Live News Taken From Territorial Exchanges.

P. B. Lindsay, a well known lumber man, formerly of Phoenix, is in town. He is contemplating engaging in business in this country.—Journal-Sherman.

Miss Bessie Sharkey, who has been teaching school at Schuette during the past winter, spent yesterday in Tucson en route to Phoenix.—Tucson Citizen.

Johnny Bell, the Rough Rider, is laid up with an attack of chills and fever. He was obliged to resign his position in Winslow, Ariz., and come home.—Albuquerque Democrat.

Archbishop Bourgeois will arrive in this city Thursday, April 6, from Tucson. As the train reaches Lamy in the night time, the archbishop will remain there over Wednesday night, and reach this city by a special train Thursday morning.—Santa Fe New Mexican.

H. H. Harder, one of the commissioners of the Greater Arizona Exposition, is in town today. This year, beginning July 1 and ending November 1, is in the city. Mr. Harder has just paid a visit to Arizona to procure exhibits for the exposition and has endeavored to induce that territory to send exhibits showing the products and resources of the Salt River valley and the rich mining industry for which Arizona is noted.—El Paso Herald.

Treasurer Drachman says that the taxable property in new Pima county will be over $3,000,000 this year owing to the improvements which have been made in Tucson this spring. This will make Pima a first-class county. The taxable property in old Pima was $3,800,000 last year and the new county of Santa Cruz took about $1,000,000 of this. Tucson has been segregated four times, but the old county always turns up in the first class.—Tucson Citizen.

Marshal McMillin has received a letter from a man by the name of John Oberlitter of Tucson, Ariz., who thinks that he is the "Black Jack" concerning whom inquiry was received some weeks ago from a brother, who stated that "Black Jack's" father had died in Missouri, leaving him $2,000 as his share of the estate. The marshal will notify the brother in Missouri and if "Black Jack" proves to be the right man he will receive his heritage.—Albuquerque Citizen.

Emil Cassi, a trumpeter of the Rough Riders during the Cuban war, and who, according to reports of other members of that regiment, distinguished himself by his great modesty, in refraining from making himself conspicuous on the firing line, was again become distinguished by shooting a Cuban major in Havana. Cassi was a trumpeter in the military band of that city. The Cuban officer, it is said, will die, and Cassi is in jail. Cassi was a member of the Pioneer band for a short time a year ago.

W. J. Parks is here this week from the coal fields north. He reports that negotiations are pending for the sale of his mining property, which all but two claims, for a good sum. The following claim owners are steadily pursuing development work with encouraging results: Paras & Richardson, Knowles & Farish, Albert Warren and associates, the Phoenix and the Jimmie Stevens mine, Bill Weston, Frank Piper, Henderson and Iwawa. Considerable ore is being packed for shipment to El Paso. Mr. Parks' health is not very good and he will probably remain here until after the spring term of the district court.—Solomonville Bulletin.

William Harrison, who left here as a packer for Cuba, where he took Bill Eckhorn's place, was shot and killed a short time ago. It seems that the packers were gambling among themselves and Bill Harrison had been quite successful. A dispute or quarrel arose among them. The cook of the pack train pulled a pistol and shot Harrison dead. Bill was well known and had many friends in Graham county. He was at one time quartermaster at Grant has been notified that $700 in cash and $300 in checks was found on him. Harrison also owned some fine copper prospects in the lower Aravaipa.—Bonita Correspondent Solomonville Bulletin.

Almost every day brings an influx of farmers from the desert-strewn regions of California to the fertile valleys of Arizona. This is the third successive dry season for California. Three years ago the farmers of that state had barely half a crop on account of the scanty moisture; last year a total failure in most parts of the state, and this year promises but little better. Although it has been raining recently in the southern part of the state, a greater portion of the growing season has gone by and not more than half a crop can now be raised. This continued failure of crops in California is sending many of her citizens to this part of Arizona, where the farmer pays no more attention to rain than he does Infants are effected by foods taken by the nursing mother.

Prof. W. B. Chadde, of St. Mary's Hospital and author of a treatise on the feeding of infants, has shown by experiments that wasting diseases, will result from depriving children of fats and hypophosphites.

