She corroborated the testimony of Zey Provost that Mrs. Delmont had knocked and kicked at the room of Room 1219 and asked to let her in. Miss Blake, however, said she did not see the first entrance made into that room, testifying that after an interval, while she was in Room 1221, she walked into Room 1219 and found Miss Rappe lying on a bed unclipped.

Although Mrs. Provost was unable to recollect a remark which Assistant District Attorney Milton O'Brien said Mrs. Delmont made to Arbutle about the tea, Miss Blake said she remembered Mrs. Delmont had said something about Arbutle always taking everything as a joke.

Miss Blake hesitated to describe Arbutle's acts in regard to ice and sugar, but she could whisper it to the shorthand reporter.

Miss Provost said the only times she saw any ice was when she observed it in a bowl in Room 1220, when Arbutle brought in a piece to administer to Miss Rappe, and when someone put a bag of it at the back of Miss Rappe's neck.

She testified that she saw Miss Rappe take only one drink, but that when Miss Rappe entered the room into which Arbutle followed her, she "sort of skipped along." Miss Provost described Mrs. Delmont's condition at the party as "drunk."

you?" She didn't drink. I then said, "Maybe she has got gas on her stomach." Then she started to pull her clothes off.

Q—How was she dressed? A—She had on a little—she was all dressed. All her clothes were on her. Her hair was all hanging down. I said, "My God, what is the matter with her?"

Q—What did Arbutle say to her? A—Oh, he said, "Get her out of here. She is making too much noise," or something, and she started to pull the clothes off and scream and holler, and when she was pulling her clothes off I said, "Stop that." Then Arbutle came over and started to pull the clothes off of her. I shoved his hands away. I said, "Don't do that. Stop." I said, "Right, right," he said. Oh, she is putting on.

Q—Before you started to kick on the door did you hear her scream? A—No, there were two doors. You couldn't hear anything. There was one door leading into the sitting room and one into the bedroom. There is two doors right together.

Q—How did you happen to kick on the door? A—She was in there such a long time.

Q—How long? A—Over—it seemed to me like an hour.

Aided Rappe Girl

Q—When you went in she was lying on one of the beds. Where was Arbutle? A—He opened the door.

Q—Did he follow back with you? A—He went in. He took off his bathrobe. I said to Alice, "Let's get her over to the other bed." We lifted her over to the other bed, and gave her some bicarbonate of soda and hot water. Her eyes started to roll in her head. I said, "You had better call a doctor." Then Mrs. Delmont was in the room, and they put her in a cold bath then, I said then, "You had better take her out. She is in there entirely too long." I went to the phone to call a doctor and somebody grabbed the phone out of my hand. They couldn't afford the notary. I said, "Get Mr. Boyle, or somebody."

Q—What happened then? A—Some girl came in and her name was Mae. I don't remember her last name. She said to Roncoe, "You had better get your robe on." She said to Arbutle, "Can I speak to you a minute?" and he said, "Yes." They went into the other room. She left right after that. In the meantime they were getting another room for this girl.

Q—You saw Miss Rappe if you could do anything for her? A—Yes, sir.

Q—She was then conscious? A—Yes, sir, in the other room she was conscious. Mrs. Delmont was lying on the bed. She was sleeping. I guess she was exhausted.

Had Bathrobe On

Q—Did Arbutle have pajamas or a bathrobe on when you first went into room 1219—after he kicked the door and he opened the door? A—He had his bathrobe on. He was fixing it.

Q—Did he talk a good deal? A—Yes, he did talk a good deal.

Q—And that is all you can remember that he said? A—Oh, he stood there and stared—he was very sore, and I said, "What are you sore for?" He said, "Oh, if she makes one more yell I will take her and throw her out of the window."

Q—What was his condition as to being intoxicated or sober? A—He was intoxicated. He had been drinking.

Q—Did you see him drinking that afternoon? A—Yes, sir.

Q—How much? A—I don't know.

Q—Approximately how many drinks he took? A—There was plenty of liquor there.

Q—How much liquor? A—Enough to make him stowed.

Q—What did you see him drink? A—He was drinking whiskey and White Rock.

