BIG RAILROAD STRIKE

Every Trackman and Bridgeman on the Long Canadian Pacific Obeyed Promptly the Call of the Union. It is Conservatively Estimated That 4,000 Men on the Line Have Quit Work.

Vancouver, B. C., June 17.—According to declared intentions, every trackman and bridgeman in the employ of the Canadian Pacific railway from the Pacific to Atlantic threw down their tools this morning and obeyed the call of the union to strike. In many instances the foremen have gone out with their men, an act is regarded as the replacing of such men that the railway company officials on all the divisions are now working strenuously. The total number of men who have gone out on the Pacific division is estimated to be between 700 and 900, and it is stated conservatively that 4,000 men on the line of the railway straight across the continent who were at work last week, are now idle.

JOHN McCARTY'S FATE

Story Told by Julius Gowett, a Member of the Party.

Mr. Julius Gowett of this city arrived here yesterday morning after a hard drive from the Mogollon mountains. He was with John McCarty and party when the former left camp on the 14th of June and spent several days searching for him. There is nothing new to report regarding the fate of Mr. McCarty, though the details of the incident, furnished by Mr. Gowett, are of course interesting, and show that the friends of the missing man are doing all that can be done to discover his whereabouts and render aid, if he is still living. It is the opinion of Mr. Gowett that he has been killed by Apache Indians, a band of them were seen in that vicinity by a forest ranger named Smith, and Mr. Gowett himself saw several tracks and found the deserted camps of the Indians, which he had killed cattle and deer. McCarty was a deputy game warden and was formerly a member of the game commission. It is possible that he came upon the Indians violating the game laws, and in attempting to arrest them was killed, or he may have been murdered for some previous attempt to interfere with the actions of the Indians. It has been suggested that some account of some former grudge held by Mr. Gowett says that he seems to be a very popular among the settlers in that country, and that every pack raiser and cowboy on that range now assisting in the search for him, is in a great measure, removed any suspicion that might attach to the white settlers in those parts. Mr. Gowett's story of his trip is as follows: In company with Tom Bowers and Joe Day, a partner of McCarty's, he left Phoenix some weeks ago, and by previous arrangements met the party in the San Francisco mountains. McCarty had come there from his place in Dudleyville, Pinal county, in Tope Basin. He was in search of gold and various wild animals, found only in that region, for the purpose of mining orders sent him by eastern museums and zoological gardens. Not finding what he wanted there, the party went south into the Mogollons and made camp at Lost Springs in Coconino county, about twenty miles east of Flagstaff, near the head of Pinal creek and Miller's Canyon. Mr. Day then went to Flagstaff for provisions, leaving McCarty, Gowett and Tom Bowers in camp. On the morning of the 8th shortly after breakfast, McCarty attired in his hunting suit, hunting shoes with a peculiarly constructed heel took a ten-gauge shotgun and started toward Poverty Flat, saying he might even go around Baker's Butte. He was in search of a peculiar pigeon he hoped to find in that vicinity. He did not return that night, and it occasioned little uneasiness, for he is an experienced mountaineer and could not possibly get lost in that region which he knows perfectly. There was no anxiety about him regarding his fate, for he is a good sportsman and some game is plenty and water is abundant in all the springs and gulches. But at noon the next day Messrs. Gowett and Bowers thought they had better begin search for him. Mr. Bowers is not a mountaineer, so it was decided that he should remain in camp. Mr. Gowett went three miles away to the ranch of a man named Jones, and securing his help they started in search of the missing man. They told their mission, of course, to every one they met, and in a short time there were from five to ten men looking for him and all the cattlemen on the rovers were also keeping a lookout for him. Later Mr. Bowers went to Flagstaff to inform Joe Day.

NEWS OF BENSON

Increasing Activity in the Development of Artesian Water.

Benson, Ariz., July 15.—(Special correspondence of The Republican.)—The farmer of the San Pedro, in the vicinity of Benson, has just finished cutting their first crop of alfalfa. This will give some idea of the difference in the seasons here and in the Salt River valley, which is about six weeks.

Another artesian flow has just been struck by W. B. Gibson. This makes five flowing wells for Benson and the good work still goes on. There are more than 100 flowing wells at St. David, six miles above here.

The contract for the reform school well has been let and work will soon begin.

Mr. A. P. Wallace will commence boring for water on his farm just west of town. Benson now has two well-boring machines and another will have another in a few days. There's surely a bright future for Benson.

We have already two brick companies, and the third, with a capital of $2,500, has just been incorporated for the purpose of making fire brick, pressed brick and tiling from clay found here, said to be the finest in the land.

There has been a large number of settlers added to our population within the last year, and while a great deal of land has been taken up, there is yet some good land to be had near Benson. If any one wants to know what can be done in the way of farming, let him visit the farms of Pete Gould and William Aghel. These gentlemen do not have any ditch assessments to pay, and yet they have the finest farms to be found on the San Pedro.
