

THE SIMPLEX SILO

Don't Forget What a Silo Is For

You want it to make and PRESERVE Ensilage.

You hear a lot about permanency. But wouldn't you rather have perfect Ensilage for twenty-five years than to have ruined Ensilage for eternity.

THEN BUILD WOOD SILOS Government reports show there are in Kansas four wood Silos to one of all other types.

WHY IS THIS? Why, in Kansas, where wood is high and stone, cement and tile is very cheap, do most farmers choose wood?

Because they know it's a perfect container for Ensilage, and with any other type there is great danger of SPOILED FEED.

Who said wood shrinks and falls down?

WHO SAID THEY BLOW DOWN?

The farmers of Kansas, where high winds and dry seasons prevail, answer with four to one in favor of wood. The perfect wood Silo is the Simplex, and

IT'S GUARANTEED

Simplex Silos are built of Oregon pine. All other wood stave Silos have staves that are spliced for the taller sizes.

Simplex Silos are built of one piece staves, even in 40-foot heights—there are no end joints. That makes the Simplex air-tight, water-tight and rigid.

Simplex Silos have a patented top-tying device that makes it impossible for them to get out of true.

And the interlocking anchoring system is absolutely positive.

END LONG CHASE IN MAN'S ARREST FRAUD IS CHARGE

W. M. Collins, Recent Purchaser of $25,000 Residence Here, Taken By U. S. Officials As One Of Crook Gang

After a transcontinental chase, William M. Collins was arrested on First street Friday afternoon, by United States Deputy Marshal Fred Wingo and Postoffice Inspector Dutton, charged with fraud by use of the mails.

Land Deal Is Related Collins is definitely charged with having gone to a city in Missouri, the name of which as well as the people concerned, the government is withholding, where he presented himself to the cashier of the leading bank. He is said to have introduced himself as the representative of C. H. K. Pierson, whom he said was president and general manager of the American Smeling and Refining company of Durango, Colo. He also is alleged to have said that Pierson owned several hundred acres of land in southeastern Missouri that Pierson was willing to sell for $5 an acre. But Collins is alleged to have explained, Pierson did not know that the land had advanced in value; that it was then worth $27 an acre; and that the cashier could get it at a bargain. He is said to have induced the cashier to go with him to Indianapolis, taking with him $10,000 in traveler's checks.

At Indianapolis, the story goes, the cashier attempted to borrow money at an Indiana bank, but that the bank warned him against the transaction. The cashier is then said to have sent a friend of his to St. Louis, where $5,000 was secured and brought back to Indianapolis.

Staged Fake Fight A "fake" fight is said to have been staged for the benefit of Pierson and the cashier, at which the cashier was induced to wager $5,000 on Pierson's valet, one of the boxers. The first $5,000, it is said, was slipped back to the cashier by Collins, alleged stakeholder, and Collins is stated to have whispered to the cashier that he would arrange to get enough of Pierson's money to enable the cashier to buy the land without putting up a nickel of his own.

It is believed that Collins has been in Phoenix about two weeks and that he has just purchased a Phoenix residence and paid $25,000 for it. Other information of a sensational character is being withheld by the government officials. It is believed that will see several more chapters to the deals in which Collins and his confederates are thought to be implicated. Among them is a feinting game in which the Collins gang is said to have placed $19,000 in currency in a box and left it all night in the possession of their supposed victim as an evidence of their good faith and intentions.

Tigers Play Chandler The Phoenix Tigers will play a Chandler baseball aggregation in Chandler this afternoon. The line-up of the local team will be as follows: Monchie, c; Morales or Pelex, p; Diegado, 1b; Jim, 2b; Chino, 3b; Roosa, ss; Elias, lf; Joe, cf; Puma, rf; Singer and Moses, substitutes.

Hub Perdue, one of the greatest pitchers in the National League ten years, is against spring exhibition games. In fact that is a part of his contract with the New Orleans team—he pitches no exhibition games. Hub was a member of the Louisville team three springs ago. The Cleveland Indians came through. Hub was in good condition and wanted to show the Indians out. He accomplished his aim but in so doing sprained his back and soon after was released. Now when Hub signs up with the Pelicans he puts in a clause that he is to do no pitching in exhibition games.

COAST LEAGUE OPEN WITH ENTHUSIASM

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 26.—The large crowds attending the games of the Pacific Coast league to date indicate to officials of the organization that the public welcomes the return of play after a heavy falling off in patronage during the war. Reports from the cities where the opening games were held show that new attendance records were made at every point. In proportion to its population the city of Sacramento, Cal., showed the largest outpouring of enthusiasts. The league's officials are jubilant at the showing being made and are predicting one of the best seasons, from all points of view, that baseball has experienced on the coast.

Coast baseball closed last year during July owing to lack of interest and consequent lack of patronage. Many followers of the game are questioning whether or not the public is given too much baseball in normal seasons. Some are inclined to believe that a shortening of the season would serve to whet the appetite and give an increased attendance for a briefer period of play.

While the brand of game served to the public thus far has been far from being perfect, it has been of the variety appealing to the crowds. There has been plenty of hitting and many runs made which has furnished a maximum of action.

The two new acquisitions of the league, Portland and Seattle, made the poorest showing during the first week of play but the consensus of opinion seems to be that both clubs have the makings of a good team and that they will be battling for honors with the leaders before long. Seattle was particularly unfortunate in the matter of pitchers, practically its entire staff being out of condition. Some of the critics have classed the Portlanders as a first division team and look for a rapid recovery of its prestige.

The return to the double umpiring system has given general satisfaction and it is hoped these officials will be able to have the games played faster as the contestants get settled down to their work.
