

THE POPE'S CORNER.

We have in our possession the Letters of Rev. William Nevins, late of Baltimore, collected into a little volume and entitled "Thoughts on Popery," from which we intend to make a number of extracts. The style in which they are written the reader will perceive to be rare and singular. For concise analogical argument, for wit, pungency of questioning and cross-questioning, there may not be found its match. We call it the most complete specimen of gentlemanly satire [being, withal, scrupulously fair and just in argument] that has ever been our pleasure to read. They are arranged in short chapters, and well adapted to grace our "Pope's Corner."

No. 1—THE NINE COMMANDMENTS!

Nine Commandments! What does that mean? I always thought there was ten of them. There used to be that number. There were ten proclaimed by the voice of God from Mount Sinai; and ten were written by the finger of God on the tables of stone, and when the tables were renewed there were still ten; and the Jews, the keepers of the Old Testament Scriptures, always recognized ten; and so did the primitive church, and so do all Protestants in their creeds and catechisms. But the Roman Catholics (you know they can take liberties, for they are the true church—they are infallible. A person, and so a church, which cannot possibly make a mistake, need not be very particular what he does,) these Christians who have their head away off at Rome, subtract one from the ten commandments; and you know if you take one from ten only nine is left. So they have but nine commandments. Theirs is not a Decalogue, but a Nonalogue.

It is just so. When, many years ago I first heard of it, I thought it was a slander of the Protestants. I said, "Oh it cannot be that they have dared to meddle with God's ten commandments and leave out one. They cannot have been guilty of such impiety. Why, it is just as if some impious Israelite had gone into the holy of holies, opened the ark of the covenant, and taking out the tables of stone, had, with some instrument of iron, obliterated one of the commands which the divine finger wrote on them." But then it struck me how improbable it was that such a story should ever have gained currency, unless there was some foundation for it.—Who would ever have thought of charging Roman Catholics with suppressing one of the commandments, unless they had done it, or something like it! So I thought I would inquire whether it was so or not; and I did, and found it to be a fact. With my own eyes I saw the catechisms published under the sanction of bishops and archbishops, in which one of the commandments was omitted; and the reader may see the same thing in "The Manual of Catholic piety," printed no farther off than in Philadelphia. The list of the commandments run thus:—

1. I am the Lord thy God; thou shalt not have strange gods before me.
2. Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain.
3. Remember the Sabbath day, &c.

The reader will see that the commandment which the Catholics leave out, a being grievous to them, is the second in the series. It is the one that forbids making graven images and likeness of any

DR. HIBARD

WOULD take this method to inform the inhabitants of Rutland and vicinity that, having purchased the premises formerly owned by J. C. Dexter, Esq., south of the stage-house, he intends to follow the practice of Medicine, in all its varied branches, and hopes to merit a share of public patronage, by a close attention to his business, temperance in his habits, and fair and honorable dealing with his customers. His practice, for ten years past, has been predicated on the principles of the "Reformed," (or vegetable practice,) as taught in New York City, and College at Worthington, Ohio.

To those who are unacquainted with the system, the subscriber would inform them that the Reformed practice was instituted, and a medical school established in the city of New York, in 1829, by W. Beach, M. D. and now president of the Reformed Medical Society of the United States. Dr. B. established a board of professors in this school on the branches of medicine, viz: Anatomy, Physiology, Surgery, Chemistry, Materia Medica, Botany, Obstetrics, Theory and Practice of Physic, and Medical Jurisprudence, which were as scientifically taught as at any medical college in the country. In this practice, no calomel or other poisonous mineral is administered; but the Vegetable Kingdom is wholly relied on to cure or relieve the sufferings of mankind. About 1829, a grant for a College was obtained from the Legislature of Ohio, which soon went into successful operation, at Worthington in that state, and still flourishes almost without a parallel in the history of any institution. This practice has nearly, in that state, supplanted the mineral practice, as well as in N. York and other states.—This practice is different from all others, from the fact that it is continually improving, and as diseases and climates change to a certain degree, this practice varies accordingly. Why not reform or improve the practice of medicine as well as any other art or science! The Mineral Practice has had no important improvement for half a century; and almost all vegetable practitioners of the day are very much in want of scientific knowledge in Anatomy, Surgery, etc. But the Reformed Practice embraces the good of all systems now in vogue, in this country. The subscriber is a graduate of the Reformed Practice as well as the Old School, and knows from an experience of more than ten years, that the vegetable practice is more safe and scientific than the mineral, and fully believes were the present adherents of that practice acquainted practically with this extensive vegetable practice, they would willingly lay aside their minerals; and common charity prompts me to say it. Dr. H. was an office student of Dr. Beach, and for more than three years in New York city had his able counsels and consultations on patients, on most every disease incident to a dense population. I feel warranted in saying that Dr. Beach has not a rival as an author and practitioner in America. He has had five gold medals awarded him as a medical author, from different societies, (what no other physician ever received in this country.) The improvements and discoveries that are yearly made in this reformed medical society, by its graduates, are sent to the President and published for the benefit of themselves and community. The subscriber left New York city five years ago and located in East Bethel, and has visited patients in more than thirty towns in New Hampshire and Vermont.

