"THE MERRY WIDOW" TO BE WITH US SOON

MABEL WILBUR

Who Will Sing the Title Role in "The Merry Widow," Which Henry W. Savage Will Offer at Jackson's Theatre, Tuesday, September 7

Announcement is made that the most sprightly, fascinating and delightful of all light opera heroines, "The Merry Widow," is coming to Jackson's Theatre on next Tuesday evening, Sept. 7. Henry W. Savage is sending to this city with this charming lady the same magnificent organization as played here last season, together with his famous English Grand Opera orchestra. The engagement gives every promise of establishing a new high-water mark in the history of theatricals. Its world-wide success is too well known to merit extended comment. The haunting strains of its famous waltz have been played and sung from St. Petersburg to Capetown, and from Montreal to Buenos Ayres, and the subtle charm of its other melodies has lifted hundreds of thousands of persons in every land out of this workaday world into a delectable country where youth and love and romance hold sway. The piece will be given the same elaborate mounting here that characterized its production in New York. Its three settings depicting the interior of the Marsoviaan Embassy in Paris on the night of the State Ball; a beautiful summer garden and the interior of Maxim's famous restaurant in the French Capitol--teem with colorful life and animation and abound in "atmosphere." The magnificence of the costuming has never been equaled on this continent. Heading the company to be heard here are Mabel Wilbur, the American prima donna, and Charles Meakin, the well known baritone, whose impersonations of Sonia, the widow, and Prince Danilo respectively are characterized and infused with youthful impetuosity and abundant high spirits; their dancing of the much discussed waltz in the second act has been aptly described as "the last word in poetic motion." Others in the large company include that finished character comedian, Robert E. Graham, and his original part of the Marsoviaan Ambassador; F. J. McCarthy, Arthur Woolley, Charles Wright, Julia Brewer, Harold Blake and Louise Hilliard. The seat sale starts Friday morning.

CABLE BURIED FOR 27 YEARS

(Special from United Press.) New York, Aug. 31.—The cable repair steamer Marco returned today after a month's "repair cruise." Captain Horn told of the repairs made on two European cables that were laid by the cable steamer Faraday in 1881-1882. Northeast of Sable Island one of the cables was buried several feet in sand bottom and when finally brought up was found to be in a perfect state of preservation. This cable had been buried 27 years. Ordinarily a cable buried two years is covered with a marine growth and badly worn by shifting sands.

All Holland is Rejoicing in the Queen's Birthday

The Queen received thousands of congratulations from every part of the country. This celebration is more elaborate than any before.

It was founded in 1815, shortly after the battle of Waterloo, by Sergeant Colton and now belongs to Colton's grandniece, Mrs. Brown. In the museum are many articles which belonged to Napoleon including the spurs he wore at the battle of Waterloo, and his tea kettle. It is not believed the government will permit the relics to be sold to foreign parties.

INTERESTING POINT INVOLVED IN CASE

Carroll, Appeals from Judgment of City Court in Liquor Case

WAS SHERIFF'S KEEPER

The much continued case of James Carroll, charged with selling liquor without a license, was heard today before Judge Foster in the city court. Carroll was fined $50 and costs, amounting to $15.87. He appealed, bonds being fixed at $100. In the case of George Lannon, who was acting as bartender for Carroll, a nolle was entered. The case presented many novel features in reality in the hands of George Carroll, a brother of James. Last January when he applied for a new license he found that a remonstrance had been made against his place, but the hearing will not take place until next week. According to law the saloon keeper has the privilege of continuing business pending the hearing of the remonstrance. Two months ago the place was attached by Sheriff Beck on behalf of a local brewing company. A sum of over $1,000 was due the company by Carroll. After the attachment had been made Sheriff Beck appointed James Carroll his keeper, and as such Carroll continued the business. This would have been a proper proceeding if the business in question had been for which a license is not required. James Carroll was arrested because it was evidently a case of selling without a license, as his keeper. James Carroll had a right to run the place pending the hearing, but his ownership ceased when the sheriff attached the place. The title then would in the case of any other business be allowed to make sales, but as he had no license and as his keeper was not James Carroll was arrested. The higher court will now have to solve the problem and give the status of a sheriff's keeper in the liquor business.

