ORATORS ARE EASY VICTIMS

Waterburyans Land on Behrendt Hard in Second and Third Innings.
(Waterbury Republican.)
Jim O'Rourke's band of sub-cellar Orators were circus day visitors at Waterbury yesterday, but they failed to put a dent in Waterbury's long record of home victories, the Doherty boys getting enough in the early sessions to ease up while the visitors were collecting their small pile, and still win out, 7 to 3.

Big Charlie Behrendt, who was recently turned loose at New Haven, did the heavy lifting for the Ground Floors and he did his little bit nicely at all times except the second and third innings. In the first, he was touched up for six hits, which, with three errors, a wild pitch and a passed ball, were good for six runs and the game. Both pitchers showed fine control, neither issuing a pass.

Bridgeport broke the ice in the fifth on Bourquin's double and two infield outs. In the seventh Miller hit to right center for a home run, the ball being caught long enough at the bottom of the fence to allow the Orator to score. With two out, Koecher pitched the same locality but was left on third. In the eighth Pollard started off with a single, reached second on Bannion's out and scored on Hill's single to center. Bourquin doubled with one out in the ninth but Koecher was an easy out and Steinhauer, who batted for Behrendt, grounded out to Miller. The score: —

SOUTH ENDS WITH CARTER ON MOUND DEFEATED MERIDEN

The South Ends of this city traveled to Meriden yesterday, defeating the All-Meridens in a well contested game, 6-4. It was the clever work of Nick Carter that brought home the victory. Nick allowed Meriden but five hits. The playing of the South Ends in the field was a revelation to the inhabitants of the Silver burg. Bill Sawyer, the former Orator, was the clouting kid with a two bagger and a triple. Bill's triple went over a bill board and looked like a sure homer. He only got to third as some one rang a new ball, which the umpire allowed. The score: —

B. H. S. FINDS MERIDEN EASY

Local Warriors Are Battling Today With Middletown High at Yale Field.
In an exceedingly poorly played game of baseball the local High School nine had but slight difficulty in walloping their Meriden opponents at Newfield park yesterday afternoon, 10 to 1. Insofar as scoring and baseball goes, the contest was a farce, proving but a runaway for the home team, and they had but little difficulty in locating Malcom, the visiting box artist, and also in pounding Costello, his successor, hard at critical times. The Silver City boys were unable to locate Malcom, who managed to make eight of the visitors fan the air in the five innings, the game being called in the sixth on account of an agreement between the visiting box artist and the umpire in order to allow the visitors to catch a train. As a result of yesterday's victory over the Meridens, the Bridgeport team plays Middletown this afternoon at the Yale field diamond in furtherance of dissolving the triple tie with that city. The eastern division title of the Connecticut league has ended. Tomorrow they will clash with New Haven on a neutral diamond, before the Yale field. The winner of this three-cornered tie will play Westerly High School, winners of the western division championship, on Saturday at the Yale field.

Springfield here today.
Don't be surprised if you see a few new men holding down some of the positions on the Orator line.
Circus day finds the Orators in Hartford. It might win a game up there, but the chances are very slim.
We are not so far behind the leaders that a good spur would not put us up above 500. Better get after the remedy before it is too late.
Hartford again won yesterday. This time in 14 innings.
"Bore" Bourquin had a fine of $10 slapped on his back by Manager Sawyer, lf., on Holyoke last Friday. "Bore" tried to score from third base before a fly to the outfield had been caught, which offense was plain to everyone, resulting in an easy double play being made. It was such a breach of kids' rules that it aroused the veteran's dander.
Umpire Joseph O'Brien in a game between Orangeburg and Meriden in the Southern League appealed to a police officer to remove a spectator from the grand stand, whom he accused of "poking" the umpire. The officials of the club refused to have the disturber removed fearing civil suit. He remained with a promise to be good. O'Brien is another of the O'Brien umpling in this league.
Cy Miller had a two bagger and a homer yesterday. When Cy hits them it's a case of a chase for the fielders.

(By Edward Payson Weston)
Cobre, Nev., June 23.—The wind and heat prevented me from getting to Topeka until quite late last night. I left Tacoma at 7:45 this morning with a gradual increase in the temperature, arriving at Topeka, twelve miles, at 11:30 a. m. I will stop here until evening when I expect the wind to subside and the temperature to fall, as it did last night.
I consider this the best way to walk in order to avoid taking chances with the heat, which is very intense. One hundred and fourteen miles is pretty good walking for two days and if the heat and wind are not severe I will be able to make a record week. The mornings and evenings are cool and there is excellent walking on the road-bed all the way. I am in perfect health and feel equal to the task. I expect to reach Moor, distance fifty-three miles tonight.

