anxious about their custody ever since he learned that they had been permitted to change their personal appearance since their incarceration with the evident purpose of thwarting the identification when arraigned for trial. He says he has offered a reward of $1,000 for the recapture of each of them.

To a reporter Mr. Wilson said he would exhaust every effort to secure the recapture of the burglars.

VALKYRIE AND ALSA.

They Race Alone Over the Clyde Course, Britannia Being Disabled.

Hunter's Quay, July 5.—The Valkyrie III and the Britannia were to have sailed a private match to-day, and at the appointed time Lord Dunraven and Designer Watson were on board the former boat, which was lying at anchor with her mainsail and topsail set and her headsails in steps ready for the signal to get under way. It was then discovered that something was wrong with the Britannia's topmast rigging, and Captain Carter announced that it would be impossible to set masts right before the middle of the afternoon.

The captain of the Alisa decided to sail over the course in the Britannia's stead, as the Valkyrie's competitor. The Alisa and Valkyrie left their anchorage under jockeyed topsails and the usual lower sails. The wind was fresh from the south and the sea was smooth.

The Valkyrie's mainsail was slightly altered yesterday, but it is not intended to reduce her spars to add to her ballast until she has had further trials in her present state.

The starting signal was given by the Iverna at 2:30 p. m. and the Alisa got away fifteen seconds in advance of Valkyrie III. The wind was blowing fresh from the south and both boats were sailing close hauled on the starboard tack at 2:45, while still in the lead the Alisa broke tacks and the Valkyrie, followed promptly by the terms of the order, she bow. Both tacked again in mid-channel at 2:48:00, the Alisa still holding the lead. At 2:55:00 both boats were coming off the Cloch shore on the port tack. The breeze had become fresher and the Valkyrie heeled freely. The contest was very exciting to those who were on board the flotilla of steam yachts which followed the racers.

The Alisa led until 3:35:00 when a fresh puff of wind gave the Valkyrie a fresh start. Under this impulse she shot ahead, getting the Alisa under her lee. When the former came around in mid-channel to the starboard an exciting series of short tacking followed, the Alisa attempting to get clear and the Valkyrie tacking four times within four minutes in order to prevent the Alisa from getting out.

The Valkyrie finally drew out in fine style. She rounded the weather mark three and a half minutes ahead and from this point to the finish gradually increasing her lead, crossing the line at the commodore's boat at 4:55:50. The Alisa's finishing time was 5:00:50.

No More Gambling at Saratoga.

Saratoga, N. Y., July 5.—Every gambling place in this village closed to-day. The first place to close was the old Morrissey club. Mr. Canfield appeared at police headquarters and stated that he would close for good and that they need not take the trouble of sending officers down for the purpose. Ex-President of the Village Caleb W. Mitchell quietly followed suit.

Wounded in a Duel.

Rome, July 5.—Signor Galli, under secretary of the Interior, and Deputy Marescalchi fought a duel this morning as the result of their dispute in the chamber yesterday, on which occasion Signor Galli called Marescalchi a liar. Both were slightly wounded.

Signed the Decree.

Chicago, July 5.—Judge Showalter to-day signed the decree of sale which provides for the auctioning off of the eight best pieces of whiskey trust property. The sale will probably take place Monday, August 5. It will be a mere formality, as there are no bidders expected besides the reorganization committee, whose offer of $3,000,000 is made the upset price by the terms of the order.

Counsel for the reorganization committee says the decree is not appealable and that even if it were Greenhut and Morris, not being parties of record, cannot come in as appellants.

RAIN HAD NO EFFECT.

Enthusiasm in Tennis Tuxedo in Spite of the Showers.

Tuxedo Park, July 5.—The hard rain to-day did not affect the enthusiasm of the players in the Tuxedo tennis tournament, as the matches were continued right through in spite of the showers.

Mrs. Vanderbilt Goes to Newport.

New York, July 5.—The steamer Lucania, which arrived here this evening, had aboard Mrs. Alva Vanderbilt, her daughter, Miss Consuelo, and her son, Harold. The party left to-night for Newport.

Will be Pushed to a Finish.

Washington, July 5.—It is understood that the state department has requested Ambassador Eustis to push the Waller matter to a final conclusion as speedily as possible. The attention of the department has been called by P. H. Bray, the stepson of ex-Congress Waller, to the fact that Mr. Waller has been denied medical attention by the French authorities and that is suffering from chills.

PATRIOTIC CELEBRATION

INTERESTING EVENT AT BEACON HILL PARK YESTERDAY.

