Arnold fancy cottons—
12 1-2c to 19c.
Eager women who are good judges of fancy cottons are snapping up these trial pieces of Arnold cottons.
Good enough for, and they show their judgment.
Such cottons are worth anywhere from 10c to 65c a yard. They do not sell for that simply because they are trial pieces;
were made while mill folks were deter-mising exact cost of making.
In white and in colors; in pretty combinations of white with colors; in plain cotton and in silk woven with cotton.
They will make up lovely summer dresses. Already the scissors have flashed into many of them. If you would share, be quick.
