Hogs Imbibe Booze; Five Die; Owner Now Asks County To Pay

About 40 hogs were guests of honor at a "hootch" party staged early last Wednesday morning on the ranch of B. S. Price near Marinette. During the party more than 60 gallons of very ripe prune juice and apricot mash was served and from all accounts of the affair the aristocrats of swine had a "swill" time. The owner of the hogs claims that five of the animals died as a result of imbibing too freely of the alcoholic drinks served them and is now asking the board of supervisors to pay for the hogs.

According to the story, Deputy Sheriff Al DeWitt and Fred Meeks; Hughes Garr, special representative of the county attorney's office, and Constable Haze Burch made a raid on the Price ranch early Wednesday morning, finding a still and about 100 gallons of prune and apricot mash. After loading the still into their car, they rolled the barrels of mash out of a shed and poured the contents on the ground. According to the officers, who tasted the mash, it was heavily fermented and ready to run in the still.

The hogs at once fell to eating the fruit and drinking the liquid from the mash with the result that they became much under the influence of the alcohol. They staggered about the ranch yard squealing and biting each other. Some of the hogs became so tipsy that they lay down on their backs with their legs waving in the air.

Price presented his case to the board of supervisors yesterday and demanded that the county pay him for the hogs. He said he was in jail at the time and the officers also had arrested his step-son, so that there was no one on the ranch to keep the hogs away from the mash. He told the board that the mash in the barrels was some sopper poison he was mixing but had not added the poison to the contents of the barrels. The board advised Price they would look into the matter and decide what they would do.

DAUGHTER WITNESS AGAINST FATHER ON CHARGE OF ARSON

A. M. McCreary yesterday was held to answer to the superior court by Justice Henry J. Sullivan after a hearing on a charge of arson. McCreary was committed to the county jail under a bond of $5,000. He is charged with setting fire to and burning a garage with living quarters attached at the corner of Orange and McDowell roads on Sunday night, May 29. According to the testimony, he rented the place from Paul Irion.

Irion and Ruby McCreary, the 15-year-old daughter of McCreary, were the principal witnesses. It is the contention of the state that McCreary removed a large number of tools and household articles from the place before the fire. Irion identified several of the tools found after the fire in boxes as tools he had seen in the garage prior to the blaze. Irion said he took out a fire insurance policy on the place for $500 at the instigation of McCreary. Irion said he told the agent he could not pay for the insurance but later, McCreary, he said, told him they would get their insurance just the same if the place burned.

Ruby McCreary said her father told her to take the other children on a picnic on Sunday and not to return before 9 or 10 o'clock. She said her father and brother loaded a tin box containing tools on the auto truck before they left for the picnic. Nearly all of the bedding in the house was placed on the truck, she said, for a bed for her sick sister, even though she remonstrated with her father that there was too much bedding. She said they returned at 5:30 o'clock and her father insisted that she not go into the house, and later sent them out again to stay until 9:30 o'clock. She said her father was packing things a day or two before the fire, and took a photograph out of the house to Phoenix to take with him, although there was nothing wrong with the machine, she said. She identified a number of articles found in a trunk after the fire and told where they were hanging or resting in the house on Sunday morning. She said the kerosene lamps in the place had been filled on Saturday before the fire.

E. H. Reiser, keeper of a store near the garage, told of McCreary buying

FEDERAL JURYMEN FINANCIAL LOSERS ON SESSION HERE

Federal grandjurymen, summoned to Phoenix yesterday for a one day session, then themselves do not provide for anything more than 19 cents the mile one way or 5 cents the mile both ways," was the reply.

"The federal statutes do not provide for anything more than 19 cents the mile one way or 5 cents the mile both ways," was the reply. Thereupon Mr. Youkum figured up his receipts and disbursements. The result was that he was minus about $5 on the day, to say nothing of his time.

He left Yuma Friday evening, taking a sleeper to Phoenix. The railroad fare one way was $10.43. Added to that was the cost of a berth, $3.52. Youkum, being human, found that it was necessary to partake of food-stuffs during his Phoenix stay.

"Gues I'll have to walk back to Yuma to get even on the trip," he remarked.

Others who suffered a similar fate as a result of their trips to Phoenix were G. W. Ware of Casa Grande and C. G. Davis of Ray. Ware got $8.60 for serving, $3 for salary and $5.60 for mileage. His round trip ticket cost him $5.84, to say nothing of his meals. Davis got $11.86, $3 of which was for salary. His round trip ticket cost him $19.32.
