

HARDING WOULD KILL PARTISAN POLITICS

Better Understanding Between North and South Exists Since Civil War Nominee Tells "South"

Anti-League Campaign Is Carried to Citizens Of "Solid South" By Leader Of Republican Party

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 13.—To the voters the Democratic south Senator Harding tonight addressed an appeal for earnest consideration of Republican principles and gave a promise that Republican success in the southern states would mean the policy of helpful protection to all American production, north or south.

In a speech at the Auditorium here he suggested "diversified politics" as the thing required to abolish the last trace of sectional misunderstanding and said that his party had no policy for one section and that it did not preach for all sections alike.

The Democratic party attacked for its conduct of affairs both at home and abroad. President Wilson, he said, repeatedly had dictated to congress even at the expense of violating the pledges of his own party platform, and finally had attempted to force acceptance of the league of nations covenant by depriving the senate of its constitutional powers.

"All that north and south ever needed was understanding with one another. We have that understanding now. We are not wholly of one mind in our party devotion, but it will be a grand day for America when our partisan differences are buried in the concord of new understanding. If Republican policies are good for the north, they are good for the south."

"Highways of steel, improved roads and avenues of exchanging commerce have intersected the old Mason and Dixon line and the north and south. It reaches the same policy of finance north and south. It preaches the same policy of a helpful protection to all American production, north and south."
