MURDERED!

The Corpse of Horace Filley

Lay on the Slope of Mount Reno.

A MOST COWARDLY SHOT.

The Head was Crushed With Rocks.

Word Received at the Sheriff's Office Last Night.

Does He Swell the Kid's Bloody List or Is He the Latest Victim of the Equally Bloody Graham-Tewksbury Feud?

A horrible murder has been committed at Mount Reno, seventy-five miles east of Phoenix. The victim was Horace Filley, a young man of Tempe and well known in this city. His mutilated corpse was discovered on Thursday and a messenger reached Tempe last night with the first news of the tragedy. A telephone message was received at the sheriff's office at nine o'clock giving only meager details.

The murdered man had been in the employ of L. L. Harmon of Tempe, and left there on Wednesday to gather up some range cattle belonging to the Thos. Graham estate, which Mr. Harmon had purchased.

The murder had evidently been committed the next day or the day of his arrival at Mount Reno.

He had been shot in the back and his head had been crushed by stones. His horse and accoutrements were gone and are supposed to have been taken by the murderer or murderers. The body was buried near the place where it lay and a messenger started the next morning for Tempe.

The condition of the body suggests the work of the Apache Kid, as the bodies of all those known to have been murdered by him were found similarly mutilated. There is nothing else on which to base a supposition that the dead man may swell the list of the Kid's butcheries. It is a fact that the renegade was not supposed to be in that part of the country. He was last heard from in Animas valley in the vicinity of the Hearst ranch, but that was six weeks ago and all trace of him was lost.

Mount Reno is not far from the White Mountain reservation and it is notorious that his visits to the reservation were frequent while the most active hunt for him was being prosecuted.

There is also a suspicion that the murder adds another to the not less horrible list of tragedies of the Graham-Tewksbury feud. It is true that neither the murdered man nor his employer were identified in the feud, but the fact that he was engaged in handling the Graham cattle may have been sufficient identification in the eyes of his murderers to warrant the killing.

Mount Reno marks a point on the boundary between Gila and Maricopa counties. The telephone message did not state on which side of the mountain the body was found, so that the authorities here do not know in what jurisdiction the tragedy lies. However, a deputy will be sent to Tempe this morning and accompanied by the messenger mounted on a fresh horse, will proceed with the greatest possible haste to the place of the killing and try to strike a trail.

Though Filley has several acquaintances here little could be learned of him last night. He came to the valley two years ago with a brother who afterward went away.

A FATAL TRYST.

Two Italians Lay in Wait in a Vineyard for Deer.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Sept. 8.—A sickening tragedy occurred late last night at the Pichetti vineyard, fourteen miles west of here. Louis Coglioso, an Italian employed by Pierre Klein, went into a vineyard to lie in wait for deer. Seeing some of the vines move he shot. A heavy object fell and there was a sharp cry.

According to Coglioso's statement he was afraid of an attack in case the deer should not be dead, and did not go near the place of the shooting until early this morning when he discovered the dead body of C. Belloni, an aged Italian, who formerly owned the Pichetti vineyard.

After discovering what he had done Coglioso came to this city and gave himself up. It is believed that Belloni was also in the vineyard in wait for deer, as a gun was beside his body.

THE HEATH CASE.

McWhirter's Death Will Probably Be Unavenged.

FRESNO, Cal., Sept. 8.—It is stated on good authority that the re-trial of the Heath murder case will certainly not take place till after the election, and if no fresh evidence is obtained by that time the matter will probably be dropped altogether. Two unsuccessful trials have been had, costing the county nearly $12,000, and though a change of venue has been granted there is little belief that a verdict can be obtained.

The Heath case involves several prominent local politicians and has caused no end of bitterness in political and social circles.

CORBETT-JACKSON.

An Unclaimed Sandbar in the Big Muddy.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Wm. Brady and Tom O'Rourke, representing Corbett and Jackson respectively, met Ed Lloyd, representative of the Sioux City Athletic Club. Lloyd has articles in which the club offered $55,000 for the fight between Corbett and Jackson.

Brady signed but O'Rourke said he was not authorized to sign. The fight if agreed on will take place on a bar in the Missouri river between Nebraska and Iowa. It has never been decided which state has jurisdiction over this place.

In Honor of Admission.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Sept. 8.—San Jose is decorated as never before in honor of admission day. The celebration begins tomorrow. Thousands of visiting Native Sons are here already and all is in readiness for the reception of thousands who are coming tonight. The streets are simply a forest of flags and bunting.

A MISUNDERSTANDING.

A Korean Minister and the Mikado's Cousin.

The Minister Satisfactorily Explains to the Prince why They Can Not Travel Together.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—Several days ago a story was printed here that Ye Lang Soo, the Korean minister who is sojourning at a hotel in this city, had countermanded his order for transportation on the outgoing steamer Belgic, which sailed today, rather than make the trip in the company of the Japanese prince, Kamatsu, who has also been here for several days.

The information as might have been expected, was carried to the prince, who expressed considerable surprise that the minister of Korea should have so expressed himself. Yesterday afternoon however, the minister, who has been ill since he arrived here, requested Major Hooper, manager of the hotel at which he is stopping to present his respects to the prince, who was domiciled at the Palace, and explain to him that he entertained a high regard for the Mikado's cousin and would gladly enjoy his company on the Belgic. Unfortunately, however, he was too ill to take a sea voyage and he assured the prince that this fact was his only reason for countermanding his tickets.

Maj. Hooper's visit resulted in some pleasant correspondence between the Japanese and Korean minister, and at nightfall the prince sent a message to the minister expressing deep regret at his illness and wished him a speedy recovery.

This evening Prince Kamatsu departed for the Orient and before going he gave a banquet at the Palace to the Japanese consul and others of the Mikado's local representatives.
