Lactated Food a Substitute for Mother's Milk.

Change From One to the Other Causes No Disturbance.

Healthy mother's milk is unquestionably the best infant food.

But this best of foods, so long as it is rich and nourishing, becomes the source of mischief as soon as it grows weak, watery and lacking in the power of feeding.

Towards the close of the nursing period, or when nursing is protracted through the entire hot summer, few mothers are able to nurse their growing babies as they ought. It is rare that the breast milk does not show a decided falling off in richness. Infants fed at the breast on such milk, insufficient in quality and amount, soon show the effect in colicky attacks and in diminished growth from week to week. Their drooping heads are continually moist and a pained, drawn expression—the sign of weakness, often steals over their faces.

No mother can be long in doubt about what to do.

The food must be changed to a rich, safe diet of lactated food. Parents sometimes make the mistake of employing one cow's milk without personal knowledge of its fitness for baby's food. Trouble ensues in many cases. Diarrhoea and cholera infantum result from just such ill-advised substitutes. Fully one-half of the infant deaths are caused by improper feeding.

When breast milk is insufficient, or the mother not well, lactated food may be absolutely relied on to take the place of vigorous mother's milk.

It is endorsed by the best physicians, by nurses and by happy grateful mothers in every town and village in the land.

No less an authority than Dr. Guernsey, the senior editor of the New York Medical Times, says that he uses lactated food with his children. He says that it is pleasant to the taste and easily digested and assimilated. The famous Dr. Agnew, as is well known among physicians, was one of the first to publicly recommend the food. Dr. J. Lewis Smith, perhaps the greatest authority in the country on children's diseases, professor in Bellevue Hospital College, New York, commends its use. There are hundreds of physicians in New England, says the Boston Journal, who prescribe lactated food invariably as the nearest approach to healthy mother's milk, and as a rich baby food that builds up the strength and bodies of young children and invalids.

If lactated food were fed to all babies under five, as an exclusive diet, cholera infantum would be stamped out.

CAMPBELL IS NOMINATED.

He Says That He Will Not Falter—Speech of Senator Brice.

Springfield, Aug. 21.—There were lively times at the democratic convention to-day. Ex-Governor Campbell announced that he would not be a candidate on the democratic ticket for governor, and sent a notice of his decision to Senator Brice.

The news created consternation among the delegates, as they thought that Brice and Campbell had come to an understanding.

Herman Cellarius gave out the news in the shape of a statement from former Governor Campbell, who says that he will not accept the nomination, and appeals to his friends in the convention to prevent it.

When the representatives of the democracy of Ohio assembled this morning in the city hall it was with a feeling of doubt and uncertainty as to what events were in store for the day.

Ex-Governor Campbell's announcement of his ultimatum that he could not and would not accept the gubernatorial nomination, fell like a bombshell among the delegates when they arose this morning, although few of them were disposed to accept the statement as any more final than the previous ones of the same tenor that have come from the same source.

Then it developed that in addition to the contest on the financial plank there would be a bitter fight on the floor against the report of the credentials committee seating the Brice delegates from Cleveland, so that the prospects were good for a series of exciting episodes.

State Chairman M. A. Smalley called the convention to order at 10:25 o'clock. He refrained from making a speech himself. Prayer was offered by Rev. F. F. Breckenridge, and then amid cheers Senator Calvin S. Brice was presented as temporary chairman.

In the course of his speech Senator Brice said:

"This year, if ever, the Ohio democracy must fight with unbroken ranks, and against the common enemy. We must recognize the gravity of the situation. It is now less than a year since we were beaten in this state by nearly 140,000 plurality, nor was this a local disaster, affecting only the party in the state.

"We suffered from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the lakes to the gulf. We were beaten in our strongholds as well as in doubtful places, and it is to be talked of its being the fault of any one man or any single act of the party, or any of the minor causes that affect political success. The shadow of the great world wide panic, the industrial and financial depression, low prices for all products, low wages or no wages for workmen everywhere, despair for farmer and mechanic, terror and ruin for bankers and merchants, and at the bottom of all a false tariff system ruining in turn manufacturer and consumer, and an unwise and fatally weak currency situation, had thrown over the whole nation resentment against the party which happened to be in power when the disaster came. Millions of democrats remained at home—hundreds of thousands in our own state—as a mute protest against the powerlessness of their president and their congress to prevent or protect them from these disasters.

