Reward of $5 Offered.

Lost, somewhere between Boise Barracks and the Half-Way House, on the Boise road, a nickel plated, 4-calibre Bull Dog six-shooter, on the night of July 5th. The above reward will be paid on its delivery at the World office.

A new bridge has been completed across Payette, at the Warm Springs, four or five miles from Banner. The bridge was constructed by Wardwell, the saw mill man, and James Irwin. Four stringers were put in. The bridge is four or five feet wide, and was constructed for footmen and saddle and pack animals.

BAKER CITY, June 30, 1890.

IDAHO WORLD:—Just as I was getting ready to go to Idaho City the cars killed my horse, and before I could get another horse the Baker city folks hired me to train the boys' band for the contest at Pendleton. You may look for me after the 4th of July. I shall come by stage. Please advertise that I am coming.

Yours respectfully, M. PEPPERLE.

WILLIAM CHARTERS, of Garden valley, was in town last week. He says crops are looking fine over there, especially the grain. Mr. Charters was on Packer John Mountain after the snowstorm on 26th and found the snow there four inches deep. Thos. Barry, Jr., who came down from Summit Flat for the Fourth, said the snow was also four inches deep up there, and remained one day and a night.

As the Idaho admission bill passed the Senate last Tuesday, we could not give the news in Tuesday's Semi-Weekly, having printed that edition on Monday evening. But the news was received before printing the same edition for Weekly subscribers, who were given the Semi-Weekly of that day. As soon as the news was received, on the 3d, that the President had signed the bill, the World struck off extras and mailed them to every postoffice in the county.

THE FOURTH AT QUARTZBURG.

Ed. World:—The Fourth of July celebration at Quartzburg was a success in every sense of the word. The literary program was complete and everyone on the list discharged his or her duty with ability and enthusiasm worthy of the occasion. The preliminary remarks by the chairman, T. R. Faull, were pronounced by all a brilliant effort.

The Declaration of Independence, which was read by Ed Stekol, had telling effect, and the oration, by Dr. Wade, of Placerville, was one difficult to surpass. I regret not being able to furnish the chairman's remarks and Doctor's oration as they were delivered on that occasion. The poetess of the day did admirably, and Master Frank Daley declaimed a piece in a very pleasing manner and excited much applause.

This little town was thronged to its utmost capacity, and I believe every place in the county was represented except Idaho City. Quartzburg, on some future occasion, will probably return the call.

The fire works in the evening were very interesting and caused expressions of jubilant feeling.

The ball at night, in Daley's Hall, by Dan Carroll, was largely attended. Good music was furnished and ably conducted by Mr. Stone. Everyone had an enjoyable time and pronounced James Ferron the beau and Miss Wallace the belle of the ball.

R. F. McBRIDE. QUARTZBURG, July 6, 1890.

Long Valley and Deadwood Items.

Ralph Calderwood, Assessor and Tax Collector, returned last week from a trip to Long valley and Deadwood Basin. He says crops out in Long valley are growing finely. Some volunteer grain came up in sections where tests had been made last year of the adaptability of the soil and climate of that valley for growing cereals. This grain is growing grandly, proving that winter grain would be a grand success in that valley. Several who went in there last year left this spring and summer, but the immigrants that have anchored there this year will offset the number that left. The settlers there have constructed fifteen or twenty bridges across the larger creeks of the valley that are not fordable during high water. They have done all this with their own money, but need help from the county for further conveniences in the way of roads and bridges. That is a growing section, and will soon be the source of a good deal of revenue for the county, and with a little assistance now it would be the means of causing the valley to be more rapidly settled.

The ranchers are building fences, barns and making other permanent improvements. Whiteley has recently built a barn 180 feet in length. A good many cattle died in Long valley last winter, and it has been a lesson to stock owners that they will bud in the future and be prepared to feed stock in case of an unusually severe winter.

Long valley now has five stores. Ralph says a road could be put through very easily from Garden valley to Round valley. The latter is the lower end of Long valley. The road would follow up a clear, cold stream from Garden valley to the summit, and down another of the same kind into Round valley. Ralph says a road connecting Garden and Round valleys would be a great benefit to this side of the county as well as Long, Round and Garden valleys.