MRS. AVERY'S CERTIFICATE.

This may certify, that Providence in his afflictions saw proper to confine me to a bed of sickness about the last of August, 1836. I was attended by two respectable physicians of the old school practice, (Drs. Fay and Rix) about 7 months, and grew worse under their treatment, and not a friend or acquaintance thought it possible I could ever recover. I was even left by last physician (Dr. Fay) to die, who informed my husband and my friends that "there was no use to Drugs and Medicine.

The subscriber has just received from New York, a fresh and general assortment of Drugs and Medicine.

375 Bowery, N. Y.

DR TAYLORS.

BALSAM OF LIVERWORT.

FOR CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS, spitting of blood, pain in the side or breast, asthma, pleurisy, shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart, debility, nervousness, and all diseases of the Lungs and Liver.

This medicine has been used in the city of New York, with unexampled success for eight years, curing thousands who were supposed incurable. It is now used by most of the medical Faculty, and the whole people. Certificates of most extraordinary cures will accompany each bottle.

Prepared at 375 Bowery, in the City of New York, where the article first originated, and is the ONLY GENUINE. All others bearing similar names are counterfeits and impositions.

CERTIFICATES.

Being predisposed to consumption, both from peculiar formation, and hereditary transmission, I tried every means to check the disease, and strengthen a naturally weak constitution. I spent two years at Pisa, one at Rome, two in Florence, and another in the south of France, seeking, meantime, the advice of the best physicians. Two years since I returned to this country, in about the situation as when I left it. I had seen in the reading rooms in Europe, much in favor of Dr Taylor's Balsam of Liverwort, and as soon as I arrived in this city I used it, and in three months I was so well as to safely venture to pass the winter here I have used an occasional bottle during the time, and am now in as good health as possible. My cough has wholly ceased, and my lungs have every felling of health. JAMES HILL. Western Hotel, Courland St. N. Y.

Remarkable Cure of Consumption.

I have been an invalid for three years, and have suffered every torture from confirmed consumption. But Dr Taylor has wholly cured me. The large quantities of matters I used to raise has subsided, my cough has ceased, and I am fleshy again, my health being wholly restored by using three bottles of his celebrated Balsam. M. E. WINDLEY. No 139, Maiden Lane, N. Y.

Shortness of Breath.

For this disease Dr Taylor's Balsam of Liverwort

To the Public.

We hereby certify that our son, six years of age, was suddenly taken with a fever, and after a severe sickness a violent cough ensued. He was bloated; his kin filled, and his physician said there was no favor able symptom about him, that he had a confirmed consumption. At that time we procured a bottle of that valuable medicine, Taylor's Balsam of Liverwort. After taking one bottle we began to have hopes of his recover. He continued until he used five bottles. It is now a year from that time, and his health is better than it has ever before been since an infant. DAVID & HANNAH ROGERS. Granville, Washington co., N. Y.

For proof of the above statement I refer to the subscribers above, people of high respectability.

GEO. TAYLOR.

LOOK OUT FOR A COUNTERFEIT ARTICLE!! Sold, because of its deception and cheapness of quality, at a very small price. The same is procured by certain dealers and suffered to pass into the hands of the innocent purchaser as the Genuine Taylor's Balsam of Liverwort. Always observe—The genuine is and ever has been, prepared only at 375 Bowery, N. Y.

Violent Cough and Cold Cured. The severe change of weather having given me a most violent cold, and expectoration and difficulty of breathing, I was much less equal. Having the asthma, a severe pain in my left side, and some cough, I was induced to try the above medicine, and great was my joy to find it cured me in about two weeks. It also cured my priority over all other kinds of cough remedies, than to read the following Certificate.

I hereby certify that I have manufactured from a medicated decoction furnished by William Brown, rising of twenty thousand pounds of his Compound Boneset Candy, and from the present demand, the sales must very much increase the coming season. JAMES RICHARDSON, 375 Washington st.

There is no longer any doubt in recommending the above as the most popular remedy for Coughs &c. It fact, it is literally in the mouth of the whole community.

Caution.—There being now offered to the public several counterfeit articles, intended to be palmed off for genuine, again I mention the directions are signed 'Wm. Brown.'

The true article is for sale in Boston, at wholesale and retail, by the manufacturer, corner of Washington and Eliot St, Wm. Brown; and by J. Porter and N. G. Howard, Rutland, Vt. 50:1y
