THE WRIGHT BROTHERS PRESENTED WITH MEDALS

Nation, State And City Paid Tribute Today To Inventors of Aeroplane.

THEY FOUND TIME TO WORK IN SHOP

Celebration Didn't Kepp Inventors From Completing Machine To Be Tested By The Government.

Dayton, Ohio, June 18.—Nation, state and city paid tribute to Wilbur and Orville Wright today when three medals were presented to them. The presentation took place on a platform not far from the little factory where the aeroplane was perfected. Gen. James Allen, chief signal officer of the army, presented the gold medals ordered by Congress, while Gov. Judson Harmon of Ohio presented the state medal and Mayor Burkhardt of Dayton presented the medal from the city.

Although it was a big day of celebration, the Wrights found time to work a short time in the workshop. In presenting the government medals to the Wright brothers here today in recognition of their aerial invention, Gen. James Allen, chief signal officer of the army, representing the secretary of war, gave a history of the relation between the United States government and the Wright brothers in the purchase of an aeroplane.

He said that so far as he knew the contract entered into by the Wright brothers for furnishing the government with a heavier than air flying machine, was the first public contract made by any government for aeronautical appliances. He also spoke of the flights of the Wright brothers both in America and abroad, concluding his remarks along this line by saying that to them is due the great credit of first publicly demonstrating to the world the practicality of dynamic flight.

"The success of the Wright brothers has not been due to chance," said Gen. Allen, "but to their persistence, daring and intelligence in scientifically working out the different parts which go to make up their machine and practically testing the same in flight. Orville and Wilbur Wright have by their genius and perseverance done honor to the United States. The United States in return has signally offered them by a joint resolution of its Congress and the presentation of these medals, designed by the secretary of war, in accordance with that resolution, and with the cooperation of the secretary of the United States in Philadelphia.

Within the past few months Mr. Wilbur Wright has made demonstrations in the presence of the king of England, king of Spain and the king of Italy and the ambassador at Rome, has also flown as a passenger with Mr. Wright. These two distinguished gentlemen have therefore received a most distinguished honor both at home and abroad.

Gen. Allen described the medal during his speech. It bears a facsimile of the great seal of the United States, the date of the joint resolution of Congress providing for the medals and the words of the resolution. "In recognition and appreciation of their ability, courage and success in navigating the air." On the reverse is a cherub bearing the torch of enlightenment flying over the earth and the inscription, "Shall mount up with wings as angels."

THE PROSECUTOR OF CALHOUN

FRANCIS J. HENLEY

San Francisco, June 18.—Francis J. Henley was interrupted three times during the first thirty minutes of his address to the jury in the prosecution of Patrick Calhoun today. Exceptions were taken by attorneys for the defense on the ground of misconduct.

Twenty policemen guarded the entrances to the court room and a squad of secret service agents escorted Henley to the room. Another squad guarded the jury box. Henley plunged directly into his discourse, charging Tires L. Ford with giving Ruff money for the supervisors for a trolley permit. He said that Michael Coffey, a supervisor, was convicted on the same evidence offered here, but he didn't have enough money to obstruct justice.

It is expected that Henley will conclude his argument this afternoon, and if Judge Lawlor elects to read his instructions at a night session, the case may go to the jury this evening. Otherwise it will not be given to the jury until tomorrow morning.

He declared that in wages alone the Canadian paper makers have an advantage of $2 a ton in making paper, besides an advantage of $8 a cord on wood.

He Will Be Subjected To Severe Cross Examination, According To Statement of Mrs. Gould's Lawyer.

New York, June 18.—A procession of servants and employes to the witness stand in the Gould divorce case continued today. Since the third day when she lost control of her feelings and wept, Mrs. Gould has kept herself well in hand. The only sign she made was a shake of the head or a smile of sarcasm.

Attorney Nicoll said he might call Mr. Gould to the stand during the day, and shearn, attorney for Mrs. Gould, promised a severe cross examination if this happened.

Harry J. Veitch, formerly employed as a valet by Mrs. Gould, was called by the defense. During his employment he traveled with Mrs. Gould to the West Indies and Europe, and attended her at the St. Regis hotel and at Castle Gould. He said he once assisted her in preparing her toilet. He said he saw her under the influence of liquor several times and that she drank a great deal of liquor. He described one incident at Castle Gould when she drank very bad, becoming boisterous and threatening to "fire everybody on the place."

"She asked me to tie her slippers," he said, "and when I started to do it, she kicked them off in the air. Later in the evening, though staggering, she ordered two more cocktails."

Veitch told of an incident in the St. Regis when Mrs. Gould ordered him to throw a table laden with dishes into the hall. He said that Mrs. Gould stood at the door of her apartments watching him, and expressed approval when he threw the table into the main corridor. He said it made a great racket. He believed no one saw him do it, and he merely did it because told to, and Mrs. Gould stood by to see that he obeyed orders.

Henry H. Knowles, an insurance agent, said he took dinner with the Goulds at the St. Regis when she became very disagreeable. He said also that Gould left the table on one occasion when his wife was drinking. Knowles referred to an automobile trip from Paris to Nice and said that Mrs. Gould was continually complaining to her husband and using strong language. He said they attended a mask ball in costume.

"What costume did you wear?" "Mine was Tribby and Mrs. Gould appeared as Cupid."