Q—How was his speech—coherent or not? A—The party was perfectly nice. They never used any vulgar language in the party.

Q—I mean was his speech coherent? A—He was talking about jumping out of twelve-story windows. He said, "Oh, what is life after all?" Really, it did sound funny. We were all sitting by the window. He said, "I would jump out of the window with anybody who wants to jump out."

Talks of "Lifts"

Q—Did anybody volunteer to go with him? A—No, nobody. We all looked at him. He said, "If I would jump out of this twelve-story window they would talk about me today; and tomorrow they would go to see the ball game instead. So what is life after all?"

Q—Did you see Miss Rappe after she was nude? A—Yes, sir.

Q—Did you notice her body as to being bruised? A—She had a bruise on her leg and arm. I said, "What is all those black and blue spots?"

Q—What was said? A—There was nothing at all said. There was so much excitement about it—trying to get her to come to.

Q—When you went into the room did you hear any conversation between Miss Rappe and Arbutle? A—No, no conversation.

Q—Did she accuse him of anything? A—You mean after we got into room 1219?

Q—In Arbutle's presence in the room? A—She was just yelling, "I am dying; I am dying. You hurt me."

Heard Screams

Q—Did she say, "You hurt me?" A—Yes, sir. She hurt me, I am dying. I am dying. I am dying.

Q—Was he present when she said that? A—They were all present, I think.

Q—You are sure about that? A—Surely.

Q—Absolutely that conversation was loud enough for him to hear it? A—Sure. Alice was right there with me.

Q—You heard it—she screamed this, did she? A—She screamed it. Absolutely screamed it. That is why he got so sore, because she was yelling like that.

Q—How can we find you? A—I will not give my mother's number. Please don't ask me that.

Q—Captain Matheson? There will be people come to you and tell you to keep your mouth shut. A—They have already. (Laughs.)

Q—Who spoke to you already about it? A—I don't know.

Q—Well, somebody did, didn't they? A—No. (Laughs.)

Q—Captain Matheson? Let's set ourselves right on this matter so we will know exactly where we are. This young lady is going to be a witness. A—I don't want my mother implicated in it.

Q—We don't want my mother running to you, and all that kind of thing to have you change your story. They will. Well, I won't.

Confesses Murder Of Wealthy Widow; Says Minister Hired Him

(Republican A. P. Leased Wire)

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Sept. 27.—Raymond Cole, recently arrested in Kansas in connection with the murder of Mrs. Anna McKennon, wealthy widow, last May, has confessed, according to the police, that he was hired to shoot the woman by the Rev. Harding Hughes, superannuated minister.

The Rev. Hughes was arrested soon after the crime and he is said to have implicated Cole. Both men were indicted for murder. Hughes denied he hired Cole to commit the crime.

Valuable mineral land, owned by Mrs. McKennon, is alleged to have been involved in the motive for the murder.

Roll Stockings And Bobbed Hair Gaining In Favor

(Republican A. P. Leased Wire)

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Evidence that bobbed hair and rolled down stockings were reaching the epidemic stage was seen today with the opening of the fall fashion show at New York schools for girls. Statisticians estimate that in one fashionable Brooklyn school the long legs were tied with the shorts and the rolled downs with the rolled ups.

While not daring actually to dock their locks, a la Greenwich village, several young teachers were found simulating the fashion of New York's Latin quarter by puffing the hair over the ears and rolling it under all around the head.

Roy Gardner Asks Chance To Reform If Given Pardon

(Republican A. P. Leased Wire)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 27.—Roy Gardner, the California mail car bandit, who escaped from the McNeil Island, Washington, federal prison, on Sept. 5, has written an account of his escape to George L. North, assistant warden of the San Francisco County Jail, in which he admits having been shot twice by the prison guards. The wounds, he said, are in the fleshy part of his right leg, four inches below the hip and in the left leg below the knee.

Released in his communication to Mr. North was a letter addressed to President Harding, which appealed for a pardon and an opportunity "to prove to the world that a criminal can reform, and be an asset to society and a good husband and father." For two days, Gardner said, he hid in the loft of the prison barn and nursed his wounds. He said he crept back to the barn about midnight on the day of his break from prison.

