FEAST OF THE MACCABEES—The feast of the Maccabees, otherwise known as Chanuka, will be celebrated by Congregation Emanuel of this city Sunday, December 25, at 8 p. m. at Meisler hall. It recalls one of the most beautiful events in Jewish history, events that show this ancient race in a light most admirable, fighting valiantly against the Greek oppressor and his trained legions. The feast is an anniversary day of the victory and independence of the kingdom of Judaea over ancient Greece. Judas the Maccabee, the general and hero of this war, is undoubtedly deserving of his place among the great soldiers and patriots of all time. Rev. Herman Hofstadter will conduct the services. The subject of his sermon is: "The Jew as a Soldier."

HANDSOME CALENDAR—One of the prettiest calendars issued so far this season is that of the Lovett Drug company. This calendar presents a reproduction of the famous painting "Where Love Abides," by Albert Herter, A. N. A. The painting shows Mr. Herter's great skill in rendering the effects of light, and using those effects to heighten the romantic sentiment of his picture. In the gray hour of twilight, mother and children have gathered in the cozy living room awaiting the time of the return of the father from his daily task. The little girl has gone to sleep beside her books, the baby nestles in the mother's arms, while she, drawing aside the curtain, looks down the path to the gate, ready with her evening welcome at the sound of the familiar footstep and the well known voice. It is the lullaby hour, and the feeling that stirs the mother's heart is shown in the radiance of her countenance. This calendar is the fourth in a series issued from year to year by the Lovett Drug company and is suitable to ornament any home.

PORTLAND FURNISHES EXAMPLE FOR PHOENIX

Commercial Club and Y. M. C. A. Both Occupy Eight-Story Buildings.

Since the idea for a "Greater Phoenix" club, to have a big building somewhere in the city and do the work which the board of trade, Arizona club and other organizations are endeavoring to do, was first advanced, Harry Welch has been endeavoring to get all the information possible about what other cities have done along that line. He has collected some valuable data which will be needed when the time comes to organize such a club.

Portland, Oregon, has a commercial club that is a board of trade and social club in one, and which is proving an enormous factor in the development of the state. Publicity work, it seems, is carried on with a separate fund raised especially to advertise Oregon's resources.

Following is a letter Mr. Welch received in reply to an inquiry he made: "Mr. Harry Welch, Secy., Board of Trade, Phoenix, Arizona: "Dear Sir—This will acknowledge your letter of November 30. The only thing that we have showing any pictures of the club is our regular book containing the constitution. A copy of this is sent you in the same mail."

"We have almost 1,500 members and the club is more than self-supporting, though of course our building, which is our only property, is somewhat encumbered as yet. It is an eight-story steel-frame structure, standing on a corner and occupying a quarter of a block. The social features are well taken care of and in addition to accommodation for members there is a reception room and dining room for ladies."

"Our publicity work is supported by a separate fund approximating $60,000 every year. Our work is somewhat unique in that it emphasizes the opportunities of the state rather than speaking of the cities. "You will hear from Secretary Stone as to the Y. M. C. A. work here. They occupy a magnificent building of eight stories and I have heard it stated that there is an average daily attendance there of 3,000 men. I am very glad to be of service to you and hope you will command me if I can do anything further. "Fraternally yours, "W. L. CRISSEY."

PENN'S TOWN'S AWFUL NIGHT

the other end of the burned structure. William Glazier of engine company No. 6 and Harry Bertolet of chemical engine No. 25, who were pinned by heavy girders, were able to talk with the rescuers and direct their work. John Carroll of engine No. 7 was also able to converse with his rescuers, but succumbed before he was reached.

In the meantime a greater disaster was threatening the men buried in the ruins. The north wall, which remained standing, began to totter and fears were entertained that it would crash upon the firemen at any moment.

Superintendent Taylor hurried 300 policemen to the scene with instructions to tear the wall down at all hazards to prevent its falling upon the frozen seriously injured men who were alive and further burying the probably dead.

Six policemen are known to have been killed at 2:45 this morning when the north wall fell. At the time the wall collapsed about thirty policemen and firemen were working close to the tottering bricks.

Fifteen of this number were able to rush from danger, but the remainder were caught, many being crushed to death.

The total number of dead will probably reach twenty.

PAVING COMMITTEE HAS SEEN EL PASO

Will Prepare Its Report For the General Committee Today.

Having completed the investigation it was appointed by the city council to make, the special committee composed of Councilman Charles Stauffer, Dwight B. Heard and Roy S. Goodrich returned last evening from El Paso. Today the committee will hold a meeting to draw up a report, which will probably be turned over to the general paving committee tomorrow.

The investigators left for El Paso Monday evening, arriving there about 7:30 the next morning. They remained until after nine in the evening. During the day they visited every section of the city where pavement has been laid. El Paso has fourteen miles of bitulithic pavement and has also tried out several other kinds.

City officials, paving men and property owners all treated the investigating committee with every courtesy, taking the Phoenixians wherever they wished to go and furnishing them with all the information they desired. They return with only the highest praise for El Paso, which they found to be a modern, progressive city.

The preparation of a report, embodying what the committee learned last week at Redlands, at Redlands, Pasadena and Los Angeles, and what was learned in El Paso Tuesday, will probably consume most of today but the members hope to have it ready for the general committee tomorrow. The general committee will include this report in one it will present to the council.

AN OBJECT LESSON.

"Charles," said a sharp-voiced woman to her husband in a railway carriage, "do you know that you and I once had a romance in a railway carriage?"

"Never heard of it," replied Charles, in a subdued tone.

"I thought you hadn't; but don't you remember I was that pair of slippers I presented to you the Christmas before we were married that led to our union? Well, Charles, one day when we were going to a picnic, you had your feet up on a seat, and when you were not looking I took your measure. But for that pair of slippers I don't believe we'd have ever been married."

A young unmarried man, sitting by, immediately took down his feet from the seat.—Ideas.

CHRISTMAS DINNER FOR HORSES.

This is to be another long-to-be-remembered Christmas day for horses, too. The plan used last year by officers and members of the Humane society by which more than one thousand horses were given a good dinner Christmas is to be followed again.
