TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 1.

SOUTHEASTERN New Mexico is in the swim and Roswell is destined to be an important and prosperous city.

The law compelling speedy settlements of accounts of territorial taxes by the collectors of the several counties with the auditor of the territory should be carried out to the very letter.

WITHIN the next 18 months there will be built in eastern New Mexico, in the counties of Union, Guadalupe, Lincoln, Chaves and Eddy, between 500 and 600 miles of railroad. New Mexico to the front.

HALF heartedness wins no political fights, said President McKinley in his speech before the National Manufacturers' association in New York last week. Absolutely correct and a remark that should be heeded by New Mexico Republicans.

THE four by nine statesmen who have been indiscreetly and secretly lighting the confirmations of Judges Mills and McFie have nothing but their labors and evil consciences for their pay, as the New Mexican assured them they would have.

THE indications all point to the fact that during the next few years there will be much railroad building in this territory. It cannot come any too soon. New Mexico has been waiting for this for ten long, weary, dreary years. But there is a good time coming.

THE country may congratulate itself that the differences of opinion between ex-President Cleveland and Senator Morgan need not be arbitrated by a commission. It is a well known fact that any commission Mr. Cleveland has anything to do with is a very costly affair.

If the people of New Mexico will elect a Republican delegate and a Republican legislative assembly at the coming fall elections, the chances for the admission of the territory into the sisterhood of states during the Fifty-sixth congress are bright. If not, adios, statehood for another few years.

WHEN it comes to a question of offering the Republican nomination for candidate to delegate to congress to Mr. A. M. Blackwell, of Las Vegas, or to Captain T. W. Collier, of Raton, the New Mexican is for Captain Collier. Gosh, the Republicans might carry Colfax county, you know in that event.

WHEN you see it in the New Mexican, it is so. The New Mexican said that Messrs. William J. Mills and John R. McFie would be confirmed at the first executive session this week and if the same were held on yesterday the confirmations would then take place, and it so occurred.

WHEAT and silver seem to have parted company for good. Wheat is hovering around at about $1 a bushel and silver is flitting about at less than 60 cents per ounce. But Mr. Bryan and the free silver orators in congress and out of congress and the Democratic-Pop papers all over the country have nothing to say on the matter. It is the best they can do. When you are in a bad serape keep very quiet about it.

THE Denver & Rio Grande railroad from Santa Fe is bound to connect with the railroad system that will be built in eastern New Mexico and will be in operation in that section within the next 24 months. That will place this city on a trunk line and in shorter direct communication with the east. The old capital will come to the front again and this time the town will stay there, if its citizens will wake up and do the right thing.

A Few More Hagermans and Faulkners.

The extension of the Pecos Valley railroad from Roswell, in this territory, to Washburn, Tex., which is now assured, is the result of the untiring efforts of Mr. J. J. Hagerman and Mr. E. O. Faulkner, and is another indication of the earnestness and faithfulness of those two gentlemen in bringing the southeastern part of New Mexico to the position in agricultural, commercial and mining circles, to which its great natural advantages entitle it.

About ten years ago Mr. Hagerman recognized the possibilities of the Pecos valley, and from that time to the present he has never lost an opportunity to aid in its development, and what have been the results? The country has been given communication with the outside world by the building of the Pecos Valley railroad; the best and most extensive irrigation system in the southwest is in successful operation; a beet sugar factory that has been a success from the day it started; the settling of the valley by energetic, thrifty and excellent people; the extension of business in all parts of the Pecos valley in New Mexico—in fact a wilderness has been reclaimed into a productive and important section of the United States. The extension of the Pecos Valley road, to connect with the Santa Fe system at Washburn, thus giving direct eastern connection by a much shorter route than now exists, will result in added activity and development of southeastern New Mexico, and a great augmentation of the population. In this last work, Mr. Hagerman has been ably assisted by Mr. E. O. Faulkner, receiver of the Pecos Valley road, and these gentlemen are certainly entitled to the fullest praise and credit for their efforts in behalf of the Sunshine territory. All New Mexico needs to become the greatest commonwealth west of the Mississippi river is a few more Hagermans and Faulkners.

The Money All Right.