"But does not this convention and the intense feeling manifested by those who attend it, and those who have sent their delegates here, tell the story that a change has come over the public mind; that its fortunes are rising, and that it is quite worth the while to be in the democratic army, which already has the assured and confident step of a march toward victory?"

In regard to the currency question he said:

"I come to urge the party in Ohio to stand on the platform of 1892 on the money question; to let the currency remain as it now is, and not to change our ground without full deliberation at a national convention, and a deliverance from that body. I come to urge that declaration for free coinage would be foolish, because it would be an impotent and idle declaration. It would separate us from the national democracy. It would drive from our support thousands, hundreds of thousands of men who otherwise would act with us.

A declaration in favor of free and unlimited coinage—16 to 1—made by this convention would have no practical effect, and it would mean an abandonment and disclaimer of the splendid results of your democratic administration. You and I have possibly differed from Mr. Cleveland at some time and in some things, as it was our right, our privilege, our duty to do, if we were conscientious in doing so; but taking him all and all he is the greatest statesman and party leader of his time. His democracy, his honesty, his integrity, and his continued attention to business which constitutes genius, have never been excelled, and in my opinion democratic success in 1892 was largely due, as democratic success in 1896 will also be largely due, to the character of our present president, and to the high plane upon which he has sought to place his party and his administration.

"Do not understand me as suggesting the candidacy of President Cleveland for re-election. No such question is now before us. You have heard the republican war cry. Their statement that while both the tariff and the silver question will be discussed, neither will be the issue in the sense of obscuring other questions; that the great paramount issue upon which the battles of both this year and next will be fought will be the record of the democratic party under President Cleveland; that the question will be whether it is to be endorsed and its policy continued or whether it shall be repudiated and its policy ended."

Campbell was nominated for governor by acclamation at 2:15 p. m.

Campbell accepted the nomination in a few words, saying that a good soldier should neither falter nor fall. He would promise them that he would not falter. It was for them to say whether he should fall.

J. E. Peaselee of Hamilton county was nominated by acclamation for lieutenant governor, as were also the following:

For supreme judge—William T. Moon of Auglaize.

For state auditor—James W. Knott of Mansfield.

For state treasurer—W. T. Shober of Gallia.

For attorney general—George A. Fairbanks of Franklin.

For member board of public works—H. P. Heffer of Tuscarawas county.

Clerk of supreme court—J. W. Cruikshank of Miami.

The convention adopted the rooster as an emblem, and at 2:40 adjourned sine die.

COURT RECORD.

United States Circuit Court—Judge Townsend.

Two cases were disposed of by Judge Townsend in the United States circuit court yesterday. The judge dismissed the bill in the case of Thomas E. Ferris against George C. Batchelor, both of New York, alleging an infringement of a flexible corset clasp.

An injunction and accounting was ordered in the case of Robert Bimis, against Zucker & Levett Chemical company, for infringement on a buffing wheel patent.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.

The August term of the United States district court will open in the federal building Tuesday, August 27, at 10 a. m.

The criminal cases listed for trial are the following: Thomas H. Plunkett, Paul Conrad, Richard Conway, Daniel F. Beatty (two cases), Simon Archimielz, George B. Martin, F. C. Myers, Amos Mortimer, Marshall Jewett, John Law and George W. Booth.

The civil cases for the term are Galpin & Co. vs. John Kaiser, Porter & Wetmore vs. Judson Brothers, Meriden First National bank vs. D. P. Woodruff, Yale National Bank vs. Anthony Baserman, A. M. Miller vs. Charles B. Bradley, F. W. Mix vs. Eagle Lock company, Hendered vs. the American and the Nile, the Joshua Bedell petition for a limitation of liability, Eastham vs. schooner Jennie, Pond vs. the Hattie

"Plain, but athletic." (After sketch in New York Truth.) Evidently the picture of a woman cleaning house for the first time with Pearline. She finds that what has always been the hardest kind of hard work is now comparatively easy, pleasant, quickly done—and in her joy and enthusiasm and high spirits, she kicks up her heels.