STATE'S ATTORNEY WILL CONSIDER FALLON FINDING

Conclusions of Grievance Committee of Fairfield County Bar In Five Complaints Against Well Known Attorney.
States Attorney Stiles Judson has received the finding of the grievance committee of the Fairfield County Bar in the matter of the charges against Frederick B. Fallon, which have been heard by Charles S. Canfield and Russell Frost, the acting members of the committee. The States Attorney will consider the facts and if they warrant further action will submit them to a judge of the Superior court, who may make such penalty as seems advisable.
The committee finds that in March, 1907, Alderman-Dennis O'Neill employed Mr. Fallon to sell a certain house, the property of the sisters of the former for $2,500 and that Fallon advised O'Neill to take $1,500 in cash, to permit the purchaser to raise the money on a first mortgage, and to make the balance a second mortgage for $1,000. The committee finds that O'Neill was unfamiliar with such transactions, that he followed the advice of Fallon, and lost $1,000 of the value of the second mortgage.
In the matter of the charges preferred by Eugene Benedetto to the committee finds that she employed Fallon to prosecute a claim made by her against the Bridgeport Traction Company, that he received $60 paid her $30 and promised to pay a bill of $10 owed by her to Dr. Frank T. Tukey, which concludes the committee, "he has ever since refused to pay."
The committee further finds that in 1907 Mr. Fallon was employed for Cullaly Arena, Italy, to recover damages for the death of her son; that he settled the claim with the insurance company whose policy the employer held for $600; that he charged $300 for his services; that the charge was excessive; and that, upon demand being made through the Italian consul, Fallon paid an attorney to recover the further sum of $150 to be sent to the mother. It is also found that the charge of $300 was not in pursuance of any agreement.
In the complaint of Patrick McGrath the finding declares that Mr. Fallon agreed to handle McGrath's case for 25 per cent of the settlement, that he received $100 and paid McGrath $65; that when further demand was made he paid $9 more to Mrs. McGrath. The matter related to injuries received by McGrath of an automobile owned by Gabriel Bros.
The committee also finds that in June 1908, of topsey, that he conspired with Mr. Fallon to collect a claim of $250 against the City of Bridgeport for carting services rendered by Keegan, that Fallon received $250 and retained $125, which charge, the committee says "was excessive and unjust."

DEATHS FROM HEAT NOW NUMBER 22

New York, June 24.—Eight more deaths have been added to the list of 14 already reported as a result of the heat wave now holding New York in its grasp. The thermometer yesterday registered 94, but there was a fair breeze blowing. Today, however, the breeze has died down but the heat wave continues unabated and prostrations are reported from all of the city and hospitals in the heat and scores of deaths have been reported among infants, attributable primarily to the heat and humidity. Thousands of people sleep on Coney Island's sands last night, guarded by police reserves. All the public parks have been thrown open to the heat sufferers. Sidewalks in front of tenements and tenement districts are crowded. To add to the suffering the weather is intensely humid.
The price of ice has already advanced on the East Side, where the poor buy in small lots. The children in the tenement districts are the chief sufferers from the heat and scores of deaths have been reported among infants, attributable primarily to the heat and humidity. Thousands of people sleep on Coney Island's sands last night, guarded by police reserves. All the public parks have been thrown open to the heat sufferers. Sidewalks in front of tenements and tenement districts are crowded. To add to the suffering the weather is intensely humid.

First Commercial Aeroplane Soon on the Market

Buffalo, June 24.—Edwin L. Thomas, son of a local merchant, is the head of a company which will shortly experiment with what will be known as America's First Commercial Aeroplane. With the younger Thomas in the venture are Carl Dienstbach of New York, a member of the Aeroplane Club of America, and Dr. Frank George Myers, an inventor from Columbus, O.
Dr. Myers is the inventor of the aeroplane and is now busy assembling its parts in this city. It is believed by those concerned that the machine will be ready in a short time. Details are withheld but it is known that if the experiments are successful the aeroplane will be built on a large scale for commercial purposes. In just what manner the Myers Aeroplane will differ from similar crafts is not divulged but there will be a marked difference, principally in the kind of engine used, the rudder, and the size of the machine.

Workmen Extinguish Flames In Factory of A. & B. Mfg. Co.

In the fire proof building at the plant of the American & British Mfg. Co., where all of the automobile engines made by the company are set up and tested, a fire occurred yesterday afternoon that gave the employees a scare for a few moments. The spark from one of the carburetors is believed to have set fire to some gasoline and the flames spread to the oil that was on the floors. Small fires are common in the room and the employees set out to extinguish it, as there is nothing in the building that will burn. But instead of doing this the flames increased and as they got dangerously near a gasoline tank an alarm was sounded from the company's private box, No. 62. The department responded when it arrived the workmen had extinguished the fire by using sand instead of the extinguishing devices left about the plant for that purpose.
