WHY IT SUCCEEDS.

Because It's for One Thing Only, and Santa Fe People Appreciate This. Nothing can be good for everything. Doing one thing well brings success. Doan's Kidney Pills do one thing only. They cure sick kidneys. They cure backache, every kidney ailment. Here is Santa Fe evidence to prove it. Mrs. Agripina D. de Gonzales, 102 Garcia street, Santa Fe, N. M., says: "In September, 1906, I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Stripling Burrows & Co's, drug store and used them for backache which had been a source of such annoyance. In the morning when I arose my back was so lame and painful that I could hardly stoop to pick up anything. I knew that my trouble was due to disordered kidneys and I was finally led to try Doan's Kidney Pills by the good reports I heard about them. The contents of one box drove away all my pains and aches and I am happy to say that my cure has been permanent." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

NEW MEXICO COLORS ARTIST'S DELIGHT

So Says the Indian Painter J. Henry Sharp

COMING WEST SINCE 1888

Santa Fe a Most Delightful Place But Needs More Advertising.

J. Henry Sharp, the famous Indian portrait painter, has been in Santa Fe for the past few days, on his way to his winter home at the Crow agency. Through the summer he has been at Taos where he has a studio. Since 1881 he has made annual trips to Taos to paint the Pueblo Indians.

Sharp has the reputation of being a great painter of the Indians and has received recognition upon the part of the United States government, which purchased a large number of his paintings of Indian scenes. Born at Bridgeport, Ohio, in 1849, Sharp went to Cincinnati at an early age where he received his schooling. At the age of fourteen he entered the old art academy. Later he studied art at Antwerp, Munich, Paris, Madrid and other European places. Returning to Cincinnati he taught art in the Art Academy for eleven years.

It wasn't long before he established himself as a great portrait painter and he gained considerable prominence by painting prominent people of Cincinnati. His exhibits were to be seen in almost all saloons and art galleries in this and foreign countries. Medals, he has received in great numbers, though he is so wrapped up in art itself that he little cares for or values medals. While still painting in Cincinnati he made a specialty of Indian heads, these productions attracting the attention of the government and resulting in many purchases. Then Mrs. Phoebe Hearst, the wealthy mother of William Randolph Hearst, the great journalist and publisher, became aware of what Sharp was producing and at once purchased the paintings he had on hand and commissioned him for five years to stay in the west and make studies of the various Indians, the paintings all to go to the University of California upon Mrs. Hearst's death. This commission was completed three years ago.

Though Sharp had established an enviable record as an Indian and portrait painter, he has in the last 3 years again come to the front establishing a reputation as a landscape artist. His specialties in this line are snow scenes painted in and around the Crow reservation. It is for the purpose of securing material for his paintings of winter scenes, that Sharp maintains a winter studio at the Crow agency. His studio is located just at the foot of the famous Custer battlefield not far from Billings, Montana.

Every spring, Sharp, accompanied by his wife, returns to Taos where he paints the Indians. He says that it is far easier to secure Indian models at Taos than in the northern parts such as the Crow reservation. In the north, the Indians are scattered about on their farms and come to the agency only at intervals and then do not remain long, while at Taos the pueblo life is still maintained and this renders it possible for the Indian to secure more than one sitting, enabling him to get a better picture.

In New Mexico, says Artist Sharp there is more color than elsewhere and this is the great delight of the artist. "I like Santa Fe immensely," he said. "The climate is delightful and the attractions are wonderful. But Santa Fe is not advertised enough. I used to come here years ago when the town was pretty wide open, when saloons and gambling flourished and men carried their guns openly. I remember, too, later on, that large crowds of people used to come here to enjoy the sights. The Denver and Rio Grande used to run a sleeper into Santa Fe. That is the way it should be again. There should be more exploiting of the advantages and attractions of your city. Why at Denver, you never hear anything else but Denver. It is Denver, Denver, Denver, all the time. That is the way it should be with Santa Fe."

Sharp was married in 1892 to as delightful a helpmate as any man could wish. Miss Addie Byram who became his wife, was born at Liberty, Indiana. Possessing great musical talent she came to Cincinnati and studied music, gaining a reputation as a pianist. Later, she accompanied her husband throughout Europe and while he was engaged with art, she continued her musical studies. Mrs. Sharp is a cousin of Major George L. Byram of the U. S. army, a man very well known throughout the southwest. Although the Woman's Club of Cincinnati, which is a most exclusive organization, boasts of but very few honorary members, Mrs. Sharp together with Mrs. William Taft, the wife of the President, have lately been added to the list of honorary members.

