THE ANNUAL SALE OF BRASS TAGS

The Official Opening of Dog Days in Phoenix.

C. W. Barnett, city tax collector and ex-officio chief dispenser of dog tags, did a fine day's business yesterday. It was demonstrated that there are a good many dogs in this town that have friends who will not desert them in their extremity. About 200 tags were disposed of at par, $2 each, and it is expected that there will be a good many more in the next few days.

The dog catcher was out rather early, but the dog owners were still more prompt. The dog catcher, of course, did not desire to take any unfair advantage, and when he saw a man with money in his hand he gave both him and the dog a chance. When Mr. Barnett reached his office yesterday morning he found about a dozen men lined up waiting for him. He issued a half hundred receipts before he had time to spit on his hands, but after that they only came in bunches of a half dozen at a time.

There were numerous incidents of a somewhat amusing character. Two little boys applied for a tag along in the afternoon, and got it, paying the stipulated $2. Then they asked the tax collector where they could get the dog. He told them that they could probably pick one up most anywhere, for the woods were full of them. But it transpired that their own dog was missing, and they had supposed that the tax collector was holding him for the two dollars. It is likely the dog catcher had him, and when the lads came with the tag he had to give him up. If that were true, the dog catcher was out his 50-cent rake-off provided by law. Even a dog catcher's business has its drawbacks.

A man presented himself to the tax collector with the information that he was ready to comply with the law if necessary, but in his particular case it was rather burdensome. His business is such that usually he only stays in one town a week or so at a time, and he has a dog that travels with him. Last week he was held up for a $2 dog tax in Yuma and the week before he was up against the same proposition in Tucson. Two dollars a week was rather more than he felt like putting up for dog taxes, especially when his dog is not much bigger than $2 bill with the corner torn off. He said he would keep his dog chained up this week, and if he decided to stay any longer he would take a couple of dollars' worth of protection and allow his animal to circulate. He made no protest against the law, but said that touring Arizona in dog days was rather expensive.

CURLEY THE ALLEGED ONLY SURVIVOR OF THE CUSTER MASSACRE.

The Custer battlefield is close to the Crow agency. In a desire to know all I could, at close range of the tragedy, of the Little Big Horn, I spent many days in going over the battlefield foot by foot, from where the troops left the Rosebud to the ridge where the men had made their last stubborn fight. White marble slabs mark the spots where they fell. In most cases the slabs are in twos, side by side. Strange how it is when it comes to the final end, we reach out for human companionship. There they made their last earthly stand, bunkie by bunkie.

Among the dozens of Indians I questioned of the fight was Curley, who is so often called the sole survivor of the Custer fight. He has been so bullied, badgered, questioned, cross-questioned, leading-questioned, and called, by mouth, and in type, a coward and a liar, by an endless horde of the curious and knowledge-seeking, that I don't doubt, if his life depended upon it, he could tell whether he was ever at or near the Custer fight. —From "The Tribes of the Northwest Plains," by E. S. Curtis, in the June Scribner.

The barber's remarks are generally cut and dried.
The men on top are often those who are in on the ground floor.
Some people demand more than their share of everything, including trouble.
Scribble—"What is the first step in writing popular songs?" Scrawler—"Throw away your rhyming dictionary."
Wigwag—"So you don't think two weeks' vacation too short, eh?" Henpeckle—"No, I always have to take my wife with me."
Wig—"A red flag always means that some auctioneer is at work, doesn't it?" Wags—"Not always. Sometimes it merely means anarchy."
Bones—"One drink is all I ever take. I call it my constitutional." Guzzler—"Well, now that you have had that I propose a constitutional amendment."

LIMB RAW AS PIECE OF BEEF

Suffered For Three Years With Itching Humor—Doctor Did No Good—Cruiser Newark, U. S. N. Man Cured in Three Weeks.

SPEEDY CURE BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I suffered with humor for about three years, off and on. I finally saw a doctor and he gave me remedies that did me no good, so I tried Cuticura when my limb below the knee to the ankle was as raw as a piece of beef. All I used was the Cuticura Soap and the Ointment. I bathed with the Soap every day and used about six or seven boxes of Ointment. I was thoroughly cured of the humor in three weeks and haven't been affected with it since. I use no other Soap than Cuticura now. I remain, yours respectfully, H. J. Myers, U. S. N., U. S. S. Newark, New York, July 8, 1905.

A PHOENIX GIRL'S APPROACHING WEDDING

Miss Florence Scott to be Married to Hon. Le Grande Turner.

Chaplain Winfield Scott and wife will leave this evening via the southern route for San Jose, Cal. They go to attend the wedding of their daughter, Florence Margaret, who will be married June 16 at Hill Crest, near Los Gatos.

Miss Scott was formerly a student in the Phoenix high school. She graduated from the University of California at Berkeley in 1901 and has been teaching the sciences in the high school at Hayward, Cal., the past three years. Her specialties are mathematics, chemistry and physics. She was principal of the science department at Hayward and has made an enviable reputation as a teacher. Her basketball team of young ladies of the school was quite noted, winning all its matches with the various teams in that part of the state. She is one of the vice presidents of the Christian Endeavor society of the state and is a recognized leader in Christian work. Miss Scott will marry the Hon. Le Grande Turner, a prominent man of Hayward.

