

THE ARIZONA SILVER BELT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF GILA CO.

Saturday, March 3, 1883.

Is There no Danger.

The Citizen publishes a letter written by Capt. Gatewood, U. S. A., to Agent Wilcox, at San Carlos...

There is some then; and it amounts to something.

The Republican publishes a letter, sent by General Crook, to a Mr. A. C. Richards in reply to the latter's request for protection.

"I sympathize fully with your desire to be protected against incursions from hostile Apaches or Indians of any kind, and only regret that the small force of troops under my command renders it impossible to station detachments at every settlement."

Good reader, throw in the italics at the commencement of the second sentence.

"Hundreds of settlers in precisely the same position." That is a stronger presentation of the case than the Bazr has made, and Gen. Crook ought to know what he is writing about.

The Isabella Swindle.

The "Isabella swindle" as it is called by the Eastern papers, affords a text for many a screeled to journalistic sermonizers.

The Old Dominion, Buffalo, Takoma and Hoosier, have enough of second class ore on their dumps and in their mines to keep their smelters running for years.

Judge Landon's position on the woman suffrage question was sound. There is as much admiration for women, to the square foot, in this editorial room, as there is anywhere on the footloot; but it would take unto itself wings and fly away to the outermost confines of the world if the women we love were to become "loud-talking, tattling, blowing, false-speaking, whisky-guzzling voters."

This paper has no objection personally to Gen. Crook—it simply contends that his performance is lame compared with his promise.

Hank Monk, the California stage driver who told Horace Greeley "to keep his seat," died of pneumonia, a few days ago.

Rochester, New York, is celebrated for the number of comets it finds, and the poor quality of its liver medicines.

There is no reason why Canada should not be annexed to the United States, now. Her public officers have learned to steal at last.

The Star calls the associate editor of this paper "the Bobbin of the Belt." Just so,—bobbin enough to wind the Star's railroad scheme and Indian policy up.

A Mr. Snow was married to a Miss Cutler, and the Prescott Miner says, there's "nothing strange about the combination." Certainly not, because the cutter will be useful when the snow is gone.

The militia bill introduced in the present legislature, is likely, according to the Courier, to "go where the woodbine twinneth." That is where Fremont's army bill went the session before, thanks to a few level heads and honest hearts.

Mr. Talmadge thinks that heaven will be "all eternal exhibition of psalmody." That is just the sort of sensual after-life the Brooklyn pulpitier would like. If there is such a place, and Talmadge gets there, our word for it, he will always be found "loafing around the throne."

Geo. C. Mill, the Chicago agnostic, who left the ministerial business and took to acting, broke one of his ribs, recently, while playing Hamlet. The advice to the players—not to "tear passions in tatters" was complied with; but as something had to give way, he tore himself.

The San Francisco Exchange calls the poem written by an ex-California newspaper man on the coronation ceremony of Kalakana, the "dam-funniest composition that ever saw the light," and it is. It is said that "the King and Queen disrobed," probably it was to go into sack-cloth and ashes at having such a language mangled in their kingdom.

The amount of printing necessary to satisfy the men at Prescott, has reduced the supply of ink to such an extent that the newspapers come out with an almost grey complexion.

The Arizona Democrat shows that it grasps the situation perfectly, when it says: "Arizona is not in a position to attack railroads. We have not enough people, enough business or enough railroads to begin an insane attack on these great civilizers."

The lady who keeps the Waldo House, in Prescott, threatens to publish, in the Courier, the names of the people who owe her if they do not ante up soon. We hate to draw even a logical inference, when it is a reflection upon the paying (not staying) qualities of our legislators; but as they must soon be leaving for their homes, the conclusion is irresistible that the proprietress of the Waldo House means them.

Washington has some of the social peculiarities of a certain mining town that we know of—its love of gossip and scandal. Its idle prattlers are attacking the President of the United States, and for no other known reason than because he bestowed some attention upon a lady who is a leader in Washington society.

The Old Dominion, Buffalo, Takoma and Hoosier, have enough of second class ore on their dumps and in their mines to keep their smelters running for years. It would seem the part of wisdom in these companies, to join in the building of a railroad, so that their ores could be made valuable.

Judge Landon's position on the woman suffrage question was sound. There is as much admiration for women, to the square foot, in this editorial room, as there is anywhere on the footloot; but it would take unto itself wings and fly away to the outermost confines of the world if the women we love were to become "loud-talking, tattling, blowing, false-speaking, whisky-guzzling voters."