HORSE CAUGHT IN TROLLEY TRESTLE DROPS IN RIVER

(Special from United Press.) Waterbury, Aug. 31.—A peculiar accident last night tied up traffic on the Watertown trolley line for half an hour and caused the death of a valuable horse owned by J. A. Lovitt. The horse was caught between the trestle and a tie, suspending the animal over the river. All attempts to rescue it proved useless and it finally succumbed to injuries after which the horse was sawed in two and the horse dropped into the river.

SIDED WITH SISTER AGAINST HIS MOTHER

SON GOES INSANE To Be Taken from Jail and Incarcerated in State Insane Retreat

HAD TROUBLE IN SHOP

Tearing the clothes from his back, ripping his bedding into shreds Frank Unidas, who last week was sentenced to jail by Judge Wilder for assault is to-day violently insane, his case being entirely hopeless. Last Thursday the sentence was imposed on Unidas and he was taken to jail. It was noticed that he acted rather peculiar, but this was thought to be because of his strange surroundings. But on Saturday his peculiarities developed into a mania for tearing his clothes, and throwing articles about his cell. All Saturday evening he kept screaming, keeping the other inmates of the jail awake during the long hours. Yesterday he was placed in a padded cell. To-morrow at 9 he will be brought down to the City Court by Investigator Alexander Morrissey of the Charles Department his jail sentence will be suspended and the young man who is only 22 years of age, will be committed to Middletown. Unidas has been an employe of the Standard Manufacturing Company for some time, and was considered a good workman. He had ideas of his own, and was heckled by his fellow employes. During the week he told his fellow men that he was broke, and had to support his mother, and that he was going to take up a subscription to help her along. Some contributed nobly, except one young man with whom he got into an argument. A fight resulted the police being called. Unidas was beating the non-contributor when the police had a hold of him. A fine of $10 with 10 days in jail was imposed from which he appealed upon bonds of $75 which his friends are now ready to furnish, but the jail authorities refuse to give him up. Unidas has been in trouble only recently with his mother over his sister. The sister is 18 years of age, and stayed out late at night. Her mother reprimanded her, while the brother took her part. The result was a quarrel in which the young man hired a flat on Broad street and took his sister in to live with him. The furniture he bought himself as his head of a good sized bank account. Once he told his mother that his father was a horse, and that she, his mother, was a mare for living with him.

FLOOD VICTIMS MAY REACH 2,000

Hundreds of Funerals Are Being Held in Monterey Today

CONDITIONS ARE TERRIBLE

(Special from United Press.) Monterey, Mex., Aug. 31.—Hundreds of funerals are being held in Monterey to-day. Victims of the flood identified by friends and relatives are being buried and a public funeral later in the day will be held for the unidentified. Armies of workmen, under the supervision of the troops are working in the ruins, clearing the streets, tearing down the standing walls of wrecked houses and searching for bodies. Quickly organized relief efforts are caring for the homeless and the hungry. Damaged factories are being overhauled, street car lines are being repaired and the general rehabilitation of Monterey is well under way. The flooded district will be rebuilt with better houses than those swept away. News to-day from the flood sections along the Santa Catarina and San Juan rivers tell of towns wrecked by the waters and homes in the valleys destroyed, destruction of crops and of the deaths of hundreds of people. Conservative business men of Monterey who are familiar with conditions to-day estimate the probable death list at 2,000. About 800 bodies have been recovered according to to-day's report and of these only about one third have been identified.

Washington, Aug. 31.—That the conditions at Monterey, Mexico, following the flood disaster, are even more terrible than have hitherto been reported, is the word received to-day by the State Department from Consul General Hanna. "Please, tell the American press," he says, "that the flood disaster is more terrible than supposed. Twelve hundred estimated dead, 15,000 homeless. Rain continues; terrible suffering must follow. We are doing all we can." The American Red Cross this afternoon sent $2,000 from its emergency fund for the relief of the flood sufferers. An appeal was also made to the people for the United States for contributions.