Chaplain and Mrs. Scott will be joined at Maricopa by their eldest daughter, Mrs. Albright, wife of Captain F. H. Albright of the United States army, at present stationed at Fort Bliss, Texas. They will all go to the home of the other daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Scott, Mrs. E. D. Flint of Los Gatos, where the wedding will take place. The family will spend the summer together, the incident being very much in the nature of a family reunion.

Harduppe (at the telephone)—"Is that the P. D. Q. hospital? Can you have an ambulance in Rittenhouse square this evening at 8 o'clock? Yes, an ambulance. I'm going to ask old Gotox for his daughter's hand. Then I can depend upon you? Thanks."

TWO MORE FORGERIES BROUGHT TO LIGHT

A Stranger Makes Unlawful Use of the Name of L. M. Hoghe.

A man by the name of Barry is wanted for forging two checks amounting to $50. They bore the alleged signature of L. M. Hoghe, and were presented at the National Bank of Arizona by saloons which had cashed them. The forgery was instantly detected by Cashier Oberfelder.

Very little is known of Barry except that he came here a couple of weeks ago from Bisbee, where he said he had been working in a mine. He got a job at the sugar factory at Glendale and worked there eight days, when he was given his time-check on Saturday.

He brought the time-check to town with him and tried to get it cashed, but could find no one who knew him until he met Mr. Hoghe. He was taken into the Hoffman, where Hoghe got the money for him, giving his check for the amount.

That is probably where the idea of committing the forgery occurred to Barry. Anyway, he procured a couple of blank checks on the National Bank of Arizona, and some time between Saturday night and Sunday night he filled them out and disposed of them with the ease and facility with which strangers from the earliest times have been able to raise money in this confiding town.

The absence of Barry about the street yesterday morning, soon after the bank opened, was observed to be conspicuous, and the suspicion soon solidified into a fact, that he was somewhere else.

The old and wise, be still advised When matters of today you're weighing.

Or ill you'll choose and surely lose When for priceless boon you're praying.

THE FLOW OF WATER INTO THE SALTON SEA

The Imperial People Believe the Worst Has Already Happened.

The Imperial Press of June 9, commenting on the Salton Sea says: "During the week ending June 2, the water in Salton sea rose three feet and four inches. It is raising about seven inches per day this week and has about fifteen feet to raise before it reaches the Southern Pacific tracks. It will be there pretty soon."

It is likely that very few people outside of the residents of the Imperial valley have any idea of the intelligent idea of the situation there, since the flood season of the Colorado began, and readers of the publications in the press can hardly understand their meaning without being familiar with the canal systems and their relative positions to each other. However, it is gathered that the Imperial people have been living in a good deal of suspense until recently, though they think now that the worst of their troubles are over, whether the Colorado continues to run into the Salton sea or is turned back toward the gulf.

It appears that when the big flood in the river struck the Imperial valley it was too large to be accommodated by the existing canals or even the natural depressions left from old channels, and began a general inundation that was alarming. The greatest trouble seems to be along the old channel of New River, which has cut back, it is said, about twenty miles, though the Press seems to think it is now getting settled down to a regular channel. The following editorial of the Imperial Press on "The Situation" will perhaps give a good understanding of the situation to those who are familiar with the canal systems and the topography of the country:

In the first place this channel disposes forever of all danger of the Imperial valley being flooded by an inrush of water from the Colorado river no matter how great it might be. It also divides the valley into three distinct sections each containing two water companies. East of the Alamo river are the Imperial Water companies No. 5 and No. 7; between the Alamo and New River are No. 6 and No. 8. As a result of this channel cutting, Nos. 6 and 8 will be without water until the new canal can be constructed on a high line through Mexico and staking in all the land not heretofore included in No. 6 and No. 8 west of New River. This will probably add 200,000 acres more to the irrigated area in that part of the valley. Locally, the washing away of the main canal has done no harm farther than delaying irrigation for a few days until the canal can be built around the break. This applies only to Water Companies No. 1 and No. 4 and will be so temporary as to hardly merit notice but for the fact that it is an incident of the erosion of the river channel and the draining of the flooded areas. In water companies No. 5 and No. 7 there is no change whatever as being east of the Alamo channel they are on the other side of the valley from the New River and not concerned in its doings.

The cutting out of this New river channel, while of much interest to the United States and Mexican governments and the California Development company on account of the fact that the water causing it must be shut out as soon as possible, is really a safeguard to the people of this valley, for it guarantees them that they will have abundant drainage ways, will never be menaced by floods and also that the water will be put under control and made to flow down the old channel of the Colorado to the gulf because these mighty interests cannot afford to let it run where it is a minute longer than it is possible to shut it out.

Mrs. E. J. Bennett and mother, Mrs. Guy Bennett, and Miss Drew Bennett yesterday morning left for Iron Springs, where they will spend the summer.