Bronze Tablet Unveiled in Commemoration of the Invasion of New Haven—General E. S. Greeley the Presiding Officer of the Day—Orator by Senator Orville H. Platt—Other Addresses—Presentation of Prize and Certificate to Percy A. Whitmore, of Washington School, for Best Essay on "The Invasion of New Haven"—Reception After the Exercises at the Townsend Residence.

The patriotic celebration which took place at Fort Wooster Park on Beacon Hill yesterday afternoon in connection with the unveiling of a memorial tablet was a most inspiring occasion—inspiring, both from the natural beauty and historic associations of the place where the exercises were held, as well as from the presence and earnest words of patriotism of the men and women, who were moved by a deeper love of country to undertake such a celebration.

It is interesting to think what might be the feelings of the stern farmer-warriors of the revolution, who so bravely made a stand against the marauding troops of General Tryon at Fort Wooster, if they could have beheld the event of yesterday. That which enlisted the attention of most on arriving at the park were the improvements which have been made during the last few years by the park commission. A well-made road leads up the hill to the park which crowns the summit of Beacon Hill. Standing on the very topmost point of the hill, which were used as earthworks by the forefathers, the views which lie at one's feet in whatever direction vision is cast are unsurpassed in beauty and variety of scenery. Towards the east spread out the broad and fertile meadows of East Haven, rich in all that "wealth of rural beauty which charms the eye. Still beyond lowlying hills veiled in a blue haze form the bounding limit of vision. Turning the eye to the south and southwest, one is transferred from all the charm of a rural landscape to breadth and expanse of the blue waters of the sound. At the base of the hill and seemingly almost at your very feet lies New Haven bay with the breakwater and lighthouse at the lower end, many vessels riding at anchor all over its surface, and the grand old city itself encircling its upper end. Few who walk the streets of New Haven from one week's end to another take the time to realize the extreme beauty of the situation of this old university and colonial town. If such people would attend a patriotic celebration at Fort Wooster Park they would see it as they never saw it before.

Situated high and dry above the harbor, with East and West Rocks rising up perpendicularly to the height of about 400 feet and over on either side the city like eternal sentinels, Quinipiac and West rivers bounding its east and west sides and thus making a water boundary on all but one side, and then the city itself in its rich array of green with the spires and towers of many churches and edifices rising above the tree-tops, one cannot but be impressed with the scene as one of unparalleled beauty. Altogether the view of New Haven and its immediate surroundings as seen from Fort Wooster Park is most beautiful, and was much enjoyed by the hundreds who visited the park yesterday. But it was not alone to enjoy the natural beauty of the spot that the sons and daughters of the American revolution went out to the park for yesterday. It was to hallow and consecrate the historic associations and traditions of the place with an enduring memorial of the patriotism, bravery and high purpose of the men who took their stand there for the cause of liberty one hundred and sixteen years ago. Amid such surroundings what more fitting place for a shrine sacred to liberty?

Six special cars left the corner of Chapel and Church streets at 2 o'clock and took the Second Company Governor's Foot Guards, the General David Humphreys' branch, No. 1, Connecticut Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, Mary Clap Wooster chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and the officers of the Society of Colonial Dames, and invited guests and many others. Just before they started the weather had been clear, but on the way out dark threatening clouds came up and it sprinkled a little. But fortunately the rain held off during the exercises, and it was not until those who were not fortunate to have partaken of Captain James M. Townsend's hospitality had all reached their homes that the rain came. But the Second Company Governor's Foot Guard and some of the invited guests who had had the pleasure of regaling themselves at Raynham, the beautiful country residence of the Messrs. James M. and Geo. H. Townsend, after exercises, were caught in a heavy shower just as they were leaving the cars at the corner of Elm and State streets. The members of the Foot Guard were obliged to take refuge in neighboring stores to escape getting their bright red coats drenched. They filled up every store in the neighborhood, which for the time took on the appearance of military barracks. While marching up Chapel street they were caught in another shower.