Dr. Thompson says Cod-liver oil is what such mothers and infants require. "Scott's Emulsion" is pure Norwegian Cod-liver oil with hypophosphites.

INSULT TO CONGRESS

every position. It is absolutely non-partisan in its spirit and contains the true platform of true civil service reform.

"Something like one hundred and twenty republican members of the house of representatives held a consultation in the early part of 1898 and formulated and agreed to stand together for the Evans bill. That bill is a better civil service law than the present one, for the simple reason that it places the law back to where it was before partisan politics manipulated the organization. It turned back the statute to the place where Pendleton and his coadjutors intended it should stand when they passed it, with those additions to the scope of it which time had demonstrated the propriety of, and the true friends of sound civil service in this country stand by that principle. They are not spoilsmen; they are not in favor of selling the integrity of the official force of the government by the appointment of unfit men or retaining incompetent men in office, and this census law has come to illustrate to the people of the United States what can be done by the application of the true principles of civil service reform outside of and independent of an encroaching bureau that undertakes to dominate and control and dispense the political power of this government.

"The nauseating testimony coming from the investigation of the bureau of engraving and printing, and which is but an index of many other situations in the country under this domination of a bureau, has opened the eyes of the public to what is going on. A copy of the testimony unexpurgated could not be published in the newspapers and sent through the mails, probably without a violation of the postal laws, but the people are coming to learn what has been going on during the past six years in that bureau, and they trace back readily the source from which it came, the powers that have protected the schemes that have festered there, and they see in this the evidence that this civil service law was understood to be a tentative measure in 1893. The debates show that it was intended as an experiment, with a purpose to amend, change, alter, as time should suggest, hundreds and probably thousands of bills have been introduced into congress from that day to this to repeal or modify or amend or enlarge or extend this law, and yet not one of them has ever been reported from a committee—not one of them. The committee of the house of representatives has stood with a flaming sword of a majority and refused to permit the representatives of the people to be heard. The census law came, and the people's representatives were heard, and General Merriam is able to execute this law himself, without the aid of anybody holding the position of chairman of the civil service commission, and to tender an offer to aid in this way is a gross insult to him. Congress intended that the census bureau should be independent of the civil service commission, and congress, I think, will resent the attempt of this organization to interfere when congress has said clearly they shall have nothing to do with it. For myself, I am delighted that the people of this country will have an opportunity to contrast the administration of the census bureau with the administration of the bureau of engraving and printing."

Happy Jack Replies to Editor A. D. Webb's Recent Strictures.

The Republican some time ago copied the opinion of Editor A. D. Webb of the Safford Arizona, and a Rough Rider, regarding Charles Hodgdon, otherwise known as "Happy Jack." Mr. Webb's views, which were highly complimentary, were called out by especially praise given "Happy Jack" by Col. Roosevelt in a series of articles now running in Scribner's. A reply to Mr. Webb's statements was received at this office from Captain Frantz of Troop A, Rough Riders, and now comes a letter from Mr. Hodgdon himself saying some uncomplimentary things about Mr. Webb.

"To the Editor of The Republican, Sir: In your issue of the 19th instant, I think you have exceeded the proprieties in giving publicity to uncalculated for scurrilous abuse of the undersigned, in doing this you quote me A. D. Webb as authority for 'our unjust attack upon my private character. This pre-emptive Ananias, alias Webb, is sorely disturbed because no particular notice was ever taken of him, either as a soldier of the Rough Riders or as a civilian after his discharge from that body. No doubt had the fellow been a conspicuous figure among the Rough Riders or received any favorable notices from his distinguished commanding officer he would, perhaps, have not exhibited his sore spots to the public view. However, it is impossible for me to, for had W. Webb received such notice it would have brought on such a case of 'big head' that our territory large as it is would not be large enough to hold his head and all. I wish to say in this connection that I never had the downy hair of meeting the (un) distinguished Webb until we met as members of the same regiment.