There are twelve white men and four Chinamen in Deadwood Basin. Catlin is at work in the placer claim formerly owned by Wise & Co., and has four men at work. He has an abundance of water.

The snow storm on the 26th of June reached Deadwood, and on Deadwood mountain fell to the depth of six or eight inches.

GEORGE RIEBOLD, owner in the Little Giant mine and mill, at Warrens, arrived here last Saturday. He is spending his time examining the machinery and modes of working mines here.

Arr. Cunningham, whose leg was broken by a falling tree at the Elk-horn mine last Tuesday, is in Centerville, and getting along as well as could be expected.

JOHN GARRETT, Jr., left by yesterday's stage for Silver City to accept a position in a butcher shop.

THE EAGLE SINGS FOR AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE AND STATE OF IDAHO.

The Fourth passed off very pleasantly all through Southern Idaho, and well it should, being a celebration of Statehood, as well as American Independence. At Banner the celebration consisted of fireworks and ball. During the day a large number of people arrived from Idaho City, but no exercises were participated in until dark, when the fireworks commenced going off. The supply was well selected, and for nearly an hour the balls and strings of fire of every hue lighted up the burg. The dance in the evening was a splendid affair. There were ten couples from here and nearly every body in Banner attended. Dancing was kept up until 5 o'clock, and everyone who attended had a real good time. Whenever the Banner boys start in to do anything they never do it by halves.

At 12 o'clock all repaired to Smith's Hotel, where a splendid supper, with all the dainties of the season, was spread.

IDAHO CITY.

As usual, had a celebration. During the day the Sunday School children and a good many older ones partook of ice cream and dainties at Masonic Hall.

The children sang a number of patriotic songs and also recited several very good pieces for which they were heartily applauded by those present. The hall was very tastefully decorated for the occasion and the day was very pleasantly spent.

Charles S. Kingsley, Register of the U. S. Land Office at Boise City, came up and treated the town to splendid fireworks on the evening of the 4th at his own expense.

The celebration ended by a dance at Odd Fellow Hall, which was crowded with happy young people, who tripped the light fantastic until Old Sol peeped over the eastern hill. Excellent music was furnished on the occasion by Crofton's string band, and a splendid midnight supper spread at the Luna House.

Well Done, Thou Good and Faithful Servant.

Lives there a man with soul so dead that he would be mean enough in this splendid hour of victory to deny to Idaho's Delegate the praise and thanks due for tireless and vigilant work for his State? Listen to the magnificent tribute paid by Mr. Dubois to the people of Idaho in his masterly speech before the Congress of the United States.

"MR. SPEAKER:—The subject which I am to discuss is the grandest, politically, that has ever engaged the thoughtful consideration of man. I have the distinguished honor, which comes to but few, of representing free men and American citizens who ask for themselves a place among the States of the American Union. These people who have subdued the desert and the forest, who have wrenched untold millions from the solemn and reluctant hills, thus adding struggling humanity everywhere, who have borne the hardships which have opened up an empire for the thousands of homes, are the worthy descendants of their fathers of the revolution, and seek now by petition what these fathers gained one hundred years ago by arms and blood, the right of self government.

Idaho, in its material embodiment, is large enough, rich enough, and prolific enough to serve as a theater for the activities of a great American community for more centuries than mortal beings are warranted to think or dream about. Partly by her common inheritance in the beneficent forces of nature and partly by a bountiful endowment, all her own, she is able to tender the custodians of the national welfare every reasonable guaranty and prospect that she will be no laggard in the never-ceasing onward race. Even her soil has been fattened for ages, that the skill and energy of man may fit it to his own further advancement, when he shall have become capable for and worthy of the prize.

Yesterday, while John Wallace, wife and son, Walter, were on the way to Banner one of his horses fell on the grade this side of Plowman's claim, and Mr. Wallace attempted to stop on the break, which he missed and fell among the horses, cutting the back of his head considerably. After returning to town and getting the wound dressed they proceeded on their way.

A new and elegant building is soon to be erected at Placerville by Myer & Smith. It will be occupied as a general merchandise store.

STATE OF IDAHO.

These are the words with which the joyous citizens of the Gem of the Mountains in every section greeted each other when it was learned that the admission bill had passed the Senate on July 1st. It then only required the signature of President Harrison to make Idaho a full-fledged State, and that the Chief Executive would sign it was assured. On the third inst. our admission was made complete by the President's approval.