Senator Elkins, of West Virginia, is not particularly in love with Secretary Gage's plan to reform the currency and in an interview recently made some tolerably strong statements concerning the money and financial questions. Here is the way Mr. Elkins looks at Mr. Gage's ideas, as reported by a New York paper:

"Senator Elkins contends that public sentiment is more easily influenced by an increase in trade, better wages and a higher degree of general prosperity than by all the sentimental legislation that can be piled up on the statute books. He states, as a practical business man, who is largely interested in practical business enterprises, that silver and paper are today circulating on a par with gold, notwithstanding silver is worth in the market but 49 cents on the dollar, while treasury notes are simply a promise to pay, without interest. He adds that an individual would consider himself extremely fortunate if he could give his note to his neighbor, in a business transaction, without being obliged to pay 5 or 6 per cent interest, though under the existing conditions our money is all right, and even our silver certificates are receiving dollar for dollar, wherever American trade extends."

As a practical business man Mr. Elkins knows what he is talking about, and therefore hits the nail squarely on the head when he says the country is more interested in higher wages and general prosperity than it is in all the sentimental legislation that can be piled on the statute books. In regard to the treasury notes, Mr. Gage seems to dislike them, but nobody in America or in any foreign country where the United States has any trade, no matter how small, refuses to take them, and the same applies to all other kinds of money bearing Uncle Sam's stamp. The sum and substance of the money question, in so far as applied to our circulating medium, is that ambitious statesmen are trying to make political capital out of it, simply this and nothing more. If in congress, since the sentiment of the majority of the members has been most emphatically expressed, would only drop its monetary nonsense, pass the necessary appropriations bills, and adjourn, the country would try to get along, and in the trying would succeed very successfully. Legislation may be a good thing, but once in a while the people get an overdose of it.

The Choice of the People.

The lower house of congress has passed the bill making Santa Fe the permanent capital of New Mexico. This is a good thing as it will prevent the log rolling at every session of the legislature to try to remove the capital to some other place. Santa Fe is without doubt the choice of nine-tenths of the people of the territory, from its old time historical associations, and if the capital is ever removed it should be done only by a direct vote of the people.—Socorro Chieftain.

Public Sentiment Must Do the Work.

A United States grand jury has been investigating alleged corrupt practices of the Thirty-first and Thirty-second legislative assemblies of New Mexico, and reports that after a searching inquiry it has been unable to find sufficient evidence against any one or more individuals on which to base an indictment. It attributes its failure to the defective memories of the witnesses called before it. The jury asserts, however, that it is entirely satisfied that a large amount of money was corruptly used in and about both of these assemblies, and cites instances where funds were raised to influence legislation. It also recommends that a grand jury be called at the end of each subsequent assemblage, so that its proceedings may be inquired into if corruption be alleged in its proceedings.

If your children are well but not robust, they need Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil. We are constantly in receipt of reports from parents who give their children the emulsion every fall for a month or two. It keeps them well and strong all winter. It prevents their taking cold. Your doctor will confirm this.

The oil combined with the hypophosphites is a splendid food tonic.

NEW MATERIALS.

The Fabrics Most Favored For Fashionable Gowns and Wraps.

There are so many charming novelties in silk and velvet fabrics this season that it is difficult to make a choice among them. Good taste prevails in coloring and designs, so that whatever is selected is reasonably sure to be pleasing and successful when made up into garments.

CLOTH COSTUME.

Ribbed, shaded, striped, speckled, plaid, nirore and shirred velvets are all employed for bodices, skirts, wraps, trimming and millinery. Silks are so rich and varied in design and coloring as to require but little trimming, although much can be used if it is desired. Plaid grosgrain silk combined with shirred velvet is a novel and fashionable union.

Bayadere or horizontal stripes are often seen and are becoming to a slender figure, although they are to be avoided by persons inclined to embonpoint.

Surah, which is always soft and agreeable, is again fashionable as well, not for whole gowns, but for chemisettes, gimpes and separate bodices.

A combination of emerald green velvet and the finest and softest Persian lamb is supremely "chic" and supremely expensive. Capes and even whole costumes are thus composed, but the effect is not particularly striking, and its success is mainly due to the fact that it is costly and therefore not common.