Gardner wrote he had escaped to the main land and since has been in bed recovering from his wounds.

G.A.R. Commander Asks Comrades To Resist Mob Rule

(Republican A. P. Leased Wire)

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 27.—Every invidious attack against the principles of free government must be fought off. Commander in Chief W. A. Ketchum of the Grand Army of the Republic, declared today in an address at the formal opening of the fifty-fifth annual encampment. He told his comrades they should "set their faces like flint against all the evils that are threatening—Boishevism, I. W. W., anarchism, Ku Klux Klans—whatever their name may be—that tend to throw a blight on the fair name of the land that we saved and still love."

Commander Ketchum's address marked the opening of the business session. While the veterans were meeting allied organizations also began formal gatherings. The Sons of Veterans began their convention this afternoon. The auxiliary of the organization also opened its meeting.

Mrs. Inez Jamison Bender, president of the Woman's Relief Corps, in opening the session of that body suggested unification of the Women's organizations affiliated with G. A. R. While the various organizations were meeting, the veterans also found time to attend brigade and regimental sessions.

As on previous days the veterans apparently found more pleasure in the informal reunions with their war-time comrades than in the formal sessions.

Government Bond Sales Reach New Record For Year

(Republican A. P. Leased Wire)

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Trading in Liberty bonds and Victory notes on the stock exchange today again attained large proportions and created several new high records for the year, the chief feature being Victory 4 1/2's. These rose to 99 1/2 and reacted with most other issues later, when realizing sales caused moderate recessions.

Out of total bond sales, roughly estimated at $19,000,000, the Liberty and Victory issues contributed 75 per cent. Unusual activity was shown by several Liberty 4 1/2's, but the Victory 4 1/2's alone made up about 30 per cent of the whole.

Demand for these securities again proceeded according to reports from important financial institutions. Insurance companies and other large corporations, as well as estates and rich individuals in search of acceptable investments.

From all accounts, the liquidation of these bonds by small investors has ceased.

An important element in the inquiry for these prime securities is the relaxation of money rates. This has released large amounts of idle capital.

Records for the various issues were established early this year. The recovery to the highest levels of this year's rates from about $2.75 to $3.15 per $100 bonds.

Pioneer In Grape Growing In Valley TELLS OF SUCCESS

One of the pioneers in grape growing in the Salt River valley is J. M. Schuele of Chandler, although his experience in grape growing was gained at Mesa.

Mr. Schuele told a representative of the chamber of commerce yesterday, that the cost of putting out an acre of grapes, except for the cost of the vine grafts and more than the cost of planting an acre of cotton.

He has had good success in putting out both rooted plants and cuttings, and prefers the furrow method of setting. If set in wet earth and followed shortly with another irrigation, few plants or cuttings are lost.

His method for raising the cost of cultivating a vineyard he said, "I cultivated an 80-acre vineyard alone, using one team of horses. It is easier to cultivate 40 acres of grapes than 20 acres of cotton."

As throwing some light on the question of the practicability of drying grapes for raisins, Mr. Schuele said that he had dried them by the carload. These were shipped to Eastern markets.

The lowest price obtained for these raisins in a 15 year period was one and one-half cents a pound and the highest five cents for Muscats and six cents for Thompson Seedless. The average being three cents. In good years it netted far returns on the investment, and for the whole 15 years it averaged a decent raise, besides furnishing the means to buy needed machinery and other necessary equipment for the vineyard.

His heaviest yield was from Thompson Seedless, and was seven tons an acre.

Almost all varieties of grapes may be grown here, with a very few exceptions. Thompson Seedless lead as a commercial crop, due to heavier yield, earliness of ripening, and popularity as a market grape. Late grapes sometimes do not set as heavy and for drying are not quite as desirable on an account of summer rains.

"Irrigation," said Mr. Schuele, "is the keynote to successful grape culture." In the early spring when buds are likely to be killed by frost, he has found that plowing the land away from the vines and running water quickly in furrows close to the plants and at intervals of about eight days, had a tendency to prevent frost damage. Water then should be withheld until the plants are in full blossom, and at intervals of about eight days, the fruit has begun to ripen is a matter that can be determined only by experience.

