NOT A PIRATE.

According to the Latest International Law.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—There is no longer any tenable claim that the Itata may be seized as a pirate. It is recognized she can be recaptured for violation of the customs laws, disregard of court, and, perhaps, for kidnapping, but any assumption that she is a pirate is completely negated by the doctrine laid down by the late Francis Wharton, formerly solicitor in the Department of State and an eminent authority on international law. This doctrine was accepted by Secretary Bayard and laid down at the time of the Colombian rebellion and Panama trouble. The Colombian Government had declared insurgent vessels to be pirates, as the Chilean Government has done, but the Secretary held: "The Government of the United States cannot regard as piratical the vessels manned by the parties in arms against the Government of Colombia when such vessel passing to and fro from ports held by such insurgents or when attacking ports in possession of the National Government. In the late civil war the United States in an early period of the struggle surrendered the position that this manning of Confederate cruisers were pirates. The United States of Colombia cannot do otherwise than accept the same view. But however this may be, no neutral power can acquiesce in the position now taken by the Colombian Government."

Another fact which may be of interest in view of the expected arrival of the Itata at a Mexican port, probably Acapulco, is that she cannot stay there, under practices of international law. The Mexican Government could not refuse to protect her, but she could not remain in port more than 24 hours as to do so would subject her to charge of using the port as a base of operations against a friendly Government. If the vessel reaches Acapulco she cannot do there, for the latter vessel would have simply to wait outside the port for twenty-four hours to get an opportunity to retake the Itata and her stores providing these have not in the meantime been transferred to the Esmerelda.

THE ITATA SUNK

By the United States War Ship Charleston.

A Battle Takes Place on the High Seas.

According to a Mexican Newspaper. The Account Not Yet Verified, However.

CITY OF MEXICO, May 13.—The Government has given strict orders to the port authorities on the Pacific Coast to report the appearance of any Chilean or other war ships. It will be difficult to get news as the government wires have to be relied on altogether. The general opinion here is that the Itata and convoys will double upon the Charleston. The Government has ordered the gunboat Democrita to keep a sharp lookout for the vessels. It is rumored here that a private telegram has been received announcing that a fishing schooner yesterday saw two vessels out at sea off the coast at full speed. One was sighted at 10 a. m. and the other at 2 p. m., but so distant as not to be distinguishable.

LATER.

CITY OF MEXICO, May 13.—The Anglo-American, a prominent evening newspaper, created a great sensation this evening by publishing an account of an engagement reported to have taken place between the Esmerelda and Itata on one side and the United States war ship Charleston on the other. In the engagement, which was reported as sharp and decisive, the Esmerelda was badly crippled and the Itata was sunk. The paper gives neither the time nor place of the engagement and the Federal authorities here in the city are not inclined to place much confidence in the report. It is quite evident, however, from the activity around the Navy Department of the Mexican Government that information of some character has been received and is being withheld from the public.

Portugal Peaceful.

LISBON, May 13.—The financial situation is easier here and the country is perfectly tranquil.

Captain ordered me to head the ship for San Clemente island, 'for,' said he, 'it is of the utmost importance—our lives depend upon reaching the island and the schooner without delay.' He also let me know that he was acting under orders; that the real commander of the Itata was a Chilean commandate, one De Silva Pama, whom I now suppose to be an officer of the Chilean warship Esmerelda, now stationed off the Coast of Lower California.

"I was treated quite courteously during the trip by the officers of the vessel, and after we sighted the Robert and Minnie, and the transfer of arms had been made, I was given my choice between being set ashore at San Pedro or going south with the Itata. In the latter case I was offered the command of a vessel as soon as we arrived in Chile.

"I had no reason for desiring to change my location, so I chose the former alternative, came to San Pedro on the schooner, and consider myself well out of a serious and most unpleasant situation.

"Yes, I was paid for my work—the regular pilot fee only, which is always paid before weighing anchor. In this case, the fees, both coming and going at the port, amounted to over $200, which had to be divided among four of us, who assisted at various times.

"As to the guns on board, I only saw the four ten-pounders noticed by Deputy Marshal Spaulding and reported by him after his landing at Ballast Point. I was told, however, by one of the officers that there were six forty-pounders in the hold and two galling guns. The officers also stated that they had thirty-eight prisoners of war confined below decks, who were taken before leaving Chile.

"There were probably not quite 150 men on board, though I saw full 100 at one time armed with rifles, mustered on the middle deck.

"I did not count them because I had enough to attend to the ship's sailing and to look out for my own affairs. I expect to have no difficulty in raising whatever bonds may be required of me tomorrow. In fact, friends of mine at San Pedro raised $50,000 for me last evening, but there was no one there authorized to accept it, so I had to come to Los Angeles.

