THE SUBMARINE

A Paper Printed Far Below Sea Level.

The Submarine is the name of the latest paper to come to this office. It is so called not because it is published beneath the water, but because it is printed "twenty-two feet below sea level," at Indio. It is devoted to the development of that coming agricultural region. It falls into poetry with the aid of an Arizona post at the outset—on the first page of the first number—and thus sings of the glories of the Coachella, named after a prominent citizen:

The Lord of Coachella's a wonderful man, He's a distant branch of an old Scotch clan, He's a liberty-loving American: And yet if you'll go Where the melons grow At Indio, You'll find him a boss on the patriarch plan, Who can give cards and spades to old Ghongis Khan.

The Lord of Coachella has made his stand, He has builded his house on the desert sand, He has turned the hose on the desert land, And ah! and oh! How the melons grow At Indio, Till they raise 'em on ranches on every hand, And they ship 'em in carloads over land.

The Lord of Coachella has started a boom, The waters are flowing down many a time, And over the desert, wherever there's room, 'Tis a holy show How the melons grow 'Round Indio Till the sagebrush and cactus have heard their doom And the cantaloupes grow and the flowers bloom.

Here's health, my Lord of Coachella, to you; You've done what a king might have been proud to do; While others have halted and doubted you knew That melons would grow If they had a show At Indio, And with steadfast hope and warm heart, Kept working away till the melons grew.

The Lord of Coachella will pass away, His mortal remains will return to clay; But this work of his mind and hand will stay, And the waters will flow And the melons grow At Indio, As long as God's sunlight gladdens the day— His cenotaph proud forever and aye, Benson, Ariz.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING.—There will be a meeting of the directors of the board of trade tonight, and all are requested to be present.

A CASE FOR TODAY.—Bitor Sanchez was arrested on the charge of disturbing the peace and will be tried by Justice Gray this morning at 9:30.

POLICE COURT.—In police court yesterday one drunk and disorderly was given a $5 fine and one box car sleeper was discharged on his promise to move on.

A NOVELTY FOR ARIZONA.—People throughout the east have an idea that Arizona people never drink anything but whiskey. They are mistaken; there is considerable water used here for other than washing or irrigating purposes, and there is at least one prohibition community. Up in St. Johns they have a local option law in force, and only a few days ago they cinched a man for violating it. The culprit was a Mormon, and so was the judge that found him guilty, so it cannot be argued that religion had anything to do with the case.

BABE'S HARD LUCK.—Babe was drunk again yesterday morning, or else it was the same old drunk. But anyhow, he was drunk yesterday morning and got into trouble that came near costing him his life. He was making considerable noise in the Arhusen saloon and was given a tip as to where he would find the door. This put him out of humor and as he passed through the door he let go with his right hand against the glass. Though the glass was of remarkable thickness, it broke, and as he tried to withdraw his arm it bore down on the ragged edges, making three ugly wounds. The cuts were clear in to but not through the artery. Nevertheless, he bled profusely and by the time Marshal Kinney got to him he thought he was dying. Dr. Dameron dressed his wounds in the city jail and while sewing up the cuts Babe grew retrospective. He said to Mr. Kinney: "Why didn't you let me go and I would have killed the fellow that cut me this way. It's a shame to let a man of my strength and reputation be cut to pieces without a chance to defend himself."

Then he asked Mr. Kinney to save all his money till he got out of jail. He had 19 cents.

DETECTIVE LED THE CROOKS? Charges of Safe-Blowing Made Against a Chicago Police Officer.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—Another scandal has shaken the city detective bureau in the city hall. George, alias "Doc" Green, who was arrested by the Englewood police on last Friday night and locked up charged with having burglar's tools in his possession says an organized gang of safe blowers exists in Chicago with a city detective at its head. John Walsh is the name of the detective implicated in the scandal, and although Chief O'Neill and Inspector Hunt both declare that the charges made by Green have not been corroborated they admit that circumstantial evidence points to the truth of the story.

According to the story Walsh has been the brains of the safe blowing. Shortly after the recent postoffice robbery in which stamps worth $75,000 were taken, numerous robberies of safes in the downtown district and in the suburbs were reported. In each of these it is charged, this Central station detective led the robbers.

"Doc" Green is known as an all-around gambler and sometimes acts as a stool pigeon for detectives, and when he was arrested on Friday night in company with George Elliott he told Inspector Hunt that several of some recent robberies.

Investigation has proved that the robberies actually took place as he described and this is regarded as strong evidence of the truth of the charges. The scandal may go further than Detective Walsh, as it is noted that the investigation has revealed the facts that a gang of safe blowers has existed in Englewood for months with the knowledge and under the protection of a former commanding officer of the police department.

Detective Walsh said today: "The story is absolutely false, as I will have no difficulty in proving."

WILL REORGANIZE

Meeting of the Young Men's Republican Club Last Night.

The members of the Young Men's Republican club held a meeting last evening in the office of Attorney Thomas Prescott and decided to reorganize the club and put it on a better basis for work than it has hitherto been. There was a large attendance and the meeting was most enthusiastic. The club in times past has been on particular occasions a power in politics here and on other occasions it has been practically a dead issue. Last night it was decided to remodel the constitution and by-laws and get in proper working order. There are many young men in the city who would affiliate with the club if it were kept in an animated condition all the time and an effort will now be made to make it what its name signifies it ought to be.

The club has usually done heroic work for the party during campaigns, but when the excitement passed away only the faithful workers stood by it till the succeeding campaign arrived. It is intended now to make it an organization the young men of republican faith will take both pleasure and pride in maintaining in working order at all times. Little was done last night, however, except to arrive at this definite conclusion.

CHOSE THE WRONG EVIL.

The devil once appeared to a young man; and, telling him that he held him in his power, bade him do one of three things. "Tonight," said the devil, "you must get drunk, or murder your wife, or throw your mother-in-law out of the second-floor front window." The young man, who was naturally of a gentle disposition, chose the first alternative. So he went out that night and got heavily drunk, came home and murdered his wife and threw his mother-in-law out of the second-floor front window. Moral—Of three evils never choose the least.—London Judy.
