FOOD WILL WIN THE WAR

THRIFT TRIP IS BIG BOOST FOR SALE OF STAMPS

State Director Harry R. Trittle of the Arizona War Savings committee, returned yesterday afternoon from Yuma where he and his party of Phoenix War Savings boosters spent Saturday in helping the local workers put the Colorado river town "over the top" in a most sensational Thrift Day drive. Nothing like an accurate estimate of the actual sales was obtainable before the Phoenixians left on Sunday morning on the return trip, but Director Trittle is confident that they went several thousand dollars beyond the fondest expectations of those in charge of the work.

It was announced late Saturday night that nearly if not quite $20,000 worth of Baby Bonds and Thrift Stamps had been sold during the day, but somewhat revised figures later cut this amount down somewhat. But even at that, it was admitted by all concerned that Yuma had done herself proud and was entitled to unusual distinction. That the sales exceeded those of the Phoenix Thrift Day is still the belief of the state officers of the War Savings committee.

In some respects Saturday was one of the greatest in the history of that growing community. Business was not suspended but it was made secondary to the big work in hand. One entire block in the heart of the business district was roped off and upon the paved street were erected the various booths and games for the promotion of the sale of stamps and bonds. Only while the parade was in progress was this thoroughfare open. President von KleinSmid of the University of Arizona addressed a thousand or more people within the roped off area, as did Judge W. S. Barnum of this city. Col. J. H. Westover acted as chairman of the gathering and introduced the speakers.

Early in the afternoon the postmaster and the banking houses began to be worried over the rapidly with which their supply of stamps and bonds was being depleted and a message was wired to headquarters for an additional supply. It was estimated that the grand ball at the Elks club netted the cause about $1,000.

A fire alarm was sent in during the afternoon and brought many people together who were at once reminded that the big Thrift Day was in progress. "Swat the Kaiser," read a sign upon a big canvas curtain through which a loyal citizen thrust his head and allowed the throwing of three balls to every purchaser of a Thrift Stamp. "The Kaiser" was swatted many a time during the day.

The holiday spirit was on all day and far into the night. In the evening the day time crowd was augmented by hundreds of visitors from the neighboring communities until the streets and business houses were thronged.

The full benefit of the Thrift Day struck Meyer and W. L. Barnum and Win Wylie is associated with Mr. Bullard for the defense.

celebration in Yuma has not yet been felt. Many Thrift Stamp books were started on that day which will be filled in due time adding hundreds of dollars to the War Savings fund. And a movement was inaugurated on that day looking to the organization of many War Savings societies which will mean many more hundreds of dollars.

Director Trittle before leaving Yuma extended heartiest congratulations to those in charge of the work and expressed himself as both surprised and pleased with the good work. Those who accompanied Director Trittle from Phoenix were State Distributor George Kirkland, State Librarian Con P. Cronin, County Chairman J. C. Dobbins, Maricopa County Speakers' Bureau Chairman Gene Cunningham, Judge W. S. Barnum and James G. Simpson, of the Arizona Republican, state chairman of the publicity bureau.

The first night was spent at the Hotel Modesti, Agua Caliente Springs, where Mrs. Modesti did everything in her power to make her guests comfortable. Excellent meals and midnight baths and rubs in the hot springs put everybody in an excellent humor and ready for the long grind between the Springs and Yuma. Luncheon was had at the state road camp at the Gila River bridge and was all that could be desired.

En route the delegation held meetings and conferences at Liberty, Buckeye, Palo Verde and Arlington, as well as at Palomas, Wellton, Dome and other points. War Savings societies are to be organized at these points. Liberty started the ball rolling by organizing a society in the Liberty school before the visitors had gone well on their way. There are 110 pupils in this school which has all the lower grades and two high school grades. The membership of the society at this school is expected to ultimately be quite large.

All along the way the delegation was greeted with enthusiasm, the big cars bearing signs reading "War Savings Special" and "Arizona War Savings Committee Special" attracting no end of attention. It was the opinion of all in the party that it was a most successful trip and calculated to rouse exactly the spirit that is necessary in order to make the Thrift Stamp movement a success in Arizona.