"If those business was it to have found those cannon and rifles for the marines on board the ship while in harbor at San Diego, do you ask? Why, no one had anything to do with it except the regular custom house officer. I do not wish to say anything against Collector Berry.

"Yes, it is customary for the customs officer to search any suspicious vessel from stem to stern, even if her papers are all right. Mr. Berry may have had reasons, but one thing is sure, if he had searched the hold of that ship, he would have found those four cannon and I don't know how many more contraband articles of war not noted in the ship's bill of lading. It is altogether a very badly mixed up affair, and the damage to me and my business will be not a little."

IN NEBRASKA.

The President Glad to Get Back To the Land of Corn and His Youth.

American Commerce—He Discusses the Silver Question—Spirit of Patriotism.

LINCOLN, Neb., May 13.—The Presidential train entered this State early this morning. The first stop was made at Hastings.

PEOPLE TURN OUT.

OMAHA, May 13.—The people turned out en masse to welcome President Harrison when he arrived here.

The President spoke of the rapid development of Omaha, the resources of Nebraska, etc. He said: "I have seen the orange groves and all those fruits which enrich California. I have seen those mining camps upon the peaks where men are digging into the earth to bring out riches, but I return again to the land of the corn stalk. I am sure those friends who delighted us with visions of loveliness and prosperity will excuse me if my birth and early training in Ohio and Indiana leads me to the conclusion that the States that raise corn are the greatest States in the world."

Speaking about agricultural production, the President said: "It has been a source of constant thought and zealous effort on the part of the administration to secure the largest foreign market for our farm products."

"The obstructions which hindered the free access of our meat products to foreign markets have been removed. I rejoice to know this has brought better prices to the stock raisers of these great Western valleys. I believe that under provisions looking to the reciprocal trade in law of last Congress, that we shall yet open large and new markets for the products of Nebraska farms."

"By such methods as we can it is our purpose to enlarge our foreign markets for the surplus productions of our great country, and we have hope that when this increased traffic and commerce is found upon the sea it shall be carried in American bottoms. [Cheering.]

A few days ago I saw three great ocean ships enter the harbor of San Francisco, one under Hawaiian and two under the English flag. At Portland they took pains to tow up from the lower harbor and to decorate in bunting an American ship that was lying there. It was a curious sight. One they thought important to exhibit to strangers visiting that city [laughter.] My countrymen, I hope the day is not far distant when the sight of great Americanships flying the stars and stripes, will be familiar not only in our ports but in every busy mart of commerce the world around [cheering].

Speaking of currency, the President said I believe the time has gone by when we will be content to return to the old system of the issue of money by State banks; but I will not discuss such questions. I only desire to say this, which is common ground upon which we can all stand, that whatever money the Government issues, paper or coin, it must be good money. I have an idea that every dollar we issue should be as good as any other money. Good enough to pay a working man for a day's toil. None so much as laboring men and farmers require the full value of the dollar.

In concluding the President said nothing has been so impressive in all his journey as the magnificent spirit of patriotism which prevails in our people. He had seen enough American flags to wrap the world around. School children waived it everywhere and many a time in some lonely country home, on the bleak sand, he and some man or woman having saw mills at the place named. The loss to these firms on the buildings and machinery amounts to over $100,000. At present there is little hope that the fire can soon be stayed and the entire lumber district of four or five counties lies at its mercy.

KENTUCKY DERBY.

KINGMAN WINS IT IN A WALK AGAINST A LARGE FIELD.

The Time Not So Good Because He Was Not Pushed—Other Races—The Day Observed by Kentuckians.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 13.—Derby Day, although not down on the calendar as a legal holiday, was observed as such by Kentuckians and many visitors assembled here. The State Democratic convention had more delegates at the track than in the city. Almost the entire city closed up and hastened to the race track. Over 20,000 people were present. The starters in the Derby were Kingman, ridden by Murphy; Balgorean by Overton, and Georgetown by Kelly. Valleria, Hart, Wallace, High Tariff and Poet Scott also started. Kingman won the Derby; Balgorean second; High Tariff third.

In these with Kingman and Hart Wallace made a field. Kingman's great race at Lexington entitled him to first place in betting and it was a liberal bookmaker that laid odds of $1000 to $1500 on the winner. When the derby was called Kingman came out first, ridden by Isaac Murphy, and the recognition of the horse and rider was followed by cheers which the surrounding knots and bill tops took up and echoed back again. The others were also given a cordial reception by the crowd. Ranged up, they were given the flag at the first attempt. The pace was set with High Tariff making the running, Balgorean at the saddle girths and Kingman and Hart Wallace well up. The pace was slow and at the half positions were unchanged. They passed the stand in the same order, but on the backstretch Hart Wallace and High Tariff joined strides with Balgorean at his same old place. The pace quickened as the mile was finished. Kingman's stride was regular and he held his head in the air, although Murphy had been gradually improving his position. A furlong from the post Kingman was on even terms with Balgorean, with the rest beaten back. The struggle was brief. Murphy's lines went out, the whip descended, and the colt responded with a burst of speed that shook the hard whipped and hard ridden Balgorean off and sent him winner of Derby by an open length. Balgorean was second length from High Tariff, Wallace length to rear. Nobody expected fast time for there was nothing to make Kingman run. There was no disappointment when the time of 2:52½ was rung up. The distance was regular Derby route one and a half miles and each carried 122 pounds.