Mrs. Sharp is greatly devoted to her husband and is his constant companion, being a source of endless inspiration to him. Recently, they purchased a place at Taos which is now being renovated so that in the spring it can be used as a studio, and also a home for the summer.

The many productions from the brush of Sharp are today to be seen in the salons abroad, in the art galleries throughout this country and in many private collections of the wealthy. There is also a good representation of his picture in the Smithsonian Institute at Washington. Among the prominent people who have been his patrons are Andrew Carnegie, Mrs. Phoebe Hearst, Madame Ador, the wife of the president of Switzerland, Joseph J. Butler, the steel magnate, Samuel Felton of the Chicago and Alton railroad, President Ripley of the Santa Fe route, Charles Pratt, wealthy carriage manufacturer of Cincinnati, Charles Baer the sheep king of Montana, and numerous others.

Among the local people who own paintings by Sharp, are A. B. Renehan, James Seligman and Arthur Seligman. At present, Sharp is exhibiting his work at St. Louis, Denver and Helena, Montana.

TWELVE CENT STAMP TO REPLACE THIRTEEN.

Postoffice Department Issues Orders to Bureau of Engraving to Make Die for Proposed New Issue.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—Acting Postmaster General Joseph Stewart has requested the secretary of the treasury to authorize the director of the bureau of engraving and printing to prepare a 12-cent postage stamp of the size and design of the series of 1908. The color of the proposed 12-cent stamp will be selected later.

The new stamp will ultimately result in the discontinuance of the 13-cent stamp. The latter was calculated to cover the cost of the 8-cent registry fee and the 5-cent international postage rate. The 15-cent stamp will serve this purpose when the registry fee is increased from 8 to 10 cents, on November 1st. The proposed 12-cent stamp will cover the cost of the new 10-cent registry fee and the 2-cent postage rate in this country and for England and Germany. The 12-cent stamp was discontinued some years ago. It bore the head of Washington.

During the present year stamps of large denomination have been issued as follows: 10-cent stamp, 54,667,200; 13-cent stamp, 5,679,200; 15-cent stamp, 8,436,000.

The 12-cent stamp just ordered prepared for the postoffice department was last issued in 1870. The announcement that it will bear the head of George Washington was based on the assumption that the last 12-cent stamp bore that likeness. The fact is that it presented a profile bust of Henry Clay. The new stamp will be designed on lines similar to the old. Above and below the bust of Clay will appear the words "U. S. Postage" and "Twelve Cents," in white capitals; the two words "Twelve Cents" to be separated by the number "12" in Arabic. The words of denomination are all black letters.

DELEGATS FROM SOUTH AFRICA COMING TO CONGRESS.

Billings, Mont., Oct. 9.—Rhodesia, South Africa, will have an official representative at the Fourth Dry Farming Congress at Billings, Mont., October 26-28, according to advices received by Secretary Burns from Dr. William Macdonald, of Pretoria, vice president and corresponding secretary of the Congress for South Africa. Dr. Macdonald announces that N. H. Chateway, director of agriculture of Rhodesia, has instructed Mr. George N. Blackshaw, B. Sc., of the department of agriculture of that colony, to represent it at the convention at Billings. Prof. Blackshaw is expected to arrive in the United States a short time in advance of the Congress in order that he may have an opportunity to investigate the agricultural conditions in this country. He will deliver an address before the Congress on the progress of agriculture in South Africa.

Dr. Macdonald was present at the third Congress at Cheyenne and gave a most interesting address on the dry farming conditions in the British South African possessions. There are large tracts in that portion of the world which are susceptible of development by dry farming methods and during the last year the work of the Dry Farming Congress has been brought closely to the attention of the departments of agriculture of the colonies, through the active work carried on by Dr. Macdonald. Recently Governor Norris, president of the Congress, sent official invitations to the governments of the colonies to send delegates to the Billings meeting. The appointment of Prof. Blackshaw is the result.

The director of agriculture of the Orange River Colony has acknowledged receipt of the invitation to attend the Congress and announces that E. J. Macmillan, of the department of agriculture, who is now on leave, will probably be in Canada during October and may be requested to go to Billings to represent his colony at the Congress.