ADDRESS OF JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

It is particularly appropriate that we should resume to-day the celebration of the anniversary of our national independence which was so rudely interrupted by the British invasion of this harbor, with East and West Rocks rising up perpendicularly to the height of about 400 feet and over on either side the city like eternal sentinels, Quinipiac and West rivers bounding its east and west sides and thus making a water boundary on all but one side, and then the city itself in its rich array of green with the spires and towers of many churches and edifices rising above the tree-tops, one cannot but be impressed with the scene as one of unparalleled beauty. Altogether the view of New Haven and its immediate surroundings as seen from Fort Wooster Park is most beautiful, and was much enjoyed by the hundreds who visited the park yesterday. But it was not alone to enjoy the natural beauty of the spot that the sons and daughters of the American revolution went out to the park for yesterday. It was to hallow and consecrate the historic associations and traditions of the place with an enduring memorial of the patriotism, bravery and high purpose of the men who took their stand there for the cause of liberty one hundred and sixteen years ago. Amid such surroundings what more fitting place for a shrine sacred to liberty?

The skirmish of Lexington and Concord has long been, as well it may be, the theme of the historian, the orator and the poet. It marked the first armed resistance to British oppression, the first outspoken expression of the determined, indomitable spirit of the fathers of the revolution. The defense of New Haven, differing but little in the number of patriots who laid down their lives for the country, and lacking only the same dramatic position in history, showed to the British that the spirit of Concord and Lexington was as glorious as that of Lexington and Concord. Yes, it was twice a victory, for not only did the stupidity conceived and brutality executed plan fail of its purpose, but it gave new life and vigor to the very spirit it aimed to quench. For we well know that, for every brave patriot who fell at New Haven, a score—nay, a hundred men sprang to arms in this land already striped of the flow of her brave defenders who were facing the enemy in legitimate warfare at the seat of war itself. And when this marauding fleet, fleeing from the vengeance this barbarous raid had aroused, skulked from our shores to join the British forces, the perpetrators of the dastardly deeds enacted here were confronted with the consciousness that they had murdered and raped rather than fought a legitimate warfare to answer for, and were greeted, on their return, with the news that while they were engaged in robbery, arson and murder Anthony Wayne and his gallant band had stormed and captured Stony Point in one of the most brilliant engagements of the war. Thus swiftly did the nemesis of remorse and defeat overtake these ruthless invaders and confirm our victory.

Those who went out on the special cars to the exercises were taken to the foot of Beacon Hill just beyond St. Andrew's M. E. church, and from there marched up the hill in the following order: Governor's Foot Guard band. Second Company Governor's Foot Guard, Major Benjamin E. Brown, commanding. General David Humphreys branch, No. 1, Sons of the American Revolution. Mary Clap Wooster chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. Officers of the Society of Colonial Dames.

On the top of the earth works a flag staff had been erected and a large flag was flying, both being the gift of Captain James M. Townsend. On the side of the large granite boulder on which the tablet had been placed, a stage had been erected for the speakers and officers of the day, and chairs had been provided on the ground round about it for the guests.

Those who occupied seats on the stage were: Gen. E. S. Greeley, chairman and vice president of the Connecticut Society of the Sons of the American Revolution; Franklin H. Hart, vice president of the General David Humphreys society; Jonathan Trumbull, president of the Connecticut Society of the Sons of the American Revolution; John C. Hollister, treasurer of the same society; Rev. Edwin S. Lines, chaplain of the society; Charles P. Cooley, secretary; and Senators Orville H. Platt and Jonathan F. Morris of the board of managers of the Connecticut society; Judge Simeon E. Baldwin, president of the New Haven Colony Historical society; Miss Mary P. Talcott, registrar of the Society of Colonial Dames; F. G. Gay, registrar of the Society of Colonial Wars and Sons of the American Revolution; W. W. Farnam, Henry F. English and General E. E. Bradley. Park commissioners, Major Benjamin E. Brown, A. W. Phelps, son of a soldier of the revolutionary war, Percy A. Whitmore, prize essayist, Everett E. Lord, Nathan Easterbrook, William E. Chandler and General George T. Ford, members of the club committee.

The invited guests and members of the committees wore handsome badges consisting of an ivory type portrait of General David Humphreys, surrounded by the seal of the society. They were considered very neat and tasty. Copies of a very artistic souvenir program, containing the order of exercises and the essay written by Percy A. Whitmore were distributed to the guests on the way out of the park. A handsome reproduction of "The Black Jack Jug" used in King Charles' time was stationed on the desk on the stage, and contained the feed water with which the speakers refreshed themselves.

After the guests had been seated on the stage Franklin H. Hart, vice president of the General David Humphreys branch of the Sons of the American Revolution, called the assembly to order and introduced General E. S. Greeley, chairman of the day, with a few brief but appropriate remarks. General Greeley, vice president of the Connecticut Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, responded briefly with an interesting address. Rev. Edwin S. Lines, chaplain of the Connecticut Society of the American Revolution, then pronounced the invocation. After music by the Governor's Foot Guard band President Jonathan Trumbull of the Connecticut Society of the American Revolution then made the opening address, in which he formally presented the tablet to the General David Humphreys society.

