

MISSING CREW OF KINGSTONIAN, SUNK BY

STILL HOPE OF THEIR SURVIVAL; SHIPPING INSURETE OF PARALYSIS THROUGH SUBMARINE DISAPPEARED

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire] NEWPORT, N. I., Oct. 10.—The search for the crew of the Kingstonian, one of the vessels reported torpedoed by a German submarine off Nantucket last Sunday, was abandoned tonight and the twelve torpedo boat destroyers that were engaged in this work, were ordered to return to port. For the last 48 hours systematically within the zone of the submarine's operations, and it is believed that any small boat drifting with a shipwrecked crew would have been sighted.

There is strong belief among shipping men that some merchantman would have picked up the missing crew and proceeded on her voyage. Even if the rescuing steamer were equipped with wireless apparatus, the fact that she had the Kingstonian's crew on board, might not be reported. It is pointed out, as her commander might fear to run the risk of disclosing his position to a German submarine.

The Kingstonian was last seen by the officers and crew of the Strathmore, one of the ships destroyed by the German U-boat. According to the report of Captain Wilson of the Strathmore, he and his crew witnessed the torpedoing of the Kingstonian after they had abandoned their own vessel, but he did not sight any of the Kingstonian's boats.

A report said to have come by wireless today told of the finding by one of the destroyers of an overturned life boat belonging to the Kingstonian. Naval officers here, however, later denied the story.

The announcement that Captain Math E. Grotness of the Norwegian bark steamer the Strathmore, reported to the owners of his ship in New York today, that he saw three submarines, aroused much interest among officers of the destroyer flotilla here. The captain was quoted as saying that while standing on the deck of the U-boat which attacked his vessel, he saw two other submarines in the distance. Rear Admiral Austin K. Kibbey, commander of the Strathmore Bay naval station, said one of the destroyer officers saw more than one U-boat, although all the destroyers were very close to some of the ships that were torpedoed. Rear Admiral Kibbey suggested that Captain Grotness mistook destroyers speeding at a distance, for submarines. All the captains of the ships whose crews were brought to this coast were questioned by naval authorities on Monday and none of them reported at that time having seen more than one submarine.

Shining Still Nervous BOSTON, Oct. 10.—Shipping agents here who have been holding their vessels in port on account of German submarine activities off the New England coast, received another alarm today when a tug boat captain reported that he saw something resembling a submarine. The tug boat Light and Minto's Light, early this morning.

The object was so distinct and the light so poor that the captain was unable to say positively that he had sighted a submarine, and the steamboat inspectors to whom he made his report were inclined to the opinion that the failure of other incoming vessels to have positively identified a stranger in these waters, cast doubt on the accuracy of his observations. It was pointed out on the other hand, that the rough sea last night might have led a submarine commander to believe that the vessel was a merchantman. The two boat captain saw the supposed U-boat, is well within the three mile limit. The tie up of shipping bound for that port to Europe, is still noticeable tonight, although no definite words of the whereabouts of the German U-boat has been received since the torpedoing of a half dozen vessels off Nantucket last Sunday. The British steamboat Great City, which has been ready to sail since Tuesday morning, will still off the quarantine station tonight. The Lord Cromer, another Britisher, with a shipment of horses, wheat and other goods, is also in port.

HUGHES' STAND CONSTRUCTIVE SAYS GARFIELD

Before quite the largest audience yet seen on the Y. M. C. A. tennis courts, he presented the record of Charles Evans Hughes, as a constructive critic of democratic methods, and in terms that could not be misunderstood, stated what Mr. Hughes will do in certain vital exigencies, if elected. Mr. Garfield began his speech by paying a high tribute to Judge Kibbey, who had preceded him on the platform.

KIBBEY EXPERT ON IRRIGATION PLEADS CAUSE

His voice battling a thousand percent, Judge Kibbey came back and scored a tremendous success in his address on the need of Arizona of "somebody with a little irrigation information in the United States senate, at the Y. M. C. A. stadium last night. Judge Kibbey led the program and was introduced by Chairman Richard E. Sloan, as the republican candidate for senator.

Taking up the matter of his distinguished opponent, H. P. Ashurst, Judge Kibbey declared, that although adverse to speaking of himself, he intended to do a lot of plain and fancy boosting for one J. H. Kibbey. "I am no gladiator," he said, "and I believe an official should have other qualities than that of being able to meet perfect strangers and with oily solicitude, inquire after remote members of their families."

CHAS. E. HUGHES' HOT REJOINER TO PRES' TELIOT

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire] BALTIMORE, Oct. 10.—Charles E. Hughes, speaking in the great armory here where Woodrow Wilson first was nominated for the presidency, tonight assailed Mr. Wilson's policy toward the promotion of American trade abroad, and replied to published statements of Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, endorsing the president's policy.

Dr. Eliot perceives the heart of the matter," Mr. Hughes said, "and he finds that the record of the administration means this: 'no intervention by force of arms to protect on foreign soil American commercial and manufacturing adventures who of their own free will, have invested their money or risked their lives in foreign parts under alien jurisdiction.'

"Think of the import of that, you who represent the best genius of the world and are thinking of using it abroad," Mr. Hughes said. "Think of that, you who it is suggested are to be asked to finance the chief undertakings of the world. Think of that, merchants, salesmen, tellers, clerks and dealers, who in serving the world take you places remote from your friends and safeguards, in communities where revolutions are frequent and only respect for your flag and the power it symbolizes may stand between you and ruin or even death."

FRENCH GAINS IN THE WEST. GERMANS, EAST

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire] WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The American memorandum on use of neutral waters by belligerent submarines, the text of which was made public by the state department tonight declares the allies have failed to show why such vessels should be denied entrance to neutral ports and that no circumstances have been set forth rendering the usual provisions of international law applicable to underwater craft.

Quite Some Contrast In most effective contrast with the campaign staff of Mr. Ashurst, here intruded that a comparison might be drawn, Judge Kibbey then took the subject of his qualifications for the office he seeks. He admitted freely that he intended to push himself forward as a desirable candidate, which he proceeded to do with vigor.

He explained why it would be necessary to pay more than the original cost of the dam, but insisted without equivocation there must be no hint of repudiation in the valley's attitude on the payment question. Yet there is no repudiation, he said, and he intends to advise the water users, of which he is legal advisor, not to pay it. He called the excess costs the result of disastrous mistakes, egregious errors and costly experiments. The never ceasing, estimated to cost $90,000 and actually costing a million and a half, originally intended to supply water for power and revenue, and now absolutely useless, was added as an example of engineering blunder, for which the water users must not be held to pay.

Until it became necessary to respond to the demands of clear thinking on the subject, President Wilson regarded his solid south too highly to risk boosting the child labor bill. There was a clean cut masterful bill passed the house—one that was simple and very effective for the purposes of the anti-child labor people of the country, however, for the southern democrats whose support came chiefly from the tremendous milling and manufacturing interests, employing child labor. But finally, Wilson went before congress and got the bill through the senate—but how sadly changed!