Globe will be reconciled to the narrow gauge when that town becomes rich and prosperous through its instrumentality.—Star.

Globe has no objection to the road, it had to the burdens it imposed. The Bazr has always been consistent in its advocacy of any enterprise that would help the Territory. If the Tucson papers will assure us that permission has been accorded the company to cross the San Carlos reservation, or that it can be had before the next session of Congress; that the company is composed of men of character and financial standing, and give us the names; that they intend to begin at the coal and timber end of the line, where material is cheap, instead of at the barren end of it where it is dear; that it will be a benefit to us instead of an injury, by preventing the building of a road to Globe; then we will lose our hat as high as they and make as much fuss, and we won't ask for a block of the stock either. We do not believe the road will be built, and if it is, are firmly convinced that it will never add one cent to the "riches and prosperity of Globe."

General Wardwell.

A letter received at this office, from the Massachusetts home of Gen. Wardwell, speaks as follows regarding his career antecedent to his residence in Arizona: "A copy of your paper of Feb. 8th reached me this morning. In reading the same I came across a paragraph relating to Gen. Wardwell, in regard to which I would say, that Mr. Wardwell served honorably throughout the war; he raised his own company in the Fifth Massachusetts, one of the first regiments that went from here, for three months, and went back almost immediately, nearly all his company re-enlisting and going back with him; he was then Captain, and if guilty of the things mentioned, why was he promoted from time to time? He also served in the Mexican war, went out a private, came back an officer; he has been in government employ at different times here at home, was in the custom house a number of years, also in the navy yard at Charleston, and had many friends here. I have a member of his company in my family at the present time, who speaks in the highest terms of him as an officer; he served under him three years.—Ex.

We are prepared to believe that the General was a good officer, and we know that he has been a thoroughly conscientious, industrious legislator. The civil government of Tombstone endorse him officially. No one of our representatives will carry home to his constituency a cleaner record or a fairer fame.

A telegram sent from Wilcox, A. T., and reading as follows, has been going to the Associated Press papers:

Wilcox, A. T., Feb. 22.—The charges said to have been sent by Burgess to the Interior Department concerning Agent Wilcox at San Carlos are base falsehoods. Burgess is a discharged employe of Agent Wilcox, for corrupt practices among Indians. Burgess is utterly unreliable.

We have affidavits which go to substantiate Burgess' charges; his reputation is good; and that he was not discharged is proven by the following:

J. D. Broness, Chief of Scouts.—Dear Sir: Your resignation is accepted. Chief of military scouts Seiber, has been detailed by Capt. Crawford to act until the place can be filled.

The papers which have copied the Wilcox telegram, must, if they are honest, publish this vindication of Mr. Burgess. We advise the Associated Press to get a more reliable agent at Wilcox, than their present one.

The society editor of the Miner got down to hard pan when he referred to the Speaker of the House and his lady, at the masquerade ball, as "taking in the business with gusto." We can understand what he means in that paragraph; but when it comes to describing his own costume, we have to pass—"Three fair damsels and a pair of boots." Our knowledge of the fair ones of Prescott convinces us that the costume, barring the boots, must have been beautiful; but how the deuce the fellow ever wore them all at once passes comprehension. We understand about the boots—he wore them like Peck's boy, in the tail of his coat—no, that cannot be either, because he had so much damsel on, that a coat would be a supererogation in broadcloth,—we give it up. How did he wear the girls, and where were the boots?

Millions in It.

Tucson, A. T., Feb. 22.—There is great excitement about a remarkable silver discovery, twenty miles south of here, in the Santa Rita mountains. The ore crossing is one hundred feet wide and over a mile long, with an average value of $275 per ton of ore. Half a million is estimated to be in sight. One claim on the property has just been purchased by a Methodist minister of Albion, Iowa.

After reading the above dispatch to the Chicago Inter-Ocean, we are forced to the conclusion that, Tucson has a greater need than a narrow gauge railroad, and that is, some truthful man to look after her telegraphers.

$25 Reward.

Information that will lead to the conviction of anyone who shall knowingly injure or molest the Globe and San Carlos Telegraph Line. The offense is punishable by fine not exceeding $1,000, or imprisonment not exceeding one year or both, at the discretion of the court having cognizance thereof.
