Citizenship

The Citizen from time to time has quoted from the speeches of President Roosevelt. Generally when the president speaks, he has so much to say that it is impossible for the average paper to publish in full his remarks. But here and there, throughout every speech, are little sentences that are gems in their line and they stand out prominently just as the president's speeches stand out in comparison to the remarks of the average speakers. The following remarks are from a recent speech by the president and while The Citizen has published similar remarks by the same versatile man, still the following on "Citizenship" are well worth the reading:

"I have spoken of but one or two laws which in my judgment it is advisable to enact as part of the general scheme for making the interference of national government more effective in securing justice and fair dealing as between man and man here in the United States. Let me add, however, that while it is necessary to have legislation when conditions arise where we can only cope with evils through the joint action of all of us, yet that we can never afford to forget that in the last analysis the all-important factor for each of us must be his own individual character.

"It is a necessary thing to have good laws, good institutions; but the most necessary of all things is to have a high quality of individual citizenship.

"This does not mean that we can afford to neglect legislation. It will be highly disastrous if we permit ourselves to be misled by the pleas of those who see in an unrestricted individualism the all-sufficient panacea for socialistic system which would destroy all individualism, which would root out the fiber of our whole citizenship.

"The rich man who with hard arrogance declines to consider the rights and the needs of those who are less well off, and the poor man who excites or indulges in envy and hatred of those who are better off, are alike alien to the spirit of our national life. Each of them should learn to appreciate the baseness and degradation of his point of view, as evil in the one case as in the other.

"There exists no more sordid and unlovely type of social development than a plutocracy, for there is a peculiar unwholesomeness in a social and governmental ideal where wealth by and of itself is held up as the greatest good. The materialism of such a view, whether it finds its expression in the life of a man who accumulates a vast fortune in ways that are repugnant to every instinct of generosity and of fair dealing, or whether it finds its expression in the vainly useless and self-indulgent life of the inheritors of that fortune, is contemptible in the eyes of all men capable of a thrill of lofty feeling."

Where Night is Day

"Going to night college" on the part of New York men and women is one of the latest developments of this nocturnal city, which wants night to be just like day, and, therefore, has its night banks, all night stores and restaurants, all night dentists and barber shops, and practically everything but an all night sleep, says the New York Times.

The night college is called the Washington Square collegiate division of New York University. The majority of the students are school teachers and professional men who desire to complete a college education, but are unable to go by day. School teachers are in the majority in the college, but there are lawyers, and men in many lines of business who, by hard grinding out of hours, wish to get the benefit of a college training.

A large group of the students is composed of well-to-do married women who live in the neighborhood of Washington square, Stuyvesant square or Gramercy park, who come to study in the literature and language courses. There is a small contingent of Japanese in the night college, including a young woman, Miss Nobu Furuta, a graduate of the Normal school at Nagasaki, Japan, who last year took courses in English, philosophy and sociology, and there is a Chinese student who specializes in economics.

$11,000 Per Hour

Does any one in Albuquerque earn $11,000? No nor anywhere else, yet that is the income of the Standard Oil trust, the profits of which concern aggregate nearly $100,000,000,000. These figures are so big that the average American gets brain fog just trying to realize what they mean.

This immense sum is practically the property of fifteen men, chief among whom is our venerable friend with the wig and knee pants, John D. Rockefeller. Now if the Standard Oil company could do this honestly and without tearing the scalp off half the American people, no one would say a word. But did it ever occur to the reader that such an enormous income cannot be the very order of things be produced honestly?

Is it possible for fifteen men, be they the most intelligent, most powerful mentally and physically, to honestly earn $275,000 a day?

The Standard Oil company may be persecuted. There may be some things unjust as the Standard officials say there are, in the recent persecutions of the great combine. But even granting that in some cases the Standard Oil company is persecuted, just take a look at those figures. Figures do not lie. Can you or anybody else honestly earn that money?

