

ALL OVER ARIZONA. Late News From Every Corner of the Territory.

J. M. Aitken returned last evening from a hunting trip of about three weeks in the Hell canyon country. He succeeded in killing several deer during the trip.—Journal-Miner.

Judge C. M. Wright made his appearance yesterday on the streets for a short time after several days' confinement at home by reason of a somewhat severe attack of lumbago.—Tucson Star.

An Indian girl was picked up crazy drunk on the streets today and taken to jail by Marshal Finley. She was unable to walk and had to be loaded into a passing wagon to be taken to jail. It is an outrage to sell such people intoxicating liquors and an effort to end the parties selling it should be made and the offenders punished.—Tucson Citizen.

United States Surveyor General George Christ is in receipt of a letter from the commissioner of the general land office in which he states that the White Hills Mining company of Mohave county must post notices on each of their twenty-two mill sites instead of making two notices do for the whole. This is quite an important matter and should be noticed by parties owning groups of mines.

Quite a serious accident is reported to have happened at Jerome on Monday night. Twelve holes had been drilled in the 500 foot level, when the signal was given for the men to get away. Two men, in getting out of the winze, were caught by flying rock and one of them sustained a broken leg while the other was pretty badly bruised. Neither of them is considered dangerously injured.—Journal-Miner.

Twenty-four men with tools, supplies, etc., were yesterday sent out to the Silver Bell district in charge of Foreman Smith. This force is to prosecute further development on the Copper Prince group of mines owned by Nat E. Faison and H. F. Lavey, which is now under bond to J. D. Burgess and George H. Sason. The property has already several hundred feet in the aggregate of development done and shows most favorably.—Tucson Star.

Two experienced brewers from Colorado are at present in Prescott, looking over the situation here with a view of starting a brewery. They are already so favorably impressed that they have ordered a lot of tools and material for the purpose of commencing operations. In the course of their investigations, as to the possibility of such an enterprise, they have learned that during a period of ten months, from January 1 to November 1, 1897, there were ninety-nine carloads of beer shipped over the S. F. & P. P. railroad. Of this amount Jerome received fifteen cars, Prescott thirty-four, Congress ten, Phoenix thirty-four. Of course the success of such an enterprise will depend largely on the ability of those engaged in it in producing an article which would satisfy those who consume the beer. If even half of such a trade as the above could be secured the institution would pay.—Journal-Miner.

Yesterday morning Governor M. H. McCord and Mrs. McCord, accompanied by her niece Miss M. E. Winslow, Attorney General Frazier and Mrs. Frazier, arrived from Phoenix and were taken in hand by Capt. Tevis of the San Xavier hotel. The party accompanied by Miss Frazier and Miss LaChance, students at the university, visited the mission church of San Xavier del Bac. Last evening the governor and Mrs. McCord were taken for entertainment by Major and Mrs. Black, at their residence on Pennington street, and were given a grand repast by the First Regiment Military band of the city, which did it handsomely. It is understood that Guy McCord, son of the governor, and a second Miss LaChance will arrive from Phoenix accompanied by other visitors this morning. Tomorrow morning Gen. R. Allyn Lewis and other members of the administration family, which will be headed at the New Orford hotel tomorrow evening.—Tucson Star.