ANNUAL MEETING FOR DEACONESS IS ON TONIGHT

The annual meeting of the Deaconess hospital corporation will be held tonight at the Central Methodist church. Those in charge invite the public to attend and a large and enthusiastic meeting is anticipated. Those who have not received their membership certificate are requested to be present and will be recognized as delegates. The meeting will start at 7:30 o'clock.

The following interesting program will be given at this meeting: Organ prelude, F. T. Doane. Opening hymn, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," A. H. Davidson. Invocation, Rev. George M. Lehigh. Baritone solo, "A Prayer," J. W. McBain.

President H. B. Wilkinson's statement for the board of trustees. Summary of treasurer's report, J. A. R. Irvine. Election of trustees for a three year term. Address, Rev. Byron H. Wilson of Los Angeles. Benediction, Rev. J. A. Wailes. Those in charge state that no collection or offerings will be made at this meeting.

On February 27 from the headquarters in Washington, the national council of defense authorized the following statement: "For the purpose of completing the mobilization of the entire medical and surgical resources of the country, the organization of the volunteer medical reserve corps is authorized. It is intended that this new corps shall be an instrument ably directed to meet such civil and military needs as are not already provided for. In view of the prospective losses in men with which every community is confronted, the general medical board believes that the need at home should be even better met now than ever. It will mean that much service must be gratuitous, but the medical men can be relied upon to do their share of giving freely." These are a few sentences from a lengthy but strong document.

One of the leading physicians in Arizona recently declared in public that the building of the Deaconess hospital was a war measure.

GOVERNMENT IS REAL DEFENDANT

"Have you any prejudice against the United States government?" was the question put to veniremen by George Purdy Bullard yesterday in the $10,000 damage suit brought by Mary Helen

Jones and Harry E. Jones against the Arizona Eastern railroad.

Objections by the opposing counsel being overruled by Judge Stanford, Mr. Bullard pursued his course of questioning the jurors, on the ground that if the plaintiff is awarded judgment the government must pay. Mr. Bullard repeated the question to each man whose name was called. Since the government has taken over the roads all cases against the railroads are reported to Washington and counsel have been advised to exert care in settlements in view of the fact that they are spending United States money.

The case which was begun in Judge Stanford's court yesterday is the result of an accident which occurred at the Four Mile Crossing April 20, 1916, which resulted fatally for one and seriously injuring two other occupants of the automobile driven by Mrs. Jones.

Mrs. Jones, in attempting to cross the tracks was hit by the train, she will claim. It is understood that she will allege that she had no warning of the approach of the train; that the whistle was not sounded; that the engine was not equipped with a headlight and that the right of way was obstructed by weeds and shrubbery.

Mrs. Butler, who was with her, was killed, and her small daughter injured. The plaintiff, who claims to have sustained injuries, made an attractive appearance in court yesterday. She wore a smart spring suit of modish military brown and a large white sailor hat.

The first witness called was Gus Streitz, who identified a map of the scene which he had drawn, and the case continued until 9:29 o'clock in order that the deposition of Joe Bush, who is seriously ill, might be taken. The plaintiff is represented by F. C.

MATRIMONIAL SHIP UPON SHOALS AGAIN

That the second matrimonial venture of Mrs. Addine Bury Ready Pantowsky proved no happier than the first, was the word that reached here yesterday when it was learned that Mrs. Pantowsky had brought suit for separate maintenance against Jacob Pantowsky of Oakland. The plaintiff asks for $500 a month from her husband from whom she separated in February, a month and five days after the wedding.

As a young girl, Miss Bury was a great local society favorite. She married Ira D. Ready, a young railroad man of this city, and shortly after the marriage, which was said to be an ideal love match, the couple went to the coast. Later came rumors of unhappiness and a divorce followed. The mother was granted the custody of the children and for the past few years has taught in the public schools of northern California.

A few weeks ago came news of her marriage to a wealthy Oakland business man twice her age. Fashionable folk were still discussing the wedding when word came of the separation.
