The highway commission yesterday made public the following letter of resignation:

Maricopa County Highway Commission, Phoenix, Arizona, Gentlemen:

It has just been brought to our attention that Messrs. Gust and Smith, with whom our late firm of Kibbey, Bennett and Jencks has been consulting, have been for a long time attorneys for some concerns whose interests may not in the future coincide with the interests of the Maricopa County Highway Commission. While up to the present time nothing has developed which would render the connection of the new firm with these concerns incompatible with the firm continuing to act as attorneys for the highway commission, we feel that such incompatibility might possibly be developed in the future.

We therefore request that you relieve us from further responsibility as the legal counsel of your commission from this date forward. We sincerely regret necessity for this action, as our relation with your commission has been uniformly pleasant, but we feel that it is better to discontinue this relation and thus avoid all possible contingencies that might involve us or your commission to criticism.

Yours truly,

RESIGNING AS HIGHWAY COUNSEL

It became known a day or two ago that the firm of Kibbey and Bennett had resigned its office as counsel for the county highway commission, which had been the organizing committee of the commission two years ago. This step had been expected since the resignation of Attorney John T. Gust and Judge Frank O. Smith with the law firm, as Mr. Gust had for some years been counsel for Warren Bros.

The highway commission yesterday made public the following letter of resignation:

Maricopa County Highway Commission, Phoenix, Arizona, Gentlemen:

It has just been brought to our attention that Messrs. Gust and Smith, with whom our late firm of Kibbey, Bennett and Jencks has been consulting, have been for a long time attorneys for some concerns whose interests may not in the future coincide with the interests of the Maricopa County Highway Commission. While up to the present time nothing has developed which would render the connection of the new firm with these concerns incompatible with the firm continuing to act as attorneys for the highway commission, we feel that such incompatibility might possibly be developed in the future.

We therefore request that you relieve us from further responsibility as the legal counsel of your commission from this date forward. We sincerely regret necessity for this action, as our relation with your commission has been uniformly pleasant, but we feel that it is better to discontinue this relation and thus avoid all possible contingencies that might involve us or your commission to criticism.

Yours truly,
KIBBEY, BENNETT, GUST AND SMITH
