UNIVERSITY WILL USE TENT HOUSES

Ten tent houses are to be built immediately and ten others in the near future for the accommodation of new men students at the state university who cannot be provided for in the dormitory. The tents will serve until the new dormitory, which will increase the dormitory facilities to accommodations for 150 men, is completed.

This was the most important action of the board of regents at the last meeting held. President Wilde reported that although the new dormitory was originally intended to be built for women students, present prospects indicate that all women students will be taken care of with the dormitory accommodations already provided.

The resignation of Prof. R. C. Benner, assistant professor in the chemistry department, was tendered and accepted. His successor has not yet been named.

The board appointed Dr. K. C. Babcock, former president of the university, official representative of the university at the fiftieth anniversary celebration to be held by the University of Washington, November 1. Dr. Babcock has already agreed to represent the university.

WANT BIDS FOR HOSPITAL

The matter of taking care of the poor farm and county hospital has been settled finally by the decision of the board of supervisors to advertise for supplies and for the services of a physician whose duties it shall be to look after the health of the county dependents. Bids will be opened at 10 o'clock the morning of September 23. The contracts will have six months to run.

MIGHTY GOOD FAIR SAYS MR. CAMPBELL

That range conditions are splendid and sheep doing as well as any one could wish for, but that the prices are as low as they were in 1894 and 1895, is the statement made today by Hugh E. Campbell, president of the Arizona Wool Grower's association and president of the Seventh Annual Arizona State fair, who is in Albuquerque to attend the interstate commerce commission hearing tomorrow, says the Albuquerque Herald. Mr. Campbell is one of the best known men in Arizona and was formerly a frequent visitor in Albuquerque.

"We are going to have a corking good fair in Phoenix this year," said Mr. Campbell today. "We are doing well with the sheep only the prices are away down at the foot of the hill. Politically things are badly mixed. The Socialists are in the game and are evidently sincere in their threats to put a ticket in the field. I believe this will have the effect of drawing many votes from the democrats."

Preparations for sending a high-class agricultural and mineral exhibit to the territorial fair at Phoenix, are about to be undertaken by H. V. Falor, who has been appointed territorial fair commissioner for Pima county, says the Tucson Citizen. The exhibit will be a portion or all of that which is prepared for the approaching Pima county fair, and then at the territorial fair, is to be prepared by Prof. S. C. Newsum, superintendent of the city schools, in an effort to make the educational exhibit a strong feature of Pima county's display. The university authorities will also be asked to co-operate in this connection.

FRIENDS A SCHOOLGIRL MAKES

A schoolgirl's instinct leads her to the making of friends. Affinity, one might say, is at work. And it doesn't do much good to advise her in regard to the kinds of friends that are wisest choice. In such matters, she will in most cases only learn by what she suffers. But now and then, is a girl level-headed in such matters, who doesn't want to make blunders, and who will gladly listen and heed suggestions to the forming of school friendships. The girl who does this will make helpful and inspiring friendships that will be a joy to her all through life.

Most of the girls one meets at school are entire strangers. What their ideals are, what their home life may be, is unknown. Yet girls will rush in and form intimate friendships with them, that may have a great effect on their future life, without knowing anything of those they are thus taking into their life. And yet it is a time when they should move slowly and cautiously in the matter of friendships, for school girls are not good judges of human nature, and they are at an impressionable age when tastes and manners can be strongly influenced.

A girl may be strongly attracted to another, but if, upon close acquaintance she finds that this girl urges her to deceitful conduct toward her mother, or to unscrupulous methods in regard to lessons, she should drop such an intimacy. The other girl may argue that these are little matters, and that they don't count. But they are not little, and they do count. It will lead her to form habits of deceitfulness and double dealing that will poison her whole life.

A girl should avoid friendship with one who is loud and forward in her manner. To the unsophisticated girl it may seem very smart to attract a lot of attention on the trolley or street, by loud laughing and would-be clever remarks. But such conduct is only vulgar, and brings discredit upon the girls indulging in it. The girl who has made a friend of one who does these things should either try to induce her to stop or else break off the intimacy. She will cut herself off from many pleasant associations in the future, if she does not. For these coarse, loud manners acquired while young will stick to her, and will repel refined, cultured people. And thus in after years she may be cut off from associations she very much desires.

The school girl should be somewhat low and critical in forming her friends. She should not rush in impulsively as is her nature, to do and swear eternal friendship on two days' acquaintance. She should have certain standards of her own refined, ladylike deportment, of truth and honor and square dealing. And the girl who upon acquaintance does not measure up to these, she should avoid, unless she is strong enough herself to uphold her own standards and to bring the other girl around to her own high outlook upon life.

Man's inhumanity to man isn't a circumstance to woman's snubbing of woman.

Bright and delicately colored fabrics are often ruined in the process of laundering by soap being rubbed upon them or a bit accidentally adhering to them. To prevent such a mishap, keep your bar of laundry soap while washing, tied up in a small sack of thin material. Better soaps can be made in this way and also every bit of soap can be used, preventing all waste.—From the Housekeeper.

IMPERIAL COPPER WILL GET A REST

An agreement has been reached by the officials and attorneys in the bankruptcy proceedings against the Imperial Copper company that no further action will be taken until October 1. This agreement was entered into in order to give Hon. M. P. Freeman, trustee in bankruptcy, an opportunity to take a vacation.

It is the intention of the bondholders of the Imperial Copper company to arrange for some provision for the general creditors of the company, if possible, and this matter will be taken up immediately after the proceedings are resumed. In the meantime all parties have agreed to let the case rest.