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Mr. Roosevelt is said to be eagerly awaiting his release from office, after which he will go to Africa on the hunt of his life. Elias' teeth adorn his belt and bear skins cover his floors. The tawny skins of some of his most finely marked wolves grin at him from window recesses, and deer and buffalo horns, the trophies of his own hands, grace the walls of his dining room. Every beast of the chase to be encountered in the temperate zone had contributed to his collection before he moved into the White House, and since his advent there the hides of men no hunter before him ever dared to meet have been hung on the fence to dry, and now only await stretching and dressing. Still, like the Macedonian, he sighs for new worlds to conquer. While politicians charge him with deep designs upon another term in the presidency, he is counting the days until he can let go with both barrels at the Numidian lion in his native lair, and lie in wait for the Bengal tiger as he goes to drink. The call of the wild is in his ears. He hears the trumpeting of elephants and the howling of wolves. He may even be contemplating the making of a personal experiment to settle the vexed question of whether or not a shark turns upon his back when biting a man in the water. But loud and persistent as it the cry of nature to her son, he will neglect no present opportunity for a shot in Washington, where there is a strict game law, but where big game will be found this winter. The octopus can not hope to escape his aim because of his eager longing for game farther afield. Rather would he say that his very anxiety for a wider range will lead him to overlook no shots while he waits for the near coming of the day of the monkey and the camel, too, the elephant and the kangaroo.

Mining Reporter: The mining industry continues to improve all over the territory but especially in Grant, Lincoln, Socorro and Otero counties where some of the old mines worked with renewed energy under modern ways and appliances and many new ones are making a decided prosperous showing. Lincoln, Rio Arriba, Colfax, Taos, Sierra and Luna counties are also developing new and old properties in a way that will soon put some of them also in the front ranks.

Baldwin, Kansas, is having an awful time. The barbers have formed a combine to charge five cents extra for a neck shave. It would not be so bad but for the fact that there are only three men in Baldwin who don't shave their necks. But the indignant population has taken a decisive stand. Hereafter, flowing manes will be considered good form in Baldwin male social circles as well as among the fair sex.

The Roswell Record says that Chairman A. A. Jones of the democratic central committee is opposed to the assembling of a constitutional convention. Well, what of it?

WHY DID YOU COME WEST?

To rest, recuperate, hunt, fish, breathe fresh pure air, see mountain scenery, get a change, live a new and fascinating life under new conditions and get food that needs no pure food law.

That's why you came west! There is a beautiful little valley that nestles between the highest mountains of the Rockies on the upper Pecos river; ideal altitude, 7,000 feet, and temperature identical with Albuquerque. Its streams swarm with trout and the woods and ranges are filled with game large and small. The ranchers live the life of the west. There are mountain lion, bear, deer and wolves for the hunter. There are saddle ponies to be had for the asking, rooms in big, rambling ranch houses with wide verandas, tent rooms or a cabin if you want it. The days are never dull. You see a great ranch and the genuine western life. Fresh milk, butter and eggs—all you can drink and eat. Sleep in blankets at night—fish in your shirt sleeves during the day. You couldn't spend more than $9 a week if you tried. It's the place you are looking for. Accommodations for both men and women. Inquire this office or address THE VALLEY RANCH, Pecos, N. M.

ABOUT TOWN

Deputy United States Marshal Harry Cooper returned home this morning from a business trip to Silver City.

Early this morning occurred the death of Domesda Castillo, aged 56, at Los Padillas. The funeral will be held today at 5 p. m.

"The Chimes of Normandy" will be the bill at the Casino tonight. The closing bill will be "The Fortune Hunters."

The American Lumber Company band will give its usual Sunday evening concert at Robinson park tomorrow evening.

Born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. White, of 611 South Second street, a girl baby. Mr. White holds a responsible position with the Bank of Commerce.

C. O. Cushman and family, who have been visiting relatives in eastern Kansas to Albuquerque yesterday after an absence of a few weeks.

