"THE SERVANT IN THE HOUSE" COMING FOR THREE NIGHTS

SALE OF SEATS GO ON TOMORROW FOR THE THREE PERFORMANCES BEGINNING MONDAY OCTOBER 4.

A man of mystery, clothed in flowing Oriental robes, who reads the thoughts of those about him and tells of wonderful things he has done in India, is the central character of Charles Rann Kennedy's celebrated play, "The Servant in the House," which Henry Miller is sending to this city for a three days' engagement beginning Monday, Oct. 4, with a matinee on Wednesday, at Jackson's Theatre. Sale of seats opens tomorrow.

This man enters the home of his own brother, a clergyman in the church of England, disguised as a servant. He comes armed with letters of introduction that secure for him the position of butler. Before the end of the play the clergyman and his wife appear to him master of the household and obey his slightest word. They bow to his authority even before he tells them he is the famous bishop of Benares, builder of a mighty church in that "Holy City" of the far East.

As a servant in the house he ejects the powerful and wealthy bishop of Lancashire after trapping him into a confession that his policy in raising church funds is to divert the lion's share to his private purse, "giving as little and getting as much as he can." He gains the confidence of a social outcast who comes to the house with vengeful feelings toward the vicar, and completely changes the man's character. This man, a scavenger, under the butler's influence forgets his wrongs and gladly faces a horrible death in the play.

And before the play has ended every one in the audience realizes that Henry Miller, disguised as a butler, is in reality a symbolical reincarnation of the Christ.

When the bishop of Lancashire says to him: "If I could have my way with you I would have you publicly whipped; I would visit you in the utmost rigor of the law; I would nail you up, sir, for an example!"—the butler significantly replies: "I have encountered similar hostility before my lordship from gentlemen very like your lordship."

The play conveys a powerful moral lesson, but above all it tells an absorbing human story. It is a modern comedy in the best sense of the word in which humor and pathos are excellently blended. Although Charles Rann Kennedy's first work, the leading critics of America and Europe have called it a remarkable example of dramatic construction that strikingly combines comedy, tragedy, pathos, satire, declamation and farce.

TROPHIES FOR DOG SHOW TO BE SHOWN PUBLICLY

Magnificent Array of Gifts for Winning Quadrupeds to be Seen at D. M. Read & Co.—Those Who Have Donated and Classes Which Will Carry off the Prizes—Exhibition Closes To-morrow Morning.

All of the handsome cups which are offered as prizes in connection with the big dog show of the Bridgeport Kennel will be placed on display to-morrow in the windows of the D. M. Read Co. The show will open tomorrow morning at the Park City Rink at 10 o'clock with all of the dogs benched and every arrangement made for the comfort of those who attend the exhibition.

Everyone in Bridgeport should make it a point to visit the show while it is in progress as the club has not spared any expense to make the event one that will be remembered. The club intends establishing the Bridgeport show as an annual event and the members in paving the way for the future success of the club have adhered strictly to the rules of the American Kennel Club.

The charge of admission to the show will be 25 cents and the judging of the dogs will be held on all three days so that this very interesting feature of the show can be witnessed by those who attend on all three days.

The State street trolley cars pass the door of the rink. Any exhibitor desiring to take a dog to the rink this evening or tomorrow morning can secure a pass for the dog at D. F. Smith's sporting goods store, 44 Parkfield avenue.

The cups offered as prizes are: Mayor's cup, given by Hon. Henry Lee for the best local dog in the show, to be won three times before becoming property of the winner.

John W. Kelly who was one of counsel for ornaments to Mrs. Eddy's trusteeship during the recent legal fight which was won by her adherents.

SISTER OF LEBENTHAL THREATENED

Her Evidence in Cole Jewel Robbery Is Corroborative of Story Told By Accuser of the Lebenthals

Endeavored to Save Her Brother By Aiding Their Nephew, But to No Purpose—"Telling the Truth and Sticking By It," She Declares.

