

SWINE ARISTOCRATS IN BIG NUMBERS ARE AT THE STATE FAIR

Judging of the swine exhibits at the Arizona State Fair began yesterday morning with the herd of purebred registered Berkshire swine entered by the Italian Vineyard company of Guasti, Calif. The entry of this company, the only exhibitor from without the state, consists of a carload of swine. There are no other entries of Berkshires and the judging of this class was confined to the herd of the California company.

No other breeds of swine were judged yesterday. The judging of the other entries will begin this morning at 8 o'clock with the Poland China entries. This class has the most entries of any breed of swine at the fair this year and the competition will be keen. The swine will be judged by E. R. Stanley, head of the animal husbandry department of the University of Arizona.

The herd of Berkshires of the Italian Vineyard company headed by Model Leader Third, weighing 735 pounds, declared yesterday by the judges to be grand champion boar of the fair, made an apposing array. This company obtained 10 first premiums on Berkshires, eight seconds and four thirds. The same company also showed Real Type Lucindy Fifth which has been exhibited at five California fairs this season. She possesses wonderful length which makes the good juicy pork chops. In the sow class under the six months, Burton Oregon Lady Second won her way to first place with plenty of competition. The California people are to be highly complimented for their interest in the Arizona State Fair and the Arizona exhibitors have expressed favorable comment on the manner in which their show animals were handled in the ring and the excellent work of their head feeder.

Among the entries in the Poland China swine which will be judged today is the herd of the University of Arizona, headed by Brookwater Principal Second, grand son of Brookwater Principal of Michigan. Another fine entry of Poland Chinas is the herd of L. F. Collier of Tempe, headed by Collier's Big Buster, son of Grand Buster, grand champion of Indiana. Mr. Collier is also showing his grand champion sow of the 1919 fair, Lady Giantess weighing 900 pounds.

The herd of Poland Chinas entered by Omer McCullough of Mesa, headed by Arizona Buster, grand son of Grand Buster of Indiana, was one of the winning herds of last year and should show well this year. Jeffers and Fulton of Phoenix are also competitors in the Poland China entry and have a fine herd entered.

Five high school boys, each with a purebred Poland China gilt that has been fed according to the instruction of their agricultural teacher, S. J. Hollinger, will compete. These boys were each given a pig from the same litter and have kept records on their feeding and care of the animal. The boys are Cecil Cook, Henry Foreman, Fred Wilson, Francis Wilson and Herbert Mills.

The Duroc Jersey swine entries are the strongest at the state fair this year. The Southwest Cotton company of Goodyear have the largest entry of this breed and should carry away some of the prizes. Other entries in the Duroc Jersey exhibit are H. N. Zenor with several fine entries. The University of California, the Tempe Normal school and several boys and girls. In the exhibit of Duroc Jersey swine of the Tempe Normal school is a sow with four small pigs. Elmer Hunts of Rillito, Arizona, has a very fine exhibit of Duroc Jersey swine.

Henry McCleave of Chandler has perhaps the strangest exhibit at the fair. His exhibit consists of several mule-foot hogs. This swine does not have the cloven hoof common to the breed but has a foot shaped like a mule's hoof. Among the entries in the Chester White swine is the exhibit of R. O. Ham of Chandler.

DISCUSS PROBLEMS IN HOME ECONOMICS

Discussions of the problems coming before teachers of home economics in Arizona and the solutions possible to them made up the bulk of the business transacted yesterday morning in the second session of the third annual vocational home economics conference at the school administration building. Miss Vera Holloway presided over the meeting. The following subjects were discussed: "Teacher Training Education in California," Miss Maude I. Murchie, state supervisor of home economics in California; "Arizona's Plan for the Home Project," Miss Coon, Arizona state supervisor of home economics.

After an informal luncheon at the Ranch house, Miss Louise Lacey, home economics department of the University of Arizona, took up the direction of the afternoon's meeting. Miss Murchie spoke again at the opening of the session, her subject being "The Importance of the Survey in Vocational Home Making Education." Other topics discussed were as follows: "Standards and Practices in the Home as Determining a Course of Study in Household Management," Miss Carpenter of Hayden; "The Equipment and Course of a Study in Laundering," Mrs. R. V. Young of Ajo; "What are the Food standards and Practices in My Community Which Would Influence a Court in the Study of Foods?" Miss E. Elizabeth Sheldon of Mesa; "What Do I Need to Know About the Clothing in the Families of My Community in Order to Organize Successfully a Course in Clothing?" Mrs. Pauline Claffoy of Winslow.

"FOLLIES OF 1920" IS BIG GIRL SHOW BRIM FULL OF FUN

For the third time this season the Ed Redmond Stock company delighted Phoenix theatergoers when they presented, at the Elks theater last night, "The Follies of 1920." The offering is mostly pretty girls and clever songs and costumes, with enough plot sprinkled through it to make it doubly interesting.

Miss Ida Mae Golze played the lead in the "Follies," and the interpretation of the young wife who grows to doubt the truthfulness of her husband was unusually well played by the young problems of the program an invitation was extended to those present to join the State Home Economics Association. The delegates then adjourned to the fair grounds, where they attended a barbecue given jointly by the home economics and extension workers of the state.

Phoenix girl, who already has become a favorite with the Phoenix play-going public.

Bobby Dean, who has appeared with the Redmond Stock company in Phoenix for several seasons previous to this, handled the lead in a way that brought a riot of laughter from the audience at her every appearance on the stage. Miss Dean is very versatile and plays her every part with a skill and cleverness that has made her a real favorite. As Rosie from Sioux City she scored a decided hit in "The Follies."

Ed Redmond, as a detective, added the spice of mystery that every well-conducted show should have. And with the other members of the cast taking the various parts, the entire performance was one that proved to be one of the most popular of the season.

A special feature of the production is the splendid singing by Eddie Young, who presents popular songs in a way that thoroughly pleases the audience.

The "Follies of 1920" will be presented tonight, Friday and Saturday nights, with matinees today and Saturday.
