LOCOMOTIVE BLOWN UP.

One of the Big 800s on the Santa Fe Road Dropped Its Crown Sheet at Lamy—Fireman Badly Scalded.

An extra train pulled up in the lower yards at Lamy at 9 o'clock last night, northward bound, and the engine, a big Dickson, one of the 800s, cut off and went to the coal chutes to load the tender with coal. While standing there, without a moment's warning, the crown sheet gave way and in less time than it takes to tell it, there was a deafening crash, as the contents of the boiler and firebox were blown out on to the ground, and the big machine was left a good deal of a wreck. Engineer Boyd escaped, as far as can be learned, with comparatively few injuries, but the fireman, John Sherman, was found afterwards, at the station and yard men rushed to the rescue, so terribly scalded and injured that he picked up the poor fellow, the pieces of flesh came away from his body with the tattered clothing. He was carried to the depot and everything possible done for him, and when the east-bound passenger train came along he was sent on to the hospital at Las Vegas.

The stories gleaned here this noon all pointed toward a crown sheet explosion. A backhead explosion would have torn both the engine and pieces, while had the front end gone out, the chances would have been for the escape of the men from injury further than a momentary stunning. From such accounts as can be gathered, the occasion of the accident was most likely due to structural weakness. A crown sheet is supported either by radial stays braced on the boiler sheets or horizontal bars braced on the sides of the firebox, and as a general thing this support is so secure that even when through carelessness or accident the water gets below the crown sheet, the latter will burn out in places before giving way, and a fusible plug is placed in the sheet to melt when the water gets low, and let the steam into the firebox, extinguishing the fire. But in this case the engine was not on that part of the line where it would be liable to run short of water, and as everything seemed to go at once, there was evidently a sudden and general giving way of the crown sheet supports. An examination of the destroyed locomotive will be made to place the responsibility.

Since the above was written it has been learned that Engineer Boyd was blown out of the cab window by the force of the explosion, and hurt some on the top of the head when he hit the ground. But otherwise he is all right. Fireman Sherman may recover, and it is claimed that $400 will repair the damage to the engine.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Ruperto Ortiz, of Rinconada, is visiting friends in the city. He stops at the Bon Ton.

William Burke, a miner from Gallup, is in the city on his way north. He stops at the Bon Ton.

Mrs. J. D. Hughes is expected to return from Los Angeles tonight, after an absence of three weeks.

S. H. Elkins, who has been in Santa Fe for several days attending to business in the courts, returned to his home in Columbia, Mo., last night.

Contractor J. P. Haynie, of the D. & R. G., and his foreman, A. B. Jack, went north this morning to Tres Piedras, where they are engaged in superintending cutting and shipping railway ties for the new standard gauge west of La Veta. Only the very best of spruce timber is accepted, and the result is the Rio Grande has about the least trouble with its ties of all the roads in this part of the country.

J. F. Wyman, of San Francisco, representing the Dixon Crucible Company, arrived last night from the west, and registered at the Palace while in town on business. He left for Las Vegas this afternoon, returning west from that point.

Colonel Harry Whigham, of Baton, manager of the Raton Coal and Coke Company, and a member of Governor Otero's staff, is very sick in a hospital in Chicago. His friends are very much concerned over his condition.

Judge Stone, of the court of private land claims, left for Denver this morning over the D. & R. G. to remain there until the next session of the court at Tucson.

J. D. Benedict, the government forest reserve superintendent, went north on the D. & R. G. this morning, to be gone several days on government business.

B. S. Van Steenburg, representing a Denver firm, arrived last night over the D. & R. G. on business and registered at the Exchange.

Louis B. Huning, son of the flour mill man at Los Lunas, arrived last night from the south and is a guest at the Palace.

Civic Society Election.

The Woodmen of the World held their annual election in this city last night, when the following officers were chosen: Consul commander, W. J. McPherson; advisory lieutenant, Jacob Stein; banker, H. S. Kaune; clerk, M. M. N. Woodward; escort, A. J. Fischer; watchman, Alex. Reed; secretary, Bailey Nowell; camp physician, Dr. J. M. Diaz.

The installation will take place on the night of January 18, when 25 guests will be invited in addition to the members to the banquet to follow the installation. The local lodge is in a flourishing condition with 50 members.

MINOR CITY TOPICS.

George Scarborough has been named as captain of the troop of rangers proposed for this territory.

The Presbyterian Sunday school will hold its Christmas festival with a tree in the church on Tuesday night.

U. S. weather bureau forecast for New Mexico: Fair tonight and Friday colder tonight in southern portion.

The mercury was reported at 6 degrees above zero on the north side, this morning, the coldest registered this season.

Local tradesmen are having all they can do to handle the Christmas trade, and the grocers especially are finding business lively.

The Santa Fe has a new way of standing off scalpers. It is now reported that all station men will shortly have to wear uniforms. The employes in this city on hearing the dread intelligence were unable to speak for an hour afterwards.

Yesterday the thermometer at the local weather bureau registered as follows: Maximum temperature, 41 degrees, at 1:15 p. m.; minimum, 16 degrees, at 11:30 a. m. The mean temperature for the 24 hours was 28 degrees; mean daily relative humidity, 60 per cent.

General Manager Mayo, of the Old Reliable Gold Mining Company, has bought the Cullen mill at Golden, and will haul 1,000 tons of ore from the Cullen mines to the mill. The mine people claim there are 1,000,000 tons of ore in sight. The works has a 75-horse power engine and two 40-horse power boilers.

The Episcopal Sunday school children will enjoy their Christmas tree in the church next Saturday at 3 p. m., and preparations are being made for a grand time.

Mrs. Catron is remembering her townspeople in a substantial way for Christmas, and has donated $10 worth of candies for the tree at the Methodist Sunday school celebration.

Roads are being built to haul the saw mills at Buckman to the new location near White Rock. Mr. Buckman, the sawyer, believes there is 30,000,000 feet of timber in sight near White Rock, and as he can saw 35,000 feet per day, he will have plenty to do for some time to come. It is not believed that the mills can be moved and got into position before February.

The branch engine bucked and broke away from her driver yesterday as the train went speeding down the hill near Lamy Junction, due to defective air brakes. It is said, and "away she went like all possessed." The engineer "threw her over" and sent the driving wheels spinning in reverse motion until the sparks flew in all directions from the scotched rails. But the engine took the bits between her teeth, and ran "kagmash" into the helper engine at the foot of the grade. However, the unruly thing had been slowed down to eight miles an hour, so that the collision was nothing very damaging, be-