The pecuniary value of this year's Derby is about $6000. The following is a summary of the races:

Six furlongs, three-quarters of a mile—Too Sweet won, Jubilee second, Bob L. third. Time, 1:16.

Three-year-old maidens, weight for age, one mile—Mitt Young won, Mabelle second, Sir Abner third. Time, 1:44.

Two-year-olds and upwards, five furlongs—Ceverton and John Berkeley ran a dead heat, Unadilla third. Time, 1:04. Purse divided.

Three-year-olds and upwards, three-quarters of a mile—Sullross won, Royal Garter second, Duke of Highlands third. Time, 1:14.

Second heat—Sullross and Royal Garter ran dead heat, Ed Hopper third. Time, 1:16½. Run off won by Sullross from Royal Garter. Time, 1:16.

Seven Years in San Quentin.

The Court, however, denied the appeal and sentenced him to San Quentin for seven years.

The seven largest precincts give Smith a majority of only twelve over Cheyney.

Reports received from Mesa City last night were to the effect that the Democrats won by a slight majority.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Games Played on the Eastern Ball Fields Yesterday.

PITTSBURG, May 13.—The games this afternoon were spirited and resulted in another victory for the home team. The Giants' defeat was due to the retirement of Buckley, who was injured in the fifth inning. Score: Pittsburg 6, New York 3. Batteries: Galven and Berger, Ruske, Buckley and O'Rourke.

CINCINNATI, May 13.—A remarkably fine game of ball was played here this afternoon. Cincinnati made every effort to shut out Brooklyn, but the visitors by a single home run in the eighth won. Score: Cincinnati 1, Brooklyn 2. Batteries: Puryear and Kenman, Terry and Conditley.

CHICAGO, May 13.—Both pitchers were effective, but Getzein had a shade the best of it. Score: Chicago 2, Boston 4. Batteries: Gumbert and Kittridge, Getzein and An'el.

CLEVELAND, May 13.—It took fourteen innings to decide the game today. Cleveland should have won, but stupid base running and bad errors prevented. Both pitchers were in fine form. Score: Cleveland 5, Philadelphia 9. Batteries: Vian and Zeimner, Esper and Clements.

KENTUCKY DERBY.

KINGMAN WINS IT IN A WALK AGAINST A LARGE FIELD.

The Time Not So Good Because He Was Not Pushed—Other Races—The Day Observed by Kentuckians.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 13.—Derby Day, although not down on the calendar as a legal holiday, was observed as such by Kentuckians and many visitors assembled here. The State Democratic convention had more delegates at the track than in the city. Almost the entire city closed up and hastened to the race track. Over 20,000 people were present. The starters in the Derby were Kingman, ridden by Murphy; Balgorean by Overton, and Georgetown by Kelly. Valleria, Hart, Wallace, High Tariff and Poet Scott also started. Kingman won the Derby; Balgorean second; High Tariff third.

In these with Kingman and Hart Wallace made a field. Kingman's great race at Lexington entitled him to first place in betting and it was a liberal bookmaker that laid odds of $1000 to $1500 on the winner. When the derby was called Kingman came out first, ridden by Isaac Murphy, and the recognition of the horse and rider was followed by cheers which the surrounding knots and bill tops took up and echoed back again. The others were also given a cordial reception by the crowd. Ranged up, they were given the flag at the first attempt. The pace was set with High Tariff making the running, Balgorean at the saddle girths and Kingman and Hart Wallace well up. The pace was slow and at the half positions were unchanged. They passed the stand in the same order, but on the backstretch Hart Wallace and High Tariff joined strides with Balgorean at his same old place. The pace quickened as the mile was finished. Kingman's stride was regular and he held his head in the air, although Murphy had been gradually improving his position. A furlong from the post Kingman was on even terms with Balgorean, with the rest beaten back. The struggle was brief. Murphy's lines went out, the whip descended, and the colt responded with a burst of speed that shook the hard whipped and hard ridden Balgorean off and sent him winner of Derby by an open length. Balgorean was second length from High Tariff, Wallace length to rear. Nobody expected fast time for there was nothing to make Kingman run. There was no disappointment when the time of 2:52½ was rung up. The distance was regular Derby route one and a half miles and each carried 122 pounds.
