

SPORTING... BREVITIES

An offer of $250,000 for the Boston Nationals was turned down, as the price is fixed at $275,000.

Jockey McBride, one of the well known riders on the western coast, has been ruled off for a weird ride on Romaine at Oakland.

"Big Bill" Everett, the former National League player, is at Los Angeles for his health. He expects to manage Denver, in the Western League, this season.

The attempt to close Ascot Park, Los Angeles, by prohibiting bookmaking, failed, the county supervisors voting 3 to 2 in favor of permitting the bookmakers to continue in business.

Mrs. James J. Jeffries has written a letter to an eastern friend in which she says her husband has retired from the ring for good. When a woman says a thing it's so, why—well you know the answer.

James McAleer, manager of the St. Louis Browns, is convalescing in a hospital at Youngstown, O., from a surgical operation that was found necessary by an injury received on the diamond several years ago.

Three tracks are out of the grand circuit this year. Memphis, Cleveland and Empire City failed to apply for dates at the meeting in New York. The season will open at Detroit for a two-week meeting, on July 23rd.

Danny Maher, the jockey, has leased the Rossmore Hotel, New York, and will blossom out as a full fledged boniface. Maher has made a lot of money on the turf and is anxious to get away from his reputation as a jockey; he wants to become a business man.

H. P. Whitney's colt Burgomaster, is regarded in the east as the coming 3-year-old. He looks bigger and better than any 3-year-old in the country. It is said that if Mohawk II stands training he will be the only 3-year-old that will have a chance of taking Burgomaster's measure.

Marvin Hart is talking. He says he will post a forfeit of $2,500 to meet O'Brien, the latter is at all anxious to fight. Well, the best evidence of Hart's good faith is to post the money and let it do the talking. The good old maxim is the most eloquent spellbinder of them all. Hart has lost less and got more advertising for it than any pugilist now before the public.

New York fight fans are protesting against the signing of Jack Johnson, the negro heavyweight champion, for a limited round contest at one of the clubs there. The colored brother never was very popular in the ring and he is less so now than ever before. Aside from racial prejudices, the fact that colored men are under suspicion of being too prone to frame up their foes has added to the intensity of the dislike to see them in the ring.

ISLETA INDIANS DO NOT BELIEVE IN GROUND HOG

The Indians of the Isleta pueblo are evidently unbelievers in the "ground hog" superstition, as they are making arrangements for what they say will be one of the most successful farming seasons they have experienced in some time, last season's success notwithstanding.

The Isleta irrigation ditch, which feeds the waters of the Rio Grande, a few miles south of Albuquerque, is being widened by at least four feet, and they are deepening it so that the ditch will carry about twice the volume of water as heretofore. Water

POLICE COURT

Ernest Harris and Pearl Patterson, colored, pleaded guilty to the vagrancy charge in police court this morning, and were sentenced to five days each on the streets. This was the only police business that received the attention of Judge Crawford this morning.

Some More or Less Plain Talk.

Hyden with a banking institution, nine stores, a nice iron spanion bridge across Rockhouse, with hardly any side walks to be found is quite a inducement to prosperity and future happiness. The mud on the streets of Hyden is from six to ten inches deep, with little done to get out of this stage of being. There are enough rubbers, and extra wear on shoes in one year to pay to have nearly every street constructed with a nice side walk, and the side walks would be enjoyed much more than wading the mud.

Now does prosperous men and prosperous towns linger in this stage of being? Does enterprising citizens and towns allow such depressed conditions over take them. What kind of advertising could a visitor give this town? He might have advertised us as a town of decay and destruction, causing many opportunities to miss us, which would have come here.

Is it an advertisement for a town to have nice clean side walks, and such a little thing as this is noticed by capitalist and investors who pass thru our country, with an idea of investing their money, and might cause us to loose enterprise which we might have gained.—Hyden (Ky.) The Standardist.