Strongly accentuating the damaging testimony given yesterday by Morris Gordon, the former trolley conductor, against Abraham and Ida Lebenthal, store keepers at Newfield and Stratford avenues, charged with receiving and despoiling diamonds and other jewels to the value of several thousand dollars, the property of Mrs. Charles M. Cole of this city, Mrs. David Holzman of Central avenue, a sister of Lebenthal, proved by her testimony in the criminal Superior court yesterday a potent witness for the prosecution.

In the opinion of those who listened to the cross-examination of young Gordon yesterday, the story of the discovery of the jewels in the trolley car by Gordon and his subsequent turning over of them to the police was not materially shaken. The defense hopes to prove that the Lebenthals are victims of a conspiracy. Lebenthal and Gordon's sister, Mrs. Holzman, are brother and sister.

Yesterday afternoon, after Gordon had been cross-examined by Attorney Chamberlain David Holzman, an uncle of Gordon was called. He testified that he resided at 109 Central avenue and that Gordon was a boarder at his house on Jones street. He said that on that night about 1 a. m. Gordon coming home from his work awoke Holzman and his wife and told them he had a bag of jewels in his possession. He testified that he advised him to return the jewels to the company, and Gordon left in the morning with the expressed intention of returning the valuables. When Gordon came home that evening witness asked him how he made out, and learned that he had seen the jewels with the Lebenthals. He called later on Lebenthal to get the jewels for Gordon, because he did not want any trouble or disgrace to be brought on him by returning them. He testified that when Mrs. Holzman brought the jewels home with glass substituted for diamonds, he went to Lebenthal and asked him to give up the real stones. Lebenthal threatened him with arrest, as he did not have any proof that he had the stones, and he declared he would have anybody arrested who annoyed him in this way. He testified that he had seen the jewels in the house and asked to see Gordon. They both went to Gordon's room and talking resulted in Mrs. Lebenthal was walking out of the house witness heard her say:

"Don't break my husband's heart any more, they are our jewels. This time that the witness called on Lebenthal was at his store, where the latter explained to him that his wife had the jewels and that he could not get them from her, but was willing to bear the expense of the whole thing. He told Lebenthal at that time that his sister, Mrs. Holzman, was in the room and was talking to her about the affair, as she did not want to have any trouble, and did not want to appear against Lebenthal, as a witness. The witness replied that his sister need not be a witness against him, but if she was he would tell the lawyers what she would not know what she was saying.

On cross examination by Attorney Greenstein, Holzman denied that he had seen a ring in the store, and diamonds to a Mr. Blitt on July 4th last, as he was never the owner of a diamond in his life. The witness admitted that he had not seen Mr. Blitt for three years until a short time ago at the home of Mrs. Remis, who is a sister of Mrs. Lebenthal. Attorney Greenstein asked: "Did you tell Mr. Blitt that you could not change your story, as you had told it three times, unless you changed it now that you would get in trouble, if it was not settled?" "No, sir, I told him that I had told him the same story, and it was the truth, and that I would stick to the truth."

The next witness was Mrs. Betty Holman, sister of Mr. Lebenthal, who was obliged to give testimony against her brother. She related the same story as her husband about Gordon finding the jewels and coming home late in the night and showing them. She stated that she had personally gone to her brother's to have them return the jewels to Gordon, but he refused, adding that he had been told she later called on Lebenthal, and was told the jewels were buried. On another occasion her brother cautioned her against being a witness against him, should there be any trouble.

Under cross-examination the witness denied that she ever had any trouble with her brother. She said she had called on him for the past three years, while she was a resident of this city. The last time that she was at his store was when he cautioned her about being a witness against him and threatened that if she continued her callings he would be arrested. She said she had called on him for the past three years, while she was a resident of this city. The last time that she was at his store was when he cautioned her about being a witness against him and threatened that if she continued her callings he would be arrested. She said she had called on him for the past three years, while she was a resident of this city.

GAYNOR WELCOMES JEROME WAR CRY

Judge Put it up to Tammany to Choose Between Him and the Fiery District Attorney.