Mr. Schuele emphasized the point that soil characteristics are an important consideration and that by judicious pruning and careful irrigation a crop of grapes may be depended upon.

He does not advise winter cultivation believing that it stimulates the soil too much, causing the vines to sprout too early and inducing a rank growth of vines that is not conducive to the proper setting of fruit.

Ram Drug Shops Are Ruining Legitimate Apothecary Stores

(Republican A. P. Leased Wire)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 27.—The wholesale and retail drug business is being demoralized by an invasion of individuals who are establishing drug shops to engage in the sale of intoxicating liquors. L. D. Sales said today at the convention of the National Wholesale Druggists' association of which he is president.

"We have noticed," he said, "the entrance into the drug business of many individuals having no knowledge of the drug trade, the effect of which has been demoralizing on druggists. Many of these houses are offering drug merchandise at little or no profit."

Says Eugenic Law To Prevent Marriage Of Unfit Is Revolutionary

(Republican A. P. Leased Wire)

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—A eugenic law forbidding the unfit to marry would breed revolution, Prof. R. M. Bingham of New York university told the Second International Congress of Eugenics today. A better course to pursue, he said, would be to make the unfit fit. He also disputed the assertion that men of genius usually are weaklings.

"The Eugenicist cannot seriously propose that only the fittest shall marry," he said, "and that these are the charge of utopianism," he said, "or, if he insists, in producing a revolution."

Coast Lawyers To Take Depositions In Hightower Case

(Republican A. P. Leased Wire)

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 27.—Floyd E. Olson, Hennepin county attorney, was notified today that a commission of lawyers was coming to Minneapolis from California to take depositions for use in the forthcoming trial of William A. Hightower, accused of the murder of Rev. Patrick Healin, a Catholic priest at Colma, Calif.

The commission, appointed by the court that will try the case, will take depositions as to the character and veracity of Edna (Mickey) Putnam, known here as Mrs. Earl Cavanaugh. It is declared Hightower's defense depends largely on his alleged association with Mrs. Putnam. The woman, it is declared, denies this association.

Highway Officials Will Urge Passage Of Phipps Measure

The executive committee of the National Association of State Highway Officials, representing all the states, is to meet in Washington, D. C., on September 29. It is understood that road building officials among the state highway departments all over the country intend to appeal to members of the senate and house to pass the bill introduced by Senator Phipps of Colorado which would turn over to the states a quantity of road building equipment in the possession of the war department.

The road-building equipment ordered to be turned over to the states by the war department, under the Phipps bill, consists of 1,500 five-ton caterpillar tractors and 200 mobile machine shop units, for repairing and rebuilding tractors, trucks, etc., used in road building. The war department has on hand, left over from the war, 4,000 such tractors, alone in addition to many of the machine shop units, it is stated. The tractors are valued at between $4,500 and $5,000 each, a total of about $5,000,000, and it is said the expected value of the amount of money or a large part of it in state taxes for road-building machinery could be saved to the states. Almost all of the states have road-building programs. In only a few of them it is impossible to work on the roads in the winter. Many of the states are now gradually putting men to work. North Carolina has recently approved a bond issue of $50,000,000, for that purpose, and West Virginia and other states are following a similar policy, it is reported. This does not take into account road building by counties, of which there are about 2,000 in the United States, and does not embrace the so-called "federal-aid" roads, which may be built partly with federal and partly with state and county money.

The 4,000 war department tractors, of which the states want 1,500, are admitted by many army officers to be on the road to obsolescence, and if another war were to occur now it is said that many of these tractors on hand would be used, in view of the economies that would be had by using the latest type tractor for purely military purposes. The tractors and machine shop units are stored at Camp Holabird, Md., outside of Baltimore; at the Erie Proving Ground, at Fort Clinton, Ohio; at the Rock Island arsenal; at the Savannah Proving Ground; at Camp Pike, Ark.; at Fort Sill, Okla.; at Camp Jessup, Ga., and at Camp Normandy, Texas.

State highway officials, governors of states, and others, hope to interest General Dawes, the director general