The Mexican expedition lately sent from Guaymas to Tiburon Island to punish the Ceves Indians for the late murder of several Americans who touched on the island, has returned to Guaymas. A correspondent of the Oasis writes about it as follows: "A few days ago the steamer Rio Yaqui left there with fifty soldiers for Tiburon Island in pursuit of the savages who murdered the two Americans on the junk world. This morning the vessel returned without having accomplished anything. I had a long talk with the captain of the steamer and he said they did not see any Indians. They found the remains of the junk that the savages had attempted to burn, and brought back an anchor and a piece of the mast, part of the bottom with the keel attached, pieces of sail, etc. They also found a pair of shoes on the beach that they think belonged to one of the murdered men. They found five or six little mongrel pups playing around on the sand and brought them. They saw evidences of savages and fresh signs. There were quite a number of brush wigwams where they had been lately; also evidences of fire recently extinguished. One burro was seen, but no cattle or horses. They searched everywhere for the bodies of the Americans but with no result. The troops marched eighteen miles in and along the island. The island is high and precipitous with a heavy growth of brush and cacti. The steamer went through the channel between the island and the mainland. There is very little water in there, but the channel is very wide and shallow. The steamer draws six feet of water and they got through with difficulty. They steamed clear around the island. They found the junk in the channel El Infernillo about a mile from the south entrance. It was on the island shore. The 200 troops that were sent from Hermosillo overland they did not see or hear of. From the looks of things there are quite a lot of the savages—upward of 200.

ARMY AND NAVY NEWS.

Progress on the New Gunboats.—Secretary Long has finally accepted the gunboats Nashville, built at Newport News, Va., and the Newport, built at Bath, Me. The Newport will take the Nicaragua canal commission to San Juan del Norte about December 1, while the Nashville requires a month's repairs at the Norfolk navy yard. The Helena and the Magenta will have their final trials off San Francisco next week. The Princeton alone of all the gunboats seems to be unreasonably delayed, having never yet left the yard of Dialogue in Camden, N. J., where she was launched. In spite of severe penalties for her non-delivery, no date has yet been fixed definitely for her completion, although efforts are being made to give her a preliminary contractor's run early next month. Naval officers declare that she will be in danger of injury from the ice if she remains in the Delaware much longer, and dread a repetition of the accident to the cruiser Brooklyn last winter.

Abandonment of New Coast Defences.—The lack of concentrated effort in the army, particularly in coast defence work, which is ascribed to congressional short sightedness, though some one else appears to be culpable in at least a contributory degree, is shown in Secretary Alger's action in revoking the orders to Garrison Fort Delaware and Ft. Point, N. J., and postponing the occupation of those important places guarding the entrance to the Delaware until next spring. This is due to an official report that the old quarters there are absolutely uninhabitable, and therefore several hundred thousand dollars' worth of guns and their mounts are left without the care they would have been troops available in the vicinity and the men will not have the advantage of becoming familiar with the weapons, not to mention the defenceless position in which Philadelphia is left. Of course, congress will be asked to appropriate money for quarters, and this demand is emphasized by the failure of the department to man the posts, but many persons will wonder that the proper officials never thought of this phase of the matter several months ago.

Less of Money Under Army Pay System.—An instance of the shortcomings of the present method of the pay system in the army, which is given as an argument for the trial of the "payment in person" system, is shown in a recent occurrence in Texas now under investigation. Major Bullis, the paymaster stationed at San Antonio, sent the money by express to pay the troops at Fort Brown, Texas. The package arrived and the commanding officer detailed an officer to get it and bring it to the fort. This was done, but no verification was made, and when it came to paying out the money it was found that the package for the hospital corps was missing. The express company was absolved from responsibility, and a board of inquiry which investigated the matter failed to fix the cause of loss. Now an official inspection from headquarters will be made into the business, with little or no prospect of developing any real information, except that such occurrences are apt to happen, but could be certainly obviated if troops were paid in person.

Gratifying Gun Tests.—Gen. Flieger, chief of the bureau of ordnance of the army, is highly gratified at the results of recent tests made at Sandy Hook. One of them was of the disappearing twelve-inch gun, to see how rapidly it could be fired. Ten rounds were fired in sixteen minutes and fifty-seven seconds, under conditions as unfavorable as possible. The wind was blowing directly in the faces of the men, and a heavy rain was falling. Every time the breech of the gun was opened the smoke from 475 pounds of powder blew directly in the faces of the men who were at work. General Flieger was also highly gratified with the test of the new rapid fire five-inch gun made at the Waterbury arsenal. With 34,000 pounds per second, a velocity of 2,900 feet was attained, the projectile weighing five pounds.
