

VALLEY HAY DEALERS
JOIN NATIONAL BODY
TO ADVANCE INTEREST

The organization of hay dealers of the Salt River valley as a part of the National Hay Dealers' association was effected at a meeting held at the state headquarters of the food administration in the War Work building last week. This was brought about by J. Mining Taylor, secretary of the national association, who has headquarters at Winchester, Indiana, who was brought to Phoenix for this purpose.

The vital need of thorough cooperation, organization and efficiency were emphasized by Mr. Taylor in an address which pointed the hay men to readiness to adopt numerous suggestions as to changes in the rules of the local organization to comply with those of the national body.

Thorough grading and inspection of hay sold to the government and the proper continuation of all hay shipments under the plan proposed, will be the first items on the hay men's calendar for the coming year.

Mr. Taylor represents an organization which is 23 years old and which counts 1300 members in the United States and Canada. It has been recognized by the foreign branch of the war department and by the food administration as one of the greatest agencies toward building up in the war.

The great service given by the association to its members while they in turn are helping to serve their country was pointed out by the speaker. He placed the greatest amount of hay in the country at $20.00 a ton. This will be reduced to 20 percent, he said, but the big trouble will be to distribute the hay to the points of consumption. With transportation facilities under the government handling better than ever before, this would be a much easier task than ever, declared the speaker.

George Franklin, executive secretary of the food administration, in addressing the meeting congratulated the hay men on the fine spirit of co-operation with the government which they have shown. He declared, however, that the hay men on the part of hay producers in certain parts of the state to board their hay, holding the same for a higher price when better sections are in the market. The feeling situation is especially critical in Texas, he declared, and the food administration of that state had wired the Arizona food administration seeking relief. It is up to the hay dealers, said Franklin, to cooperate in securing the prompt release of this surplus.

NAMES ATTORNEYS FOR ADVISORY DUTY

Judge Stanford, chairman of the local advisory committee, yesterday assigned lawyers to serve the drafted men in updating their questionnaires for Saturday and Monday. Because of the general election on Tuesday, which is a legal holiday, the work will be at times until Wednesday.

The attorneys called for duty today include John L. Gual, George D. Christy, Louis H. Chalmers, Walter Bennett, J. M. Jamison, Robert Clark, Raymond Albee, F. H. Swenson, Robert S. Fisher, J. J. Cox, Earl Drake and Raymond Allen. On Monday the following will answer: Joseph H. Kibbey, C. F. Alsworth, H. M. Pennington, W. L. Barnum, Gilbert Nairn, James Miller, Jr., P. H. Larsen, P. H. Hayes, Paul Hensley, H. J. Phelps, H. M. Wheeler, P. Louis Zimmerman, J. J. Cox and Warren Kinder.

GOVERNOR HUNT HAS KNIT WHOLE SWEATER

Governor Hunt has knit a sweater for a soldier. This is not the governor's first essay in knitting, however, as he has produced by the clicking needles a considerable assortment of mittens, socks and other articles for various friends in the service. The sweater was mailed yesterday to Edgar Chilson of the 18th infantry, who is with a machine gun company "somewhere in France." The governor assured the yarn for this sweater in Washington when he was cast last week.

CAN PRINT PICTURES FOR ALL OF PHOENIX WITH EQUIPMENT

A photographic laboratory, complete in every detail, has been installed in the basement of the National Bank of Arizona building by the Central Drug company.

"We undoubtedly have the most modern and complete plant in the state for the development of films and the making of prints and enlargements," said Roy Weyland of the Central Drug company yesterday.

"Our development and fixing tanks are capable of handling 800 rolls of film per day, and at this time probably not more than 500 rolls per day are sold in Phoenix.

"The dryer, operating on much the same principle as a laundry mangle, will dry an average of 1,000 prints per hour, turning them out perfectly flat, and without that annoying tendency to curl so noticeable in prints produced by the old-fashioned methods. We use Velox, the highest grade paper obtainable, for all our prints.

"Our enlarging machine is the most up-to-date we could find on the market, and will produce the highest quality enlargements from any good negative, to as large a size as the quality of the negative will warrant. In fact, we have spared no expense in equipping this model photographic laboratory to give our customers the best to be had in the line of development, printing, and enlargements, and have employed a competent staff to handle it."

PLATINUM UNDER CONTROL OF HUNS

(New York Times)
Charges that German interests control the platinum industry of the United States, that the attempts of the war industries board to conserve platinum have been inefficient, and that members of the jewelers' vigilance committee are "unpatriotic profiteers" were made by Representative Rainey of Illinois in an address in the House advocating the insertion of a prohibitive tax on platinum jewelry manufacture in the new revenue bill.

Efforts of jewelers through their vigilance committee to conserve platinum have "failed miserably," Mr. Rainey said. Dealers in platinum have made large amounts of money, he said, and many, while pretending to discourage the use of the metal, have compelled its use by discouraging substitutes. The German platinum firm of W. C. Heraeus of Hanau, through its branch in the United States, controls the four firms in this country that produce 80 per cent of the platinum supply, Representative Rainey said, adding that the American agent of the German firm, Charles Engelhard of New York is an adviser of the war industries board on platinum.