BUSINESS IS IMPROVING

THE UPWARD TENDENCY OF PRICES SAYS BRADSTREETS IS STRIKING.

More Than a Million Industrial Workers Have Received an Advance in Wages Averaging Ten Per Cent.—Cotton Goods Are Firm—No Improvement Reported From the South.

New York, July 5.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: Notwithstanding the week is broken by a holiday, favorable trade conditions heretofore reported continue to exercise a pronounced influence, prominently general advances in prices of staples and in wages of industrial employes. The latest advices are that in all more than one million industrial workers have received an advance averaging about 10 per cent. The upward tendency in prices is still striking, because of additional advances, those of lumber, tin-plate and print cloths being new. Print stuffs at Chicago are about 50 cents per 1,000, and at Seattle lumber is to be advanced to-day. St. Louis reports ten cents per box higher and that American tin-plate factories are kept busy to meet the demand. Cotton goods are firm on the late advances in raw cotton. Wool is quoted at another advance for South American and Australian varieties.

Prices at London sales are up 10 to 15 points, which, having been more than discounted here, induces the trade to anticipate reaction unless London quotations advance further. Cotton also is higher, as is leather, following which we have a repetition of the announcement made each week for a month that quotations for pig iron and steel billets have advanced. This must be added a similar statement in respect to bar iron. The anthracite coal trade remains in the unfavorable condition which has so long characterized it. Cattle and hogs remain practically unchanged in price, as do sugar and coffee. Among the list of staples for which prices are lower are wheat flour, wheat, corn and oats, in all instances the outcome of reports of improved crop conditions. Pork and lard are lower, as are potatoes and butter.

At the east the most active trade is reported from Pittsburgh, while the revival among the iron and steel industries has stimulated trade in almost all lines. At the west the most favorable condition is from St. Louis and the incentive appears to be uniform reports of favorable crop prospects throughout the region tributary to that city. No material improvement is reported from the south, rains continuing to be damaging to agricultural interests, and to check trade in Texas, while at South Atlantic and Gulf state cities the quiet movement of staple goods and fair or unsatisfactory collections of the past month or two continue. But advices from nearly all cities reported appear to agree that wholesale dealers in nearly all lines are greatly encouraged as to the outlook for business during the autumn, believing that the demand will be greatly stimulated by the very general and as it is now believed permanent improvement in prices. Total June bank clearings of sixty-one cities are $4,881,785,381, a decrease of 9.4 per cent. from May, but an increase over June a year ago of 22.5 per cent., which showed a decrease of 20 per cent. from June, 1893.

Gains in the New England, middle and northwestern states are smaller in June than in May, but in the southern and far western states the increase is larger than in May, pointing to business improvement in the latter sections. Total clearings at sixty-one cities for six months of 1895 aggregate $25,204,588,767, an increase over 1894 of 16.5 per cent., but a decrease from 1893 and 1892 of 17 per cent. Among 38 cities with totals for important months of 1894 and 1895 only 17 report decrease.

European stocks of wheat in store and afloat are 70,750,000 bushels, a decrease of only 3,000,000 and of 6,000,000 bushels respectively from one and two years ago. American, Canadian, European and Australian stocks of available wheat July 1, 1895, amount to 136,677,000 bushels against 154,319,000 bushels one year ago, 157,208,000 two years ago and smaller quantities in previous years. Exports of wheat (flour included as wheat) from both coasts of the United States and from Montreal amount to 2,007,000 bushels this week, against 1,850,000 in the week a year ago, and 3,867,000 in the first week of the year in 1893.

There are 197 failures reported throughout the United States this week compared with 164 in the first week of July 1894. General trade has slackened up a little at Montreal, where a new departure is being made to export butter in cold storage. At Quebec City there is a check to business also, but crop prospects in the eastern portion of the province are good. Toronto reports large receipts of hay from Quebec. Eastern Nova Scotia crop prospects are disappointing owing to drought. Crop prospects and the outlook for cod-fishing in Newfoundland are both excellent. Bank clearings at Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal, Quebec and Nova Scotia amount to $47,555,367 for six months of 1895. In the first half of 1894 the total was $47,747,687; the gain is about 7 per cent.

Total business failures in the dominion numbered 25 this week, against 39 in the week a year ago.

Strikers Still Out.