Probably this is an extreme case. Still, it may be there are numbers of women who, when they clean house first with Pearline, manifest their pleasure in the same way. You don't hear of it, though. They simply tell you that in all their lives the work of house-cleaning has never been so light, so satisfactory, so soon over, so thoroughly well done.

Send Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back.

Morris, Nichols Chemical company vs. the Mentacatch, Thomas Tow Boat company vs. Central Railroad company of New Jersey, Grogan vs. A. M. Ball, Alaska Manufacturing Co. vs. steamship Oneco, United States vs. the Shetucket Co., L. E. Huntley vs. Thomas Ritch & Sons, Cyrus A. Leland, receiver, vs. John P. Bushnell, George J. Carter vs. the schooner Meta.

City Court—Criminal Side—Judge Dow. Edward O'Neil, breach of the peace, $3 fine, $2.90 costs; James O'Neil, breach of the peace, $4 fine, $3.91 costs; Robert Martin, same against Catherine Martin, August 31, nisi; Lewis D. Knowlton and George F. Knowlton, reform school complaints, committed; Richard Regan, breach of the peace, $1 fine, $7.06 costs; Edward Markle, theft, $7 fine, $7.06 costs, thirty days in jail, same, drunk, $3 fine; James Shea, theft, continued to August 22.

Another new feature was added to the Isbell will case in the probate court yesterday afternoon by the appeal of Dr. Fitch of Bridgeport, which was entered by his attorney, Judge Comley of that city. An appeal was filed by the Isbell side on Tuesday. It will be remembered that the will was sustained by Judge Cleveland, except the part that referred to Dr. Fitch.

John Schanzenbach, a grocer at 129 Goffe street, has had his property attached by A. N. Allen & Co. for a bill of $450.

John Hardeman of Walnut street has brought suit against the Fair Haven and Westville Railroad company. He was run into and knocked down, he claims, by car No. 62 of that road while crossing Grand avenue near Ferry street, June 15. He claims $1,000, and has retained Attorney J. B. Tuttle.

Commissioners Jacobs and Wynne of the insolvent estate of the late A. H. Campbell, who was a butter dealer, have rendered their accounting and allow claims of $3,000.

A Plucky Traveler. John Walsh passed through this city on his way to San Francisco last night. He is trying to complete the journey from Frisco to Boston and back in one hundred days, or less, in three days a wager of $500. He is now three days ahead of schedule time and expects to complete the trip in eighty-six days. In order to win the wager he must spend no money by the way, depending entirely on the hospitality of those he comes in contact with for food and shelter. So far he says he has had no difficulty in this respect. His autograph he sells for what the public may feel inclined to give him for it.

The Market Was Irregular Throughout the Day. New York, Aug. 21.—The railway and miscellaneous stock market was irregular throughout the day and at the close of business it is fair to assume that a majority of operators left the street decidedly mixed as to the future course of prices. This is not to be wondered at when the news of the day is reviewed.

In the first place, the crop reports were all that the most enthusiastic bull could desire, the leading officials of the western roads being quoted as saying that this year's crop tonnage will probably exceed that of 1892, an unusually profitable year for the transportation interests.

Sterling exchange weakened, posted rates having been reduced one-half cent to $4.89 1/2 and $4.90 1/2, and only $100,000 gold was taken for export to-morrow. These factors ordinarily would have worked in favor of those operating for higher prices, but owing to the position taken by a well known plunger in the industrial importance of these developments was overlooked. The operator in question, it is understood, has antagonized certain long Wall street interests and as he is long of a big line of Sugar efforts were made to force liquidation. The result was that both Sugar and Tobacco were highly nervous throughout. Sugar at the start broke from 112 to 110 1/2, rallied to 110 3/4 and later dropped to 108 1/2. Tobacco rose from 95 1/2 to 98 1/2 and dropped to 97 1/2. The other industrial were weak in sympathy. The granulars were the only stocks on the list that were not influenced by the gyrations in the industrial, and held stubbornly strong from start to finish.

The market closed irregular, the industrial ruling weak and the railway steady to firm. Not changes show losses of 1/2 per cent. The granulars, however, gained 1/2 per cent.

Bonds were lower. Sales were $1,472,000.
