THE RIGHT TO STRIKE DENIED.

So far as we recall, there have been no judicial decisions denying the right of an employee to discharge himself—that is, to strike for betterment of wage or other conditions—provided the strike is not accompanied by violence or intimidation, or by boycott in cases connected with interstate commerce. There appears now to be a disposition on the part of the National Association of Manufacturers to deny this right and perhaps to further test it in the courts.

In his speech at Seattle, President Tatt expressed his approval of a "bill which should regulate our merchant marine in such a way so as to establish American lines between New York and other ports and South-American ports and between our coast ports and the Orient and the Philippines—that is, the long discussed ship subsidies bill—and to pay these subsidies he would use the "profit from our foreign mails of from six to eight million dollars a year." He reasons that this procedure would not be any more of "a contribution to private companies out of the U. S. Treasury" than are our similar contributions "by our protective tariff laws, by our river and harbor bills, and by our reclamation service." Protectionists are likely to take sharp exception to this reference to the tariff, and the Post Office department which is making strenuous endeavors to abate its heavy annual deficit, may not be pleased over the diversion of some six or eight millions from its revenue to private companies.