Ladies belonging to the Lutheran church are requested to meet Sunday afternoon at 2:30 Haseldine avenue for the purpose of organizing an aid society for the church.

A. R. Smith has been appointed to the vacancy in the Albuquerque letter carrier department caused by the promotion of E. G. Conroy to the railway mail service.

Train No. 10 was delayed near San Marcel several hours last night by a burned bridge and did not arrive here until noon. Train No. 2 did the local work between this city and El Paso today. This work is usually done by No. 10.

J. A. Weinmann, of the Golden Rule Dry goods company, received a telegram yesterday announcing the death of his brother, Samuel Weinmann, who passed away very suddenly at Philadelphia. Pneumonia was the cause of his demise.

The old fashioned camp fire given by the Women's Relief Corps last evening at the home of Mrs. A. M. Whitcomb, 308 West Tijeras avenue, was a very enjoyable event. The entertainment consisted of a program of literary and musical numbers and refreshments.

A. W. Souers, manager of the fire fighting show, which will be produced at the fair, left for El Paso last night. He expects to make arrangements for giving his show in El Paso after the territorial fair and at a still later date he will fill a winter engagement in Los Angeles.

Word has been received by friends in this city telling of the death of Carl Zimmerman in Denver last week. Mr. Zimmerman lived in Albuquerque for three years and made a great many friends in this city. He left here three months ago and went to Denver, where he contracted brain fever, which caused his death.

"Baby Angel," a fat colored young man who conducts a bootblack stand in front of the "Lobby" saloon on Fifth street, was arraigned before Police Judge Craig this morning on the charge of being drunk on the streets. With an angelic curving of his cupid lips, Baby plead guilty to the charges and was let off upon his paying a $5 fine.

The officers, members of the executive committee of the territorial fair association met in the fair association office last evening to canvass the situation out of which is to develop the greatest fair of the many great territorial fairs. The attractions have all been secured, a large number of horses are promised and all that is needed to make the fair a success is good weather.

A dispatch from Trinidad says that pickpockets reaped a rich harvest there yesterday during the performance of a circus, according to the large number of complaints lodged at the police station today. Immense crowds attended the show making the work of pickpockets easy. Women seemed to be their particular prey, only two of the 15 complaints being men.

On Thursday of this week the annual harvest dance of the Laguna Pueblo Indians at Laguna was held and a large number of visitors from other Indian pueblos and white settlements attended the ceremonies. H. H. Harris, forest supervisor for the Manzano and Mount Taylor national forest reserves, was one of the visitors from Albuquerque who witnessed the dance. By reason of the good crops this year the Indians make most liberal offerings of their substances and there was a general rejoicing manifested by all the members of the tribe.

CRYSTAL THEATER NOW HAS COMPLETE SHOW

After some little delay the first couple of days the Crystal company got its moving picture machine and stereopticon apparatus in shape and is now giving its complete vaudeville bill, including the beautiful illustrated ballad, "Keep on Singing," and the uproariously funny Edison movie picture "An Awful Skate," and all comers pronounce the show tip top and easily worth the money.

It is encouraging to the management to note how readily the ladies of Albuquerque turn out to the Tuesday and Friday afternoon souvenir matinees.

A fine imitation of the famous Libby pattern cut glass comports were given out last Tuesday and dainty little real China decorated cream pitchers yesterday. For next Tuesday afternoon the article of gift has not been decided upon yet but it will be something worth while as the company has just received a supply of a score of various articles.

With the moving pictures and illustrated songs as are being given tonight at the little playhouse it must be said that Albuquerque can boast of as clean and up-to-date continuous vaudeville show as any town of its size in the country, either east or west. The management desires to impress upon its patrons that an entirely new show from start to finish will open next Monday--new people, new faces, new acts, songs, pictures, everything. Just what these will be we have not yet been advised but it will be a Crystal bill and, therefore, bears the public stamp of approval. For the same bill has had to "make good" in Denver, Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Trinidad immediately before coming here--"nuff sed."