"During my service in the war as a humble representative member of the Rough Riders I tried to do my duty as a soldier, never avoided duty because arduous or dangerous, nor disobeyed an order from my superior officer. When a call was made for volunteers to take part in a most dangerous position I had the honor to be one of the fourteen who volunteered for that duty, and it is needless to say, no Ananias was among the number. Comrade Frank Van Sickle and myself were the two who volunteered from a troop. At the time the call for volunteers was made by Col. Roosevelt I was near enough to hear General Wood remark to one of the four, 'that is a death trap.' Nevertheless, thirteen others and myself volunteered to take post in General Wood's designated 'death trap.' I am proud of the fact that both General Wood and Col. Roosevelt personally knows that your humble servant was one of the fourteen who volunteered for the 'death trap.' My gallant colonel, the present governor of New York, can testify that 'Happy Jack' was at all times found on the firing line, unless orders took him elsewhere.

"Now, Mr. Editor, I do not wish to engage in a newspaper controversy, in which I would be at a still greater disadvantage than when stationed in the aforesaid 'death trap,' but I have written this with the hope, as you were so alert to print something bad of 'Happy Jack,' that you would with equal clarity publish a word in his favor, even though it be written by the traduced. As to the facts herein given, my superior officers, as also many of the comrades in the regiment, can and will corroborate the above statements of facts. In the matter of fearlessness every under fire, there never was in any country or at any time a braver set of fellows gotten together, than were in the organization known to history as the Rough Riders.

Yours respectfully,
"HAPPY JACK."

VALUE OF ALFALFA.
Southern California Farmers Advised to Grow It—It is Better Than a Bank Account.

As the Times has remarked on several occasions one of the effects of the dry spell through which we have passed has been to direct the attention of farmers in this section to the value of alfalfa. A man who has a good forty-acre stand of alfalfa, with plenty of water for irrigation, has been as independent as the proverbial "hog on the fence" during the past year. As a writer in a contemporary remarks: "Alfalfa is better than a bank account, for it never fails or goes into the hands of a receiver. It is weather proof, for the cold does not injure and heat makes it grow all the better. A winter flood will not drown it, and a fire will not kill it. As a bover it is equal to an artesian well; it loves water and bores to reach it. When growing there is no stopping it. Being cut a twenty-acre field, and when your last load of hay is hauled at one end of the field it is ready cut again at the other. For filling a milk can, an alfalfa-fed cow is equal to a handy pump. Cattle love it, hogs feed upon it, and a hungry horse wants nothing else. If your land will grow alfalfa you have the crop on dry weather. Once started on your land, alfalfa will stay by you like Canada kites or a first-class mortgage, but only to make you wealthier and happy. Evidence of the profitability of alfalfa on irrigated land in the semi-arid regions multiply from year to year.—Los Angeles Times.

A MAINE TOWN EXPANDS.

Staid old Portland, Maine, which is one of the slowest-growing cities in the country, is putting on airs. During the past year it has been practicing expansion on its own account, and has taken in the suburban city of Deering, which joined it on the north and east. Monday last the Greater Portland City government was inaugurated, with an enlarged city council from the annexed wards. The enlargement increases Portland's population from 40,000 to nearly 50,000, and its area from 1,600 acres to 11,000. During the past year the net debt of the city has been lessened some $34,000. The large country area annexed will doubtless require many improvements, and it would be surprising if the city should be able to cut down its debt any in the coming year.—Providence Journal.

IS IT A TRIPLE?

That Common Trouble, Acid Dyspepsia or Sour Stomach, Now Recognized as a Cause of Serious Disease.

Acid dyspepsia, commonly called heart-burn or sour stomach, is a form of indigestion resulting from fermentation of the food. The stomach being too weak to digest it, the food remains until fermentation begins, filling the stomach with gas, and a bitter, sour, burning taste in the mouth is often present. This condition soon becomes chronic and being an every day occurrence is given but little attention. Because dyspepsia is not immediately fatal, many people do nothing for the trouble.

Within a recent period a remedy has been discovered prepared solely to cure dyspepsia and stomach troubles. It is known as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and is becoming rapidly used and prescribed as a radical cure for every form of dyspepsia.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been placed before the public and are sold by all druggists for 50 cents per package. It is prepared by the F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., and while it promptly and effectually restores a vigorous digestion at the same time is perfectly harmless and will not injure the most delicate stomach, but on the contrary by giving perfect digestion strengthens the stomach, improves the appetite and makes life worth living.
