HOUSE.
Washington, March 4.—The speaker announced the regular order to be the consideration of the bill regulating the removal of causes from state to federal courts.

The question was on the amendment offered by Mr. Colverton, and it was agreed to without division.
It amends section 2 of the act to determine the jurisdiction of U. S. courts, so as to read as follows:
Section 2.—That any suit of a civil nature, at law or in equity, arising under the constitutional laws of the United States, or treaties made, or which shall be made under their authority, of which the circuit courts of the United States are given original jurisdiction by the preceding section, which may now be pending or hereafter be brought in any state court, may be removed by the defendants therein to the circuit court of the United States, for the proper district, whenever it is made to appear from the application of such defendant or defendants, that his or their defence depends in whole or in part that on the correct construction of some provision of the constitution, or laws of the United States, or treaty made by their authority, and any other suit at law or in equity, in which the circuit courts of the United States are given jurisdiction by the preceding section, which are now pending or may hereafter be brought in any state court, may be removed to the circuit court of the United States for the proper district by the defendant or defendants now residents of the state in which the suits are pending.

The amendment offered by the minority of the committee on judiciary, making the minimum amount involved in a suit of $500, in order that the U. S. circuit court may have original jurisdiction, instead of $200 as proposed by the bill, was rejected. The amendment offered by the minority report allowing the U. S. circuit courts to take original cognizance of any suit of a civil nature, arising under patent and copyright laws, between a corporation and a citizen of the state in which the corporation was carrying on its business, was agreed to without division.

The minority amendment striking out the clause prohibiting the United States circuit courts from taking original cognizance of any suit between a corporation and a citizen of a state, except in cases arising under patent and copyright laws, and in like cases which said courts are authorized to take original cognizance of with respect to citizens of the same state, was rejected, yeas 68, nays 167.

The minority amendment was adopted providing that this act shall not affect the jurisdiction over, or the disposition of, any suit removed from the court of state, or a suit commenced in any United States court before the passage hereof.
The bill then passed, yeas 160, nays 75.
The speaker then proceeded to call the committees for reports.