Amesbury, Mass., 5.—At a meeting of the striking weavers of Hamilton mills this afternoon to discuss the opening to-day it was voted not to return unless some concessions are made. The real struggle begins Monday.

Two Persons Drowned.

Barre, Vt., July 5.—A pleasure party met with a fatal accident at Murra lake this afternoon. A rowboat capsized and Kate Caswell and John Monce were drowned. John McDonald being rescued by hard work. The bodies of the victims have not yet been found.

Peoria, Ill., July 5.—Strathberry, owned by Dr. William Scott of Centralville, Ia., paced a mile in 2:09, breaking the world's record for half mile tracks.

Ten Persons Killed.

Colon, July 5.—A boiler in the electric light works at Carthage exploded to-day, destroying three houses, killing ten persons, and injuring eighteen others.

Quickly Left Rhode Island.

Providence, July 5.—Perry Yerrington, the Boston gas machine promoter, was liberated from Cranston jail to-day, where he has been for about two weeks past. Yerrington at once went to Massachusetts and all the efforts of the New York police with warrants and requisition papers thus prove futile. He will be under the care of his bondsman, Albert Turon, of Worcester, for some time to come, awaiting trial.

NIAGARA RACES AGAIN.

She Meets Eucharis, Zinta and Dakotah in the West of Scotland Regatta.

Greenock, July 5.—The annual regatta of the West of Scotland Yacht club was held to-day. The principal contest was that of the 20-raters, the participants being the Niagara, Zinta, Eucharis and Dakotah. The boats crossed the line in this order: Zinta—11:15:05. Eucharis—11:15:23. Niagara—11:15:26. Dakotah—11:15:28.

The course was from the commodore's boat to Powder buoy, Dunoon, and back, three times around.

Going down toward Hunter's Quay the Niagara secured second place, beating the Eucharis to the windward. The Zinta got a long lead and the Niagara forereached cleverly on the Eucharis on the fetch to Dunoon, but the latter caught the Niagara on the free reach back to the commodore's boat. The wind was blowing very strong and the Dakotah proved to be useless in such a heavy breeze.

The boats passed Dunoon in this order: Zinta—12:19:10. Niagara—12:23:11. Eucharis—12:23:45. Dakotah—12:25:20.

The protest made by the Niagara yesterday was against the Dakotah, but in view of the result of the race, the Niagara winning easily, it was allowed to lapse.

The Zinta's long lead diminished the interest in her, but the Niagara and Eucharis had an exciting race. The Eucharis passed the Niagara in reaching to round the lee mark, the former going a long way to the weather, but in coming by the wind the Niagara began to forereach and slid up to the windward. She gradually drew up to even terms with the Eucharis and finally passed and left her in the rear in the most decisive fashion. The boats rounded Dunoon on the second round in this order: Zinta—1:55:28. Niagara—2:01:40. Eucharis—2:02:50. Dakotah—2:10:00.

The time of the yachts at the commodore's boat at the finish of the third round was: Zinta—2:59:03. Niagara—3:05:55. Eucharis—3:10:20. Dakotah—3:20:05.

The Zinta was disqualified by the judges.

Given a Coat of Feathers.

Boston, July 5.—A Globe special from Canterbury, N. H., says that last night a party of citizens, disguised as white caps, who had become disgusted with the relations existing between James Nudd and Josie Carter, the latter working as housekeeper for Nudd, called at the latter's house, took him into the front yard, coated him with molasses, sand and feathers, then allowed him to depart. The girl, whose reputation was of the best until she went to live with Nudd a year ago, was given strong words of advice, and after promising never again to live with Nudd was driven to her home in another part of the town.

He Kept His Word.

Gallipolis, O., July 5.—The Sons of Veterans at Lincoln gave an ice cream supper last night. Among those present were Galvray Tipton, his wife, from whom he had been separated and John Willis, a school teacher, and the son of a wealthy farmer. Tipton had boasted that he would kill the man whom he caught talking to his wife. During the evening the woman engaged Willis in conversation. Tipton thereupon shot and killed Willis and Mrs. Tipton and escaped to the hills. He is being pursued by a posse.

He Inspired Longfellow.

Chicago, July 5.—Alexander Heeler, who is said by photographers to have been the greatest Daguerreotypist of the country, died to-day. It is said he was primarily responsible for the inspiration which moved Longfellow to write "Hawthorne." In 1851 Heeler photographed the falls of Minnehaha. George Sumner bought two of the pictures and one of them got into Longfellow's possession.
