WHITE DEER.

Albino seen in the Adirondacks and some of them killed.

An albino deer is so rare a sight in the Adirondacks that when one does appear it is regarded with superstitious feelings by some of the natives. Many of the so-called natives of the Adirondacks are French Canadians. A white deer is never killed by the French Canadian and he does not molest it although he believes there is an evil influence about him while the albino deer remains in his neighborhood.

Some white deer have been killed in the Adirondacks in the last few years. In 1888 a white deer frequently visited a party of natives in the Keene valley. It appeared in the fall and became remarkably tame. It was a beautiful creature, having a neck and tail of pure white while the body and back were nearly white. The eyes of this deer were white although usually the eyes of an albino are pink.

By common consent the albino of the Keene valley, a doe, was left unmolested and it was decided to await a heavy snow when it could be run down and captured alive. But the dogs got after it and chased it until it passed in an exhausted condition near a traveler who caught it and cut its throat. The traveler was not aware of the agreement among the hunters to preserve the doe as long as possible and deeply regretted his act when he was informed of their plans.

The guides of the Adirondacks say that within their memory not more than a dozen white deer have been reported and the appearance of one is sufficient to excite them greatly. Man of the staidest nerves under most hunting experiences are sometimes upset at the sight of a white deer or an albino bird.

Many visitors to the North Woods about the idea that there is such a thing as a white deer. At the same time the superstitious prefer not to see one as they believe it indicates danger. So deep seated was this superstition among the natives at Wild Cat Pond in the Cranberry Lake region of St. Lawrence county that they left an albino deer alone when it appeared there three years ago. It was frequently observed accompanied by a few of the usual color. What became of it has never been known, but the native tells the inquirer that he did not shoot it, nor did any of his relatives. They all admired it too much to think of killing it, and while they would admit that they were superstitious about shooting it, they will say that they preferred to take no chances so far as that white deer was concerned.

Last fall two hunters succeeded in killing two rare white deer. One of them was shot near North Hudson by John Greenough. It was a two-year old buck, and those who saw it describe it as being perfectly white with pink ears. Another peculiarity was that it had very short legs. Clark Cox, a gamekeeper of the preserve of George R. Finch, shot a white deer near the Boreas ponds. This was also a young buck with pink eyes and a spotless coat of white.

It is said that a great white buck was the leader of a herd of deer which had a yard in the vicinity of Bonaparte lake last winter. It is said that the buck was a two-year old and that it had for a mate a white doe. It was the most unusual sight that ever greeted a hunter, that of the handsome buck and its white companion, both of them seeming naturally to be the leaders of all the others. The white buck and doe of the Bonaparte county escaped without being harmed, and it is said that there are white deer in other parts of the region. They were reported near the close of the last hunting season and were allowed to go unharmed.

SERVANT GIRLS CLASSIFIED.

In connection with the servant girls' union recently organized in Chicago a correspondent says:

"Interviews with the Chicago matrons who are prominent socially indicate that they are not unanimous in regarding the new union with disfavor or casting ridicule upon it. Many of these employers of servant girls declare they are glad there is a prospect of elevating household service to the dignity of a profession. They see in this union a solution of the vexing servant girl problem. One lady, who may be quoted as expressing the sentiments of the opposition, says the fact that servants are so varied in temperament and nationality insures the wreck of their union in a short while. She thus classifies house servants:

"Gadders—Those who are so eager to converse with the butcher, the baker and the milkman. Janitors and policemen are well liked by the class. "Runners—Those who are so fond of spending their evenings at the parks or at dance halls, and who are so careful of their hands and complexions. "Steadies—Those who seldom work for more than a year before they get married and have a home of their own. "Business cases; man and wife preferred; no invalids; no children. $12 per month.