Now Idaho will enter on an era of prosperity such as has never been witnessed before, and the Gem before many years will take her place among the first States of the Union in productive industries, and will predict that in a few short years she will stand at the head in metal production. We will not now re-enumerate the many advantages of State government over Territorial vassalage, but will simply predict that the short history of Statehood and its results in Montana will be repeated in Idaho. Foreign capital will flow to our mines as it has in Montana since she became a State, and Idaho will soon be known far and wide as the greatest of mining States. Foreign capitalists have been eager to invest in the Territories, but by a law of Congress were prevented. Now that barrier is removed, and the capital will come. It is capital we need to work and develop our mines, and it matters not whether it be American or foreign capital. Whenever the mining sections are prosperous so are the agricultural districts. Mining operations make markets for farm products. Idaho will soon enjoy a prosperity such as many now little dream of. Whatever her political complexion may be, the servants of her people, we are sure, will look out first for the interests of Idaho, and wield their power and influence first to build her up and make her the most brilliant star in the shining constellation—a veritable gem whose luster will be admired far beyond her borders and attract thither people searching for homes in her fertile valleys, on her grand, picturesque and mineral bearing mountains, and broad, far-stretching fertile plains.

All honor to our staunch and true Delegate, Fred Dubois, who saved Idaho from annihilation, piloted her through threatening breakers, and has now anchored the Gem in the safe harbor of Statehood.

THE ECONOMIC LIGHT.

What it is.

It is a gaslight that is particularly adapted to domestic use, being soft, steady, brilliant, and without odor or smoke.

The light is absolutely safe and entirely reliable in every respect, and is designed to take the place of the troublesome and dangerous coal oil lamp. The gas is made from oil which is kept outside the house and conducted through small lead tubes not larger than a lead pencil.

ECONOMY.

For about the cost of burning coal oil, you can have a brilliant gaslight fully equal to best coal gas or electricity. The essential part of the system is cheap and very simple. No expensive machinery needed. Every man can now be his own gas company, at a mere nominal cost.

CONVENIENCE.

You can save the disagreeable duty of daily filling and trimming lamps. People living in the country and small towns can now have a light fully equal to the best to be had in large cities. The light can be put in very cheaply, or a larger sum can be expended in fine chandeliers, shades, &c.

The light is the result of long continued and expensive experiments conducted by Mr. Blake, President of the Continental Oil company, and was perfected and patented in April of this year.

If you are interested in a cheap, safe and efficient light, call any evening until July 10th at the sample rooms of the Luna House, and examine it for yourself. J. W. KERR.

IDAHO CITY, July 6, 1890.

I hereby give public notice that my place wherein I do business is fenced in; therefore, cannot do business until court meets.

Mrs. C. CRAWFORD.

GEORGE RIEBOLD informs us that on or about June 25th the body of a man was found at high water mark on Salmon River, seventeen miles above the mouth of South Fork. This would indicate that the body was carried there sometime in May, when the river was at its highest. The body was nude, having on only a pair of laced shoes, which were new. It was considerably decomposed, but the hair indicated that of a young man. Patriek Ryan and a man named Steves found the body. Last May a drowned horse with saddle on was seen floating down the river at Salmon City. It may be that the man and horse were drowned together.

DAVE BUSCH, of Garden valley, was in town last Wednesday. He gave us some fine specimens of ore from two locations made by his sons, Lee and Sylvester. He had an assay made from one about a mile southeast of the Lost Pilgrim mine—the Little Emma—and it went $20.67 in gold and 118 ounces silver. The other was from the Wood Tick, six miles south of the Lost Pilgrim. Ore from this assayed $20.67 in gold and 577 ounces silver. The Little Emma is from four to six feet wide, and the Wood Tick two feet. The boys have sunk only six or eight feet on their veins. They will get out ore this summer to ship to Banner.

Last Saturday forenoon, while the Elmira company's four-horse team was coming down the Banner grade, above the Banner boarding house, it ran away. The wagon, loaded with tunnel timber, was turned over and the driver, George Cummings, thrown at considerable distance. One horse was run over by the front wheel of the wagon, breaking his back. He had to be killed.
