

LOCAL LAQUONICS.

The roads are horrible. Wild geese are still flying south. Wheat sold to day at 78 and 80 cents. But little offering.

Col. Pound's remains will be met at the depot by the Messons, who will take charge of all the funeral arrangements.

A telegram received this afternoon states that Mrs. Pound will arrive to-morrow night with the remains of her husband.

Piles displays a fur seal sacque that is unquestionably the most elegant article of ladies apparel ever brought here for sale. Two hundred dollars is the price of it.

To day's weather has been a streak of sunshine and a streak of gloom, alternating. There are indications of clearing up and a general reform in the weather department.

The republican caucus used to elect delegates to the county convention will be held to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock, at the places designated in the call. The convention will be held next week Saturday.

Go to that festival. You can get hot oysters, coffee, etc., not a dry lunch. The postponement did the oysters good. They grew bigger and more to a dish than the average church festival usually offers. At the old chapel on Cedar street.

Mr. Wright has postponed his reading at the court house until Monday night, on account of the sociable to-night. He comes highly recommended, bringing letters to our best citizens, and will no doubt give a pleasant entertainment. His readings are from Burdette's new book.

Mrs. C. D. N. Cowles, wife of Mr. Warren Cowles, formerly United States District Attorney of this territory, died very suddenly at Washington, D. C., on the 6th inst., of heart disease. Mrs. Cowles was a landscape painter and a scenic artist of more than ordinary ability, as may be seen by her painting of Sioux Falls and other scenes.

G. W. KINGSBURY, W. M.

DEATH OF COL. WM. POUND.

A telegraphic dispatch was received by A. W. Howard, at five o'clock last night, from Capt. J. W. Raymond, announcing the death of Col. William Pound, United States attorney for Dakota. He died at half past seven o'clock yesterday at Akin, Minnesota, while on the train en route from Bismarck to Yankton. His wife and eldest son and Capt. Raymond were with him. A telegram had been received earlier in the day, stating that he would probably reach home on Saturday night, and an announcement of that kind was made in yesterday's paper. The intelligence of the death of Col. Pound was not unexpected by his friends. He has been gradually sinking under the effects of that fell disease, consumption, and though there have been at times hopeful indications, the general course of the disease has been a gradual wearing out of the vital forces. Some two or three weeks ago he left Yankton for Bismarck on the steamer Nellie Peck, with the hope that the trip would prove beneficial. As there was no boat ready to return from Bismarck he started for home by rail, and died when his journey was about half made. No particulars of the distressing affair have been received, and none are needed. All our readers can form in their own minds a vivid picture of the scene. The devoted wife, the child bereft of a father, the anxious friends, the dying man whose last breath of life goes out amidst the jar and clatter of a swiftly moving railroad train—we can see it and weep for them all.

Col. Pound was born in Salem, Columbiana county, Ohio, of Quaker parents, on the 14th day of September, 1840. In the early part of his career he taught school and studied law. At the age of twenty-one he was married and one year later was admitted to the practice of law. Under the call for three-months men at the beginning of the war, Col. Pound enlisted in the 7th Indiana infantry. After his return he entered upon the practice of his profession at Ravenna, Ohio, and subsequently moved to Greensburgh, Indiana, where for two years he was publisher and editor of the Greensburgh Chronicle. He came to Dakota in 1869 as private secretary to Governor Burbank. In May, 1870, he was appointed postmaster of Yankton and held that position until November, 1871, when he was appointed United States attorney for Dakota. In November, 1875, he was reappointed to that position and held it at the time of his death.

Of his career during the eight years of his residence in Yankton we can pay his memory no greater tribute than to say that it is without a stain. In his public capacity he was honest and honorable in all things, never swerving from the path of strict rectitude. Among his friends and in his family he was the ideal of a christian gentleman—a man of whom it can be said he had no faults. Beloved by all, he is mourned by all, and wife, children and mother have the warmest sympathy which a sorrowing community can bestow. A great hearted, noble souled man has gone to his rest and not alone those who have leaned upon him for guidance and support during life's happiest years are stricken in heart by this dispensation of providence. Throughout the length and breadth of Dakota and back amid the scenes of his earlier years there is sincere grief that he is no more with us. During all the years we have known him, Col. Pound has been a member of the Congregational church. He leaves a wife and three children and a widowed, childless mother.

His remains will probably arrive to-morrow evening and the understanding is that the funeral will take place on Sunday from the Congregational church, under the auspices of the masonic fraternity, of which he was a member.

THE RIVER.

The steamer Black Hills will leave Yankton for Pierre early to-morrow morning.

Bismarck Tribune, Oct. 12th.

The Nellie Peck, 17 days out from Yankton, arrived at the landing at noon to-day. The officers of the Nellie Peck report but 2 feet, scant, hence to Yankton. She was compelled to leave 100 tons of her freight at a point below Big Cheyenne. She will probably return this p. m. for balance of her cargo. The Fontanelle was detained by her men striking, but will get away at noon to-morrow. She will have all the freight she can carry on the water. The steamer Benton, Silver City and Meade, long past due, have not arrived. On the arrival of the Benton at this place she will go to Yankton, where she will lay up for repairs. The river at this point continues to fall slowly, with 30 inches water hence to Buford. Fully seven hundred tons government freight is now at this point waiting transportation.

NEW DRESS MAKING ESTABLISHMENT.

Mrs. Nettleton and Mrs. Macgibbons, of Sioux City, fashionable dress makers, have established business in Yankton, locating their rooms over Coates' drug store, Third street. They will give attention to dress making exclusively and from a long and successful experience in the business feel abundantly qualified to satisfy the most fastidious taste, and give satisfaction in all cases. Mrs. Macgibbons has already an acquaintance with a number of Yankton ladies whose patronage she has been favored with and to whom she takes pleasure in referring. Ladies are cordially invited to call.

DELINQUENT TAXES.

Editors Press and Dakotian:—There are two petitions being circulated asking both the board of aldermen and county commissioners to employ some competent person to bring forward in one book all delinquent taxes, so that we can know what amount is delinquent on any one parcel of land. In former years the tax list was made out in alphabetical order, and in order to pay back taxes the treasurer has to know to whom the property was assessed. This is not only inconvenient, but many will be surprised to find that they owe back taxes previous to 1873. I know of one lot that was sold for taxes where the party owning it did not know anything about it, having been assessed in 1871, in another name. He bought it since that date and paid taxes every year. If this is done it will enable the treasurers to collect from the present owners, also to collect all taxes on personal property. Our present law makes such tax a lien on real estate. If this petition is not presented to property owners, call at Hayward's real estate office and sign. Yours, "TAX PAYER"
