

RATTLERS AND STARS WILL MIX IT TODAY

A Real Baseball Game Due to Be Pulled Off at Eastlake Park.

Phoenix isn't the best baseball town in the world, but she has some fans who get restless if they don't see a good game once every three or four months, at least. It has been a long time since there was any baseball to speak of here and for that reason a big crowd is expected to turn out to see the contest between the Stars and Rattlers at Eastlake park this afternoon. Incidentally, it should be a good game, for some of the niftiest amateurs who ever kicked up the dust of the Eastlake diamond are in the two teams.

The primary purpose of this game is to raise money to pay the debts of the old Phoenix Baseball association, which backed the Jewels. Though the Jewels put up a pretty fair article of baseball, they left a heritage of debt. Indications are that the net receipts of today's game will more than cover all obligations.

Several of the Jewels are now Stars. Briscois, for instance, will play in his old place behind the bat. Charley Griljalva is back from Flagstaff and will be seen on first; Duhonson will play third, Byers second and Rudolph short.

Here is the way the Stars will line-up:

Briscois, catcher; Kerlick, pitcher; Griljalva, first; Byers, second; Rudolph, short; Duhonson, third; Osborn, left; Hurley, center; Scott, right.

The Rattlers are younger players than the Stars, but have the advantage of having played together a year or more. There is probably no faster amateur team in the Salt river valley. They are little more than a bunch of kids who congregate now and then on some vacant lot to imbibe the rudiments of the great American game, but they are some ball players. Here is their line-up:

Pitcher, Buena; catcher, Pina; first base, Castle; second base, Pito; third base, Gave; short stop, Arviso; left field, Teddy; center field, Ortega; right field, J. Quinos.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

We, the pastor and members of the colored M. E. church on the corner of Seventh and Jefferson streets solicit the patronage of the public at the laying of the corner stone on March 26th. Officiated at by Bishop Waterhouse and city pastors and Presiding Elder J. E. Crucifix. We welcome one and all. God loves a cheerer. At 2:30 p. m. Rev. Z. Z. Johnson, pastor. dm

WONDERFUL GROWTH OF EAST EVERGREEN

Fifth Street to Be Settled by a "Colony of Friends."

Five new homes are shortly to be erected in East Evergreen addition, all on Culver street near Fifth street. All will belong to young people who will be able to form sort of a neighborhood club, as all are particular friends of each other. They are Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stanton, Mr. and Mrs. Shirley, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Volk, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Gates, and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Finch. East Evergreen has attained the greatest growth of any high class new addition of the newer Phoenix. This is particularly striking to the visitors who come and go, who are gone from the city a year at a time. Where, two and three years ago, were mesquite thickets, now are located the most beautiful new homes of Phoenix. With wide avenues, lined with palms and palms well cared for, and being located near car lines, in the highest part of Phoenix, the addition grew rapidly from the time it was platted.

East Evergreen lots are all large, each protecting the other, and the back was laid properly for the attractive place it has grown to be.

UNWRITTEN LAWS

Traditions Which Have Almost the Force of Statutes

There is a class of unwritten law which does not and cannot become written law. Case and Custom are not law, because it approaches so near the danger line that man dare not recognize it to the extent of publishing it and declaring it as a part of the positive law. It is the unwritten law of the sea that a captain must go down with his ship. Men dare not write it into the contract, and nations dare not incorporate it in their navy or marine regulations, yet the tyrants of the sea know the law, and believe that to obey it betters their service, and there are few instances of its being disregarded. It is the unwritten law of the army and navy that an officer shall not seek cover, or at least shall not show apprehension of danger to his person, in time of battle and in the presence of enlisted men or common sailors. In the Franco-Prussian war nearly four thousand officers of the German army were killed and the great majority of them gave up their lives because they believed in this law of conduct.

In obedience to this law, Farragut bound himself to the mast, Lee rode to the head of his charging column at the bloody angle, and Lawton walked coolly in front of the line and was shot in the presence of his men. The law of the right of revolution has been much talked about and much written about. Every intelligent citizen believes that he has the right under certain conditions to oppose the established government of his own land and join in an effort to establish another in its place. Just prior to and during the civil war there was much discussion in this country by learned men on either side of the right of revolution and the "higher power" and the "greater law."

The law justifying one person in the killing of another has required the serious consideration of every country. Every criminal code provides certain punishments for homicide, and many of them graduate the punishment with minute particularity, according to the circumstances of the killing, so that any one of six crimes may be involved in a single tragedy. Such codes also attempt to define what killing is justifiable and what is excusable and with their interpretation by the courts attempt to describe the only conditions under which one human being can kill another and not be guilty of crime. The Hebrew code almost stands alone in its recognition of man's desire to kill and his right to have that desire and that climax of all satisfactions which comes to him who under great provocation slays another. It is not at all strange that in this branch there should be an extended code of unwritten as written law, unwritten now and always to be unwritten for the reason that the recognition gives by its embodiment in the statutes would be taken as a license by dishonest men and would result in harm rather than good.

It is an unwritten law among the officers of the army that if a subordinate officer kills a superior officer because that officer has publicly degraded him by striking him or by other action equally humiliating then the court-martial will not convict. During the civil war at Louisville, Ky., General Nelson said to General Davis: "How many men have you?" General Davis replied, "About 100." Nelson said, "You an army officer and say about? Why don't you know how many men you have?" And with that he struck Davis in the face with his glove. Davis shot and killed him, and the court-martial acquitted Davis.

WINKELMAN NEWS.

Increasing Population Creates Demand for Habitations.

Winkelman, March 25.—(Special Correspondence to The Republican)—The Ladies' Aid Society, was entertained Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Marguerite Carter and Miss Tyler Esrbec at the home of the latter. After a short business session, presided over by the president, Mrs. John M. Lundsey, delicious refreshments were enjoyed and a general social time indulged in. The ladies are planning to give a play in the near future, which promises to be quite a success. The parts are all to be taken by home talent and it is surprising how many gifted ones we have among us.

Three new families have been enrolled as residents during the past week. Mrs. Roberts and children came from Phoenix Tuesday to join Mr. Roberts who is employed at the Hayden plant. Mr. and Mrs. Clemmons are recent arrivals from New York. Many small houses and tent houses are being put up and three adobe buildings are in the course of construction. Still the demand for houses or rooms far exceeds the supply. The music of humming machinery is in the air and the people of Winkelman and Hayden are glad for prosperity has come to stay. Four big engines of twenty-two hundred horsepower each have been installed in the power house in the Hayden plant, one of which is running. This generates the power to pump the water, light the buildings and run one unit of the mill which is now in regular operation.

Flower hunting parties are the order of the day. All kinds are to be found.