Silk and velvet are the materials par excellence for formal costumes, reception gowns and toilets for wedding guests, but when they cannot be afforded cloth and various pretty woolen fabrics are employed and composed most satisfactory gowns, the trimming of fur, velvet or fine passementerie giving them an effect of elegance.

The picture shows a costume of myrtle green cloth having a new skirt so out of fashion, each plait secured at the top by a long motif of embroidered black velvet. The bodice is trimmed with velvet motifs to match and has revers and valois collar of sable, the plastron being of white satin embroidered with gold. The soft belt is of black velvet, and the wrists of the close sleeves are decorated with velvet motifs.

THE TOILET.

Hints Here and There—New Ways of Arranging the Hair.

The proportions are equal weight of rosewater and orange flower water and one-eighth the weight of borax. It is rather early to begin to talk about putting away winter clothes for the summer, but it is always well to give good ad-

Blood Poison.

Contagious Blood Poison has been appropriately called the curse of mankind. It is the one disease that physicians cannot cure; their mercurial and potash remedies only bottle up the poison in the system, to surely break forth in a more virulent form, resulting in a total wreck of the system.

Mr. Frank B. Martin, a prominent jeweler at 626 Pennsylvania Ave., Washington, D. C., says: I was for a long time under treatment of two of the best physicians of this city, for a severe case of blood poison, but my condition grew worse and the while, notwithstanding the fact that they charged me three hundred dollars. My mouth was filled with eating sores; my tongue was almost eaten away, so that for three months I was unable to taste any solid food. My hair was coming out rapidly and I was in a horrible fix. I had tried various treatments, and was nearly discouraged, when a friend recommended S.S.S. After I had taken four bottles, I began to get better, and when I had finished eighteen bottles, I was cured. Before that, my skin was without a blemish, and I have had no return of the disease. S.S.S. saved me from a life of misery. S.S.S. (guaranteed purely vegetable) will cure any case of blood poison. Books on the disease and its treatment sent free by Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.

vice in ample time for it to be followed. Before coats, wraps and heavy gowns are packed away they should be thoroughly shaken, beaten and aired, as moths are much less liable to attack them if they are thus treated. It is also best to put them in repair, so that they can be worn at once if sudden necessity arises.

Bits of brooch, light silk, cord and gullion should always be saved, as there are many pretty little fancy articles for which they may be utilized. Photograph frames and glove and handkerchief boxes in especial are easily made and are always useful and acceptable.

Evening capes for wear over thin ball gowns must be light and at the same time very warm. For young girls fine elder down wool trimmed with swan's down is pretty and simple, but for older women something more dignified is required—cloth or brooch silk. The favorite is wadded and quilted silk, a revival of old time fashion. A very high collar, protecting the neck and back of the head, is always worn.

The picture shows two coiffures. The first, rather startling, is for evening, the hair being waved and arranged in coronas on the crown of the head, where are a large jeweled comb and an erect feather. The second, quieter and more attractive, is for a very young girl and is a repetition of a bygone style very becoming to childish features.

THE SEVENTH Beet Sugar factory in the United States was erected at Eddy, New Mexico, in 1896, and made its first "campaign," beginning November 15th, 1896, and closing February 15th, 1897.

THE CONTENT OF "SUGAR in the best" of the crop grown in the Eddy and Roswell sections of the valley has proven to be more uniformly high than any other part of the United States.

FORTUNATELY the land is blessed with just the fertility to produce high grade beets, and

MORE FORTUNATELY the Pecos Irrigation and Improvement Co. and the Roswell Land and Water Co. have an irrigation system of great magnitude, covering a vast body of the BEST SUGAR BEET lands on earth. The water is applied to the crop WHEN NEEDED.

THE SUN SHINES more hours in the day and more days in the year in Eddy and Roswell sections, New Mexico, than in any other section of the west.

GOOD SOIL makes the seed germinate.

WATER makes the plant grow.

SUNLIGHT puts the sugar in the BEET.

THE ONLY THING left to be desired that the Pecos Valley has not on hand in abundance is PEOPLE. We need thrifty farmers; 500 heads of families each on a 40-acre farm.

NO FARMER terms or conditions of sale of beet and fruit lands were ever made.