FIREWORKS HAVE ALREADY BEGUN

New York, Sept. 28.—What promises to be the most spectacular campaign in the history of New York city was launched when District Attorney Jerome late last night made a vitriolic assault upon Justice William J. Gaynor, Charles F. Murphy and Daniel F. Colahan, the latter two of the biggest men in Tammany Hall. To-day on all sides it is accepted that Gaynor has turned down the friends of Jerome who asked him to use his influence to have Jerome nominated by Tammany to succeed himself and has compelled Tammany to choose between himself and the fiery district attorney. The result is likely to be a display of oratorical protechnics for the next five weeks that will border on the hysterical and will be peppered with personalities and abuse which will mark a new high record for a greater city campaign.

Friends of Gaynor declare to-day that the local traction situation is the crux of the situation. They declare that Gaynor in his magazine articles and stump speeches has placed the blame for the locking of local traction companies in the office of the district attorney of New York County as the failure to prosecute the "traction thieves" before the statute of limitations intervened to grant immunity was, according to Gaynor, the real reason the backers of the system failed to get any of their funds back. Gaynor, with his friends assert, however, the declaration of war made up on him by Jerome and will answer it with interest. Tammany will to-morrow night nominate for mayor, name a New York County man for comptroller and complete its city ticket with men selected from the Republican nominees. The leaders are considering the names of candidates to oppose Jerome and Charles S. Whitman who will be the Republican nominee for district attorney. Pressure is being brought to bear on former assistant District Attorney Philbin to take the nomination but so far no success. It is still a chance that William K. Hearst will again make an independent race for mayor.

ENGLISH RUBBER CONCERN ACCUSED

American Engineer Says Company is Guilty of Cruelties Against Employees.

London, Sept. 28.—The charges of W. E. Hurdnburg, an American engineer, against the Peruvian-Amazon Company, an English Rubber Concern doing business along the Putumayo river in South America, will be the subject of a parliamentary discussion at to-night's session. Hurdnburg accuses the company of unspeakable cruelties against its employees, most members of the Hutuoto Indian tribe which were described in recent United Press dispatches.

Secretary Gray of the Foreign Office has been much impressed with Hurdnburg's story and is pushing the investigation, though it is admitted there is little chance of official interference owing to the danger of international complications. The secretary will make an explanation of the matter at to-night's session. The London Truth, which first gave publicity to the charges, resumes its story to-day, declaring that the Peruvian-Amazon Company has been guilty of burning the natives to death, saturating them with kerosene and then setting them afire. Many Indians have been put to death through the charges, many being suspected of furnishing an insufficient amount of rubber. It was announced by agents that several hundred villages have been visited so far with the deplorable results. The charges are based on other witnesses besides Hurdnburg, a number of South Americans being interviewed by Truth.

ITCHING SCALV PILLS

On Both His Legs—Scatched Until It Bleed—Lasted Nearly Two Years in Spite of Doctor's Prescription and Neighbors' Advice.

EASY, ECONOMICAL CURE BY 2 SETS OF CUTICURA

"Three years ago small pimples appeared on both of my lower limbs. I scratched them until the blood would flow as from a wound and itching would be more severe towards evening and at bed time. I went to my doctor in my vicinity who gave me a prescription. This would stop the itching for a day or so but afterwards it would be still worse. After using several dollars' worth of this salve I tried several other remedies but to no avail. The neighbors advised using sulphur and lard but it was all fruitless."

"A few months afterwards I saw an advertisement in a newspaper of the Cuticura Remedies. I at once sent for Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent Pills, but thinking they would be no better than the others, I did not use them. My surprise after the first order was used the scales disappeared and the itching ceased and after using another order of the Cuticura Remedies I was completely cured, after suffering for nearly two years. I shall be glad to write to any one who may be interested in my case. Carl Halldeman, Marshall, Wis., October 28, 1908."

The constant use of Cuticura Soap, assisted when necessary by Cuticura Ointment, not only preserves, purifies and beautifies the skin, scalp, hair and hands but prevents clogging of the pores, the common cause of pimples, blackheads, inflammation, irritation, redness and roughness, and other unwholesome conditions. Guaranteed absolutely pure.

Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent Pills, are in the form of a small, neat, white, round tin, with the name of the product printed thereon. The Cuticura Remedies are made in the United States. Solely by the Cuticura Remedies Co., 155 N. 2nd St., St. Paul, Minn.
